BOODLE INQUIRY ADDS MYSTERY TO SMITH DEATH

Reveal He Was to Be Federal Witness.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 12.—F. Lynden Smith, as state director of public works, was to have appeared in Chicago before the federal grand jury investigating a reported shakedown conspiracy involving politicians, contractors, and labor unions, it was learned tonight.

Smith, as collector of the Horner administration slush fund, a 2 per cent levy on salaries of state employés, was to have testified here as a defendant in a suit for an accounting of the funds.

But Smith is dead. His body was found in a Springfield hospital bathtub Saturday. The cause of his death has not been determined. The revelation of his importance in the Chicago inquiry heightened the mystery surrounding his death and gave new impetus to its investigation. Authorities announced they would expand their attempts to ascertain the real cause of Smith's death.

Horner Unapproachable.

With Gov. Henry Horner still ill and unapproachable in the governor's mansion except by members of the so-called bedside cabinet of unelected officials, other developments today were numerous:

1. Lieut. Gov. John Stelle returned to the capital. The man who would succeed to office if Horner dies, or becomes acting governor if Horner is replaced, conferred with supporters on his future course of action. At a Democratic rally Stelle denounced Horner's self-appointed advisers as "political termites." [Details on page 9.]

2. At the same rally State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, Democratic minority leader in the house, advocated appointment of a committee of clergymen and physicians to investigate the governor's physical and mental condition and determine whether he should continue in the executive office. Adamowski's proposal was applauded by the 1,600 who attended the rally.

3. Ray Edmundson, state president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared here that affairs of the state mining board were in a tangle and that "if Horner can't take charge of state affairs some one should replace him."

Dig Into Lucas Election.

4. Federal agents began an investigation of campaign expenditures of the Horner forces in 1938, when they elected Scott W. Lucas to the United States senate. Incomes of all concerned with the state administration's 2 per cent slush fund continued under scrutiny.

5. Coroner W. L. Dragoo of Sangamon county received a preliminary report on an examination of Smith's vital organs for traces of poison. Tests have disclosed none of the more common poisons, but chemists are continuing their investigation. The coroner again postponed the inquest pending an opportunity to question Smith's widow.

6. The funeral for Smith was held this afternoon in the state armory at Pontiac, his home city. Delegations of politicians, highway contractors with whom he dealt, and highway department workers and state police whom he bossed, attended the services. [Details on page 8.]

BUILDING TRADES WITNESS

Smith's death, it was disclosed, complicated the job of prosecutors directing the Chicago federal grand jury's antitrust investigation of the building trades. They must now proceed on documentary evidence in many cases where it was believed Smith could have given the grand jury first hand information.

Smith's position made him supervisor of all state highway construction and maintenance in which huge amounts of concrete are used. Subpenas for records of 20 firms dealing in ready mixed concrete and mobile mixing equipment were issued yesterday in Chicago. It was understood Leo F. Tierney, special assistant attorney general, obtained basic material for this phase of his investigation from Smith last fall.

Tierney admitted in Chicago tonight that he had talked with Smith and had intended to question him again. Beyond this Tierney would not discuss the case.

It was understood from other

Crazed Cripple Attacks Girl; Kills 2 and Self

A crazed cripple entered a flat at 1258 West 83d street yesterday afternoon and attempted to rape a girl 16 years old after shooting and killing her grandfather and grandmother. He then shot himself fatally.

The slain couple were Hugh Welch, 72, a retired locomotive engineer and owner of the building, and his wife, Mary, 70. The killer was Howard Larimer, 17, a student at Morrill school for crippled children, a branch of Lindblom High school. Larimer, who lived at 2803 Union avenue, died of a head wound in St. George's hospital.

Bernadette Welch was the victim of the attempted rape. She was hysterical for hours after the shooting and was placed in the care of a physician.

Neighbors Hear Noises.

Lieut. Kyran Phelan of the detective bureau learned that she was in the flat of Mrs. Mercedes Carlson on the third floor [the Welch home is on the first floor] until a few minutes before the shooting.

It was uncertain when and how Larimer entered the Welch flat. Neighbors, however, recalled hearing muffled noises in the apartment, but failed to recognize them as shots.

Mary Ann Welch, 17, sister of Bernadette and an acquaintance of Larimer at the Morrill school, reached home about 4:15 p. m. Her screams, when she saw her grandparents dead, brought Mrs. Carlson. Mrs. Carlson walked into a bedroom and saw Larimer, nude, struggling with Bernadette. A brace which he wore on a crippled right leg had been removed.

Fires Shot at Woman.

Mrs. Carlson screamed at him to release the girl. Larimer seized his pistol and fired at Mrs. Carlson, but missed. His pistol was empty, and while he was reloading it Bernadette and Mrs. Carlson fled to Mrs. Carlson's flat. Larimer then shot himself in the right temple.

Larimer had been regarded a brilliant student, but recently had been acting erratically, according to his father, Frank. Mary Ann Welch on Feb. 21 was designated by the board of governors of the Illinois Association for the Crippled as the outstanding crippled girl in the Chicago area. Her disability is a weak heart.

Walter Welch, father of the two girls, owns a barber shop and formerly was a county highway policeman. He and his wife were absent when the tragedy occurred. The family lives in the grandparents' home.

SOMEBODY (WAS IT GRACIE FIELDS?) GOT BACK THAT $2 FEE

Los Angeles, Cal., March 12 (AP).—A couple giving the names Mario Bianchi and Grace Stansfield appeared at the marriage license window today and started filling out an application.

To reporters they denied they were Gracie Fields, English stage and screen star, and Monty Banks, her manager, director and producer.

The Motion Picture Almanac gives the real names of Miss Fields and Banks as Grace Stansfield and Mario Bianchi.

After Bianchi had paid the $2 license fee to the clerk he snatched the document away, tore it into bits and left the office with Miss Stansfield. A few minutes later she returned and asked for the $2, which was given her.

FRANCE ALLOWS FLEA TRAINERS BETTER RATIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 12.—This was a happy day in France for bearded women, flea trainers, snake hunters, professional killers of rats and other vermin, and members of a dozen other outlandish professions because they were included in the professions whose members will be entitled to extra rations when food cards are issued. Ration cards will be distributed after the April's census. All farmers, fishermen, miners and manual laborers, of course, were included, but, in addition, government specialists drew up a list of odd trades whose labors are considered arduous enough to justify extra rations. These include professional fasters, those who grow leeches in stagnant ponds, jugglers, circus horsewomen, and sword swallowers.

Governor Will Use Troops to Halt PWA Dam

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 12 [Special].—Gov. Leon C. Phillips today announced that he would call out the National Guard tomorrow to protect the state's rights in a dispute with the federal government over the 20 million dollar Grand river dam in northeastern Oklahoma.

Gov. L. C. Phillips.

The militant, red haired executive said he would declare martial law in the vicinity of the dam and send troops to the area to prevent completion until the dispute is settled.

Phillips said he decided to act at once after concluding he had reached a stalemate with the Public Works administration, sponsors of the dam, in his demand for $850,000 for state highways and bridges to be flooded in the dam reservoir.

Dam Nearly Finished.

National Guardsmen will establish their rule only over an arch where the last of the concrete would be poured, to permit closing the gates and impounding water. Work on the huge hydro-electric project had been considered two weeks from finished.

On several previous occasions the governor threatened to use the National Guard if necessary to see that the state is paid for lands and public improvements to be flooded by the lake that will invade four counties.

Phillips recently rejected a PWA suggestion from Washington that the issue be settled in the courts.

Too Little Land Bought.

The Grand River project has been beset by troubles almost since its inception. Failure to purchase sufficient land hindered the work for months and caused political repercussions that included resignation of the manager.

The first manager, R. V. L. Wright, a protégé of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, resigned last Dec. 1.

Few Oklahomans would be surprised if Phillips should take similar action at the 50 million dollar Denison flood control-hydroelectric project on Red river if it became necessary to enforce his claims for damages to state property.

RUSSIA RECEIVES KARELIAN ISTHMUS UNDER PEACE PACT; CEASE FIRING TODAY

Finns Shocked by Harsh Terms; Diet Studies Treaty.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 13, Wednesday [Passed by Censor].—Finland's war with Russia has ended.

Premier Risto Ryti, who negotiated the peace in Moscow, has been president of the Bank of Finland for many years and at the last elections was offered the presidency of Finland, but declined.

His close friendship with Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustav Mannerheim and Ryti's great authority in Finland are expected to encourage the public to accept the peace terms which are described by Finns as repulsive, but which, under the circumstances, are believed to be unavoidable.

Finnish People Shocked.

The Finnish people who were still awake as this dispatch is being written were shocked and bewildered by the harsh terms which Moscow had demanded. They learned of the terms this morning in radio broadcasts from Berlin and Moscow. There was no official statement here. The foreign office declined to comment.

The diet [parliament] is in session and is believed to be studying the terms of the treaty. It was announced that the Moscow pact will not be binding until it is approved by parliament.

Activities of the diet were kept a closely guarded secret this morning as they have been since the war started.

The population of Helsingfors appeared calm, stoical when it went to bed last night. Probably only a few Finns heard the broadcasts from Germany and Russia.

Closes Liquor Shops.

The only indication that the atmosphere is tense was the government's decision to close indefinitely and without warning the shops of the state alcohol monopoly. Restaurants continue to serve one drink with a meal.

Reports from London and Paris last night, stating that 50,000 British and French troops were ready to help Finland, failed to create much interest here. The only useful force which the empires could have sent to Finland in the present arctic winter conditions are seasoned and specially equipped Canadians.

Doubt Value of Help.

The Finns said they were not certain that Great Britain's convoy could have gone directly to Petsamo and that the empires' forces could have forced soviet troops from Finland's Arctic seaport.

What puzzled the Finns was the apparent eagerness of Britain and France to help Finland fight Russia and their apparent disinclination to take action against Russia in the south, particularly at Baku, site of soviet oil reserves in the Caucasus.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN FLEE RUSSIAN PORT ON BORDER, SAY TURKS

ANKARA, Turkey, March 12 (AP).—Russia was reported tonight to be removing all women and children from Batum, her oil port on the Black sea. Batum is the terminal for the pipe line tapping Russia's important oil fields at Baku and is within range of Turkish border artillery. In event of war between Russia and Turkey the port might be the first objective of bombing attacks.

While Turkish attention was centered on the possibility of trouble from Russia following the Finnish-Russian peace, Turkish officials said they saw no reason for war. They added, however, that any Russian pressure to draw Turkey from Britain or France, or to get concessions affecting Turkey's control of the Dardanelles, would meet "firm and instantaneous" refusal. Russia, the officials also declared, appreciates the "disastrous consequences" that would follow any Russian attack on the Balkans or the near east.

Turkey's supreme war council concluded a series of meetings at which all phases of national defense and collaboration with the French-British allies were proclaimed satisfactory.

THE SPOILS; WHAT MOSCOW TAKES; WHAT SHE ASKED

Under the peace terms reported by Moscow, Finland makes these concessions to soviet Russia:

1. All of the Karelian isthmus, including Viipuri (Viborg), and certain islands in Viipuri bay.
2. Thirty year lease (at $120,000 annually) on Hango military and naval base and surrounding territory.
3. Certain islands in the Gulf of Finland.
4. Entire shore of Lake Ladoga, including three towns.
5. The Finnish parts of the Sredni and Rybachi peninsulas in the Arctic.
6. A great slice of northeastern Finland, including Kuolajarvi.
7. Permission to build a railway linking the White sea in northern Russia with the Finnish railway terminus at Kemijarvi, giving Russia access to the Gulf of Bothnia.
8. Permission to transport Russian goods across the Petsamo arctic area from Russia to Norway, duty free.

Moscow in its original demands last October asked for the lease on Hango peninsula, for five islands in the Gulf of Finland, and for all of the Petsamo area, including the Sredni and Rybachi strips. In other respects the terms are harsher than the October demands.

In October the Russians had asked only for a strip of the Karelian isthmus north of Leningrad, and demilitarization and correction of the isthmus frontier, not demanding Viipuri, all of Lake Ladoga and its shore towns. In exchange Russia had offered Finland a portion of soviet Karelia twice the size of the Finnish territory requested. Under the peace treaty the Finns get no compensating territory.

Peace in North Greeted with Joy and Grief

News of the signing of the peace treaty between Finland and Russia was received with mingled feelings of satisfaction and disappointment in the various European capitals. The reactions:

LONDON—British officials, tho obviously disappointed, were silent. Military experts said the end of the war enables Russia to send wheat and oil to Germany. They declared peace makes possible a big German drive on the western front. The experts also said the pact wrecked plans for a British and French drive on Germany from Scandinavia by sending troops to Finland's aid.

BERLIN—Germans described the peace as a defeat for England. They said Germany—no longer menaced by the possible landing of a British and French force in Scandinavia—can concentrate its activities and energies on the western front.

ROME—Authoritative Italians hailed the end of the war with "the greatest satisfaction." They regarded it as an important step toward preventing the spread of the European war by British and French intervention.

COPENHAGEN—There was general uneasiness in the Scandinavian capitals of Norway, Sweden, and Denmark on what will happen to Finland. Here are two samples of the questions being asked: "Will the Finnish army submit?" and "Will the Finnish public bow to the Russian conqueror?"

OSLO—Norwegian officials were silent. The first public reaction was spontaneous joy that the soviet attack on Finland had ceased. This quickly gave way to bitter expressions over the treaty's "cruelness." Deep sympathy was expressed for the Finnish people.

PEACE MAPS.
Turn to the back page for maps of Finland showing Russia's prewar demands and the terms of the Russo-Finnish peace treaty.

MOSCOW, March 13, Wednesday (AP).—Soviet Russia early today announced officially the signing of a peace treaty with Finland. The treaty ends the 105 days of invasion and wrests extensive spoils from the Finns.

Russia obtains Finland's defense bastions on the Baltic and Arctic seas and gains possession of the whole fortified Karelian isthmus, where uncounted Russian and Finnish dead lie beneath the trampled snows.

The treaty must be ratified by the Finns within three days, but hostilities were to cease, under its terms, at noon today (3 a. m. Chicago time).

Rents Out Its "Gibraltar."

Finland obtains peace, a yearly rental of 8 million Finnish marks (about $120,000) in return for a 30 year lease on her Hango "Gibraltar" guarding the mouths of the Gulfs of Finland and Bothnia, and the withdrawal of soviet troops from the Petsamo Arctic district.

With the Karelian isthmus Russia gets the entire Mannerheim line, Viipuri (which once was Finland's third largest city), some islands in Viipuri bay, and other islands in the Gulf of Finland.

Russia gets all the shores of Lake Ladoga, the largest lake in Europe, and three coastal towns.

Finns Lose in North.

In far northern Finland Russia gets a great slice of territory, including the town of Kuolajarvi and the transfer of the Finnish parts of the Sredni and Rybachi peninsulas.

Finland agrees not to maintain any Finnish warships, submarines, or warplanes in its Arctic waters, but is allowed small coast guard vessels.

Finland will permit Russia to build a railroad from the White sea in northern Russia to link with the Finnish shore of the Gulf of Bothnia. Russia also is granted transit of goods, duty free, across the Petsamo corridor from Russia to Norway.

Regains Grip on Baltic.

Russia's grip on the northern Baltic was virtually clinched by the terms of the peace treaty. Fortified with strategic concessions wrung peaceably from Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania last fall and with the new concession of the Hango base, Russian guns now can command the entire Gulf of Finland, the mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia, and a broad sweep of the Baltic looking southward.

Thus within a few months Russia has all but regained the Baltic position she held before the world war.

An exchange of papers of ratification of the treaty is scheduled to take place in Moscow.

However under the pact at 10 a. m. on March 15 (1 a. m. Chicago time) Finnish and soviet troops are to begin to withdraw to their new frontiers, a map of which was appended to the treaty.

[In Helsingfors last night shocked Finns said the fate of the war still was up to the Finnish parliament—there was no indication it had ratified the treaty.]

The treaty was described in the official Moscow communique as one which will "create mutually stable and mutually peaceful relations," based on precise conditions of "enduring mutual security"—especially for the soviet cities of Leningrad, at one end of the Karelian isthmus; Murmansk, in the Arctic, and the railroad which connects them.

[Germany profits by the treaty, because she can now hope for real economic help from a Russia which no longer is engaged in war and can, perhaps, extend her own influence in Scandinavia. Russia also is militarily free to look to her fences on her Balkan border. The western empires knew all this—and made urgent, last minute offers of an expeditionary force of 50,000 men to defend Finland.]

War's Greatest Battleground.

The Karelian isthmus has been the greatest battleground of the war. Great masses of soviet troops pierced the Mannerheim line, after weeks of assault, and encircled but did not actually capture Viipuri.

Russia's original demands included only a comparatively small section of the isthmus.

On the Hango peninsula which, under the treaty, it takes by lease along with surrounding waters, Russia will establish a naval base "capable of defending the entrance of the Gulf of Finland from aggression."

Finnish troops will evacuate Hango within 10 days from the effective date of the treaty.

Arctic Bases Barred.

Besides promising to maintain no warships of any size, warplanes, or submarines in Arctic waters, Finland also, under the treaty, will establish no military or naval bases of consequence on her Arctic coast.

The treaty stipulation for a railroad connecting Kemijarvi [Finland] with Kandalaksa, on an arm of the White sea, gives Russia the overland route to the Gulf of Bothnia which her troops tried vainly to force above Finland's "wasp waist." Russia also gets a large section of Finland east of Markajarvi, in this region.

Nonaggression Alliance.

Kemijarvi is the eastern terminus of the Finnish railway which runs to the gulf; the soviet troops never were able to capture it. Kandalaksa is on the Russian Murmansk-Leningrad railway, which the Finns at one time claimed they had cut.

The treaty contains a nonaggression alliance.

Finnish-soviet trade negotiations are to open as soon as the treaty goes into effect.

The treaty, an official communique said, was signed at 2:30 a. m. today [5:30 p. m., Tuesday, Chicago time. Before that, however, its general terms were announced by the D. N. B., German news agency].

The peace treaty was signed by Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov, A. A. Zhdanov, secretary of the central executive committee of the communist party; Brigade Commander Vasilieffsky for the Russians, and Premier Risto Ryti, Juho Paasikivi, Gen. Karl Rudolf Walden, and Vaino Voionmaa for Finland.

France Eases Restrictions on Picture Taking in Public

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 12.—Camera fans were assured today that the government will interpret leniently the wartime ban on taking pictures in public provided military objects and official personages are not filmed. It was hinted that even snapshots of poilus will be permitted provided a soldier's girl friend or one of his family is behind the scene.

British War Office Agrees No Wives Are 'Unmarried'

LONDON, March 12 (AP).—War Secretary Oliver Stanley today bowed to the wishes of Lady Astor, announcing the term "unmarried wife" no longer would be used in designating allowances for soldiers' dependents. Instead, "unmarried dependent living as wife" will be used, as the archbishop of Canterbury suggested.

FINNS SEEK RAID SHELTERS WHILE AWAITING PEACE

Battles Rage Near Viipuri and on Isthmus Front.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 12 (AP).—In a confusing welter of rumors of peace, war, truces and new negotiations the only solidly realistic contributions to the situation for the people of Helsingfors today were a short air raid alarm at 4 p. m., and an army communique which said Russia had lost 15 more bombing planes over Finland.

The communique, dated at noon showed that the Russians still were trying to take Viipuri.

The half-hour air raid alarm, indicating the presence of enemy bombers near the capital, passed without a plane being sighted over Helsingsfors.

Push On Viipuri Bay.

The Finnish army communique admitted that Red army forces had pushed farther along the northwest shore of Viipuri bay, tightening their death grip on the battered city where the first shot of the Finnish war of independence was fired 22 years ago.

[A Russian communique said Red units occupy strategic positions on four sides of Viipuri.]

East of Viipuri on the Karelian Isthmus the Finns reported beating back powerful Russian attacks except near Pali, where the Russians were conceded to have broken thru the Finnish defenses.

The Finns said their artillery had scattered Russian units at Paakkola attempting to advance across the ice at Vuoksen and had repulsed enemy storm troops near Ayrapaa. Lively fighting was reported on the front between Vuosalmi and Lake Ladoga.

Russian Troops Bombed.

Bombings which accompanied the Moscow peace discussions yesterday were confined to southern Finland where at least two civilians were killed in towns behind the war zone.

The Finnish air force struck back, bombing and strafing moving columns of Russian troops, artillery and tanks.

Finnish figures now show that more than 600 Russian planes have been shot down in the war and approximately 1,500 tanks and 300 guns either taken or destroyed.

Black bordered notices of the death of soldiers who have fought and died for Finnish independence continued to appear in the newspapers.

PARIS FIRES ON GERMAN PLANE IN RAID BY DAY

PARIS, March 12 (AP).—A German reconnaissance plane flew over the Paris region this morning, drawing fire from the capital's antiaircraft batteries. There was no air raid alarm and the capital did not immediately learn the cause of the cannonading. Last night Paris was shaken by antiaircraft fire at another plane.

The British-French high command's communique tonight said of western front activity: "Local artillery actions." The morning communique said there was nothing important to report. Military dispatches stated a French patrol was ambushed by the Germans in the Nied river sector last night but managed to return to its own lines without losses.

French Plane Shot Down.

BERLIN, March 12 (AP).—The German high command announced today: "On the western front, no special events. The air force reconnoitered over eastern France. One French plane of the Potez 63 type was shot down by antiaircraft artillery."

DIES ON WAY TO HOSPITAL.

Ralph Hook, 54 years old, a farmer residing near Gurnee in Lake county, died yesterday in Rockford while he was being taken by friends to a hospital.

Text of Finnish-Russian Peace Treaty

"Peace treaty between the union of soviet socialist republics and the republic of Finland.

"The presidium of the supreme soviet of the U. S. S. R. on one side and the president of Finland on the other side, guided by a desire to put an end to the hostilities that arose between the two countries and to create stable and mutually peaceful relations, convinced that a definition of the exact conditions of enduring mutual security, including the security of the cities of Leningrad and Murmansk, as well as the Murmansk railway, corresponds to the interests of both contracting parties, found it necessary to conclude a peace treaty for these purposes and appointed their authorized representatives:

"The presidium of the supreme soviet of the U. S. S. R.: Vyacheslav M. Molotov, chairman of the council of peoples commissars of the U. S. S. R., and people's commissar for foreign affairs; Andrey A. "A more detailed description of the frontier line will be determined by a mixed commission of representatives of the contracting parties, which commission must be formed within 10 days from the date of the signing of this treaty.

"ARTICLE 3—Both contracting parties undertake mutually to refrain from any attack upon each other, not to conclude any alliances, and not to participate in any coalitions against one of the contracting parties.

"ARTICLE 4—The republic of Finland expresses consent to lease to the soviet union for 30 years with an annual payment by the soviet union of 8,000,000 Finnish marks [about $120,000] the peninsula of Hanko [Hango] and the waters surrounding it in a radius of five miles to the south and east and three miles to the west and north of the peninsula, and a number of islands adjoining it in accordance with the appended map, for the purpose of creating there a naval base capable of defending the entrance to the Gulf of Finland against aggression; for the purpose of protecting the naval base the soviet union is granted the right to maintain there at its own expense land and air armed forces of necessary strength.

"Within 10 days from the date when this treaty becomes effective the government of Finland shall withdraw all its troops from the peninsula of Hanko [Hango], and the peninsula of Hanko together with adjoining islands shall pass under the administration of the U. S. S. R., in accordance with this article of the treaty.

"ARTICLE 5—The U. S. S. R., undertakes to withdraw its troops from the Petsamo region voluntarily ceded to Finland by the soviet state in accordance with the peace treaty of 1920. Finland undertakes, as provided by the peace treaty of 1920, to refrain from maintaining in waters along her coast of the Arctic ocean naval or other armed ships excepting armed ships of less than 100 tons displacement, which Finland has a right to maintain without restriction, also not more than 15 naval and other armed ships with a tonnage of not more than 400 tons each.

"Finland undertakes, as was provided by this same treaty, not to maintain in said waters any submarines and armed aircraft. Finland similarly undertakes as was provided by the same treaty not to establish on that coast military ports, naval bases and naval repair shops of a greater capacity than necessary for the above-mentioned ships and their armaments.

"ARTICLE 6—As provided by the treaty of 1920, the soviet union and its citizens are granted the right of free transit across the Petsamo region and back. The soviet union is granted the right to institute a consulate in the Petsamo region. Freights in transit across the Petsamo region from the U. S. S. R. to Norway, as likewise freights in transit across the same region from Norway to the U. S. S. R., are exempted from inspection and control, excepting only such control as is necessary for regulation of transit communications.

Exempt from Customs Duties.

"Said freights also are exempted from payment of customs duties, transit and other duties. The above mentioned control of transit freights is permitted only in the form observed in similar cases in accordance with established usages in international communications.

"Citizens of the U. S. S. R., traveling across the Petsamo region to Norway and back from Norway to the U. S. S. R., have the right of free transit passage on the basis of passports issued by the soviet organs concerned.

"Soviet nonarmed aircraft shall have the right to maintain air service between the U. S. S. R. and Norway across the Petsamo region with observance of general operating rules.

Plan to Build Railway.

"ARTICLE 7—The government of Finland shall grant the soviet union the right of transit of goods between the U. S. S. R. and Sweden, and with the aim of developing this transit along the shortest railroad route the U. S. S. R. and Finland find it necessary to build—if possible, in the course of the year 1940, each party on its territory—a railway line connecting the town of Kandalaska with the town of Kemijarvi.

"ARTICLE 8—When this treaty comes into force economic relations between the contracting parties will be restored, and with this end in view the contracting parties will enter negotiations for conclusion of a trade treaty.

"ARTICLE 9—The present peace treaty comes into force immediately upon being signed and is subject to subsequent ratification. The exchange of ratification instruments shall take place within 10 days in Moscow. The present treaty is made in two originals—in the Russian, Finnish, and Swedish languages—in Moscow the 12th of March, 1940.

ASSAIL BRITAIN'S MEAT RATIONING AS BLOW AT POOR

Socialists Prepare Fight in Commons.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 12.—Whatever progress her economic warfare against Germany is making, England herself is not emerging from the fray unscathed. The effects of the meat rationing which went into force yesterday were confusing. Extreme Socialists describe the rationing as merely a system of restricting the consumption of meat by the poor.

Any one who can afford to eat in restaurants can get all the meat he wants, while homes are restricted to about 36 cents worth of meat a week for each person. This sum buys about a pound and a half of medium quality meat. The rationing does not apply to poultry, game, offal, and sausages with less than 50 per cent meat.

Restaurant Business Leaps.

The rationing has increased the restaurant business enormously and, according to butchers, has popularized sausages as a dinner dish for home consumption.

Socialists declare they will make a house of commons debate tomorrow on a 700,000,000 pounds credit [about $2,639,000,000] an occasion to question the entire food distribution program of the government.

Under an order issued today importation of beer will be banned after March 25 except by permission of the board of trade. The order adds more imports to the restricted list, including cereal breakfast foods, cameras, photographic accessories, clocks, watch cases, and a large variety of electrical goods.

Parliament May Be Prolonged.

The war's effects upon the normal democratic electoral system became apparent when the house of lords discussed the question of prolonging the life of parliament, which normally ends in November. It seems certain that a measure will be adopted which, in effect, will be the government in power voting itself an extraordinary tenure of office as a war emergency. This, of course, would continue the Neville Chamberlain government in power without forcing it to divert its efforts from the war to fight a new general election.

SOVIET-FINNISH WAR HISTORY AND LIST OF DEMANDS

Reds' Early Offer of Land Concession Rejected.

The soviet union's military machine brought war to a new quarter of Europe, the snow clad Russian-Finnish frontier, by launching a swift attack there on Nov. 30—a war that aroused grave apprehension thruout Finland's Scandinavian neighbors and became an important factor in the larger European conflict.

Weeks of diplomatic negotiations, beginning early last October, had failed to bring an agreement on Russia's demand that the Finnish frontier be demilitarized and moved back out of "gun range" of Leningrad, that Finland lease Russia a small section of Finnish territory near the entrance of the Gulf of Finland [presumably Hango head and the town of Hango] for military purposes, yield title to some small islands in the Gulf of Finland, a strip of the Karelian isthmus north of Leningrad, and portions of the Rybachi peninsula on the Arctic ocean, in the Petsamo area.

In return, Russia offered Finland a large slice of soviet Karelia.

Three Others Yield First.

The Russian demands on Finland were presented shortly after Moscow asked and got sweeping concessions from her three Baltic neighbors, Estonia, Lithuania, and Latvia. Those agreements were fruits of the German soviet pact and made Russia dominant on the Baltic.

But Finland was not so tractable. She agreed only to part of Russia's demands and this is what followed:

Nov. 30—Red army strikes at Finnish defense lines on Karelian isthmus; Helsingfors bombed.

Dec. 2—Finnish "People's government," set up near frontier, recognized by Russia; it "grants" Russian demands.

Dec. 3—Five Karelian isthmus towns given up by Finns, reporting heavy losses for Russians.

Dec. 8—Finns report 200,000 Russians halted in heavy fighting along isthmus.

America Gives Credit.

Dec. 10—United States gives Finland $10,000,000 credit for nonmilitary supplies.

Dec. 14—League of nations expels Russia as aggressor.

Dec. 19—Great Britain and France announce decision to help Finns.

Dec. 22—Coldest winter in years hampers northern Russian drive.

Dec. 28—Viipuri brought under shell fire of long range guns.

Jan. 8—44th and 163d Russian army divisions destroyed near Suomussalmi.

Jan. 16—President Roosevelt recommends further financial aid to Finland.

Jan. 27—Finns report halting Russian attempt to flank Mannerheim line.

Big Offensive Launched.

Feb. 1—Russia launches big offensive on Karelian isthmus aimed at Viipuri.

Feb. 19—Russians report capturing three towns on Gulf of Finland, cutting off Koivisto, western archor of Mannerheim line.

Feb. 19—Finns report wiping out Russian 18th division northeast of Lake Ladoga, killing or capturing 18,000 men.

Feb. 21—Russia reports occupation of town and fortress of Koivisto.

March 2—Russians report capturing railroad station and southern part of Viipuri.

March 6—Finnish delegation leaves Helsingfors for Moscow to discuss Russian peace proposals.

March 11—Russians report completely surrounding Viipuri and penetrating northeastern part of city.

Empires Promise Aid.

March 11—Britain discloses she and France ready to give full aid to Finland if requested.

March 12—France discloses that 50,000 British and French troops, fully equipped, are ready to embark for Finland immediately if Finland asks for them.

March 13—Moscow announces that a peace treaty has been signed and an immediate armistice agreed on.

CHINESE CRUISER FOUGHT IN ERROR BY PORTUGUESE

HONGKONG, March 12.—A Chinese customs cruiser and a Portuguese patrol vessel fought off Portuguese Macao yesterday. A Chinese woman official was killed, four Chinese customs officers were seriously wounded, and four others were arrested by the Portuguese. According to reports from Macao the cruiser approached Portuguese waters to search junks for smuggled wolfram ore. When alleged smugglers fired on the cruiser the Portugues vessel mistook it for a pirate craft and opened fire.

Red Cross Sends Poles $100,000 Worth of Supplies

He reported also that 25,000 suits of underwear for women and children may be shipped.

BRITISH BOMBERS HIT U-BOAT OFF HELIGOLAND BIGHT

Report It 'Probably' Sank; Five Vessels Lost.

LONDON, March 12 (AP).—The air ministry announced today that a British bomber had attacked a German submarine off the German coast and was believed to have sunk it.

The submarine was attacked and hit, the ministry added, while the plane was making a reconnaissance flight on Monday afternoon over Heligoland bight. The U-boat was at the entrance to Schelling roads.

Another British announcement said a plane probably sank another U-boat in the same area on March 4.

The admiralty reported that the German steamer Hannover, which was fired and abandoned by her crew when intercepted by a British warship off Puerto Rico on March 7, has been salvaged and towed to port as a prize.

Five Ships Sunk or Beached.

Sinking of the 3,745 ton British freighter Gardenia was disclosed with the landing of 33 surviving crew members at an east coast port. They said the ship sank after an explosion. listed as follows:

Eulota, Netherlands tanker, 6,236 gross tons; sank after explosion off south English coast; crew of 42 rescued.

Other losses in the sea war were:

Clan Stuart, British freighter, 5,760 gross tons, foundered after collision in English channel; crew of 75 saved.

Niritos, Greek freighter, 3,854 gross tons, mined off southeast English coast and beached; crew saved.

Halifax, British trawler, 165 gross tons, sunk in North sea; crew of nine saved.

The Niritos was mined yesterday, the Eulota and the Clan Stuart were lost last night, and the Halifax was sunk today.

Mystery in Dutch Ships' Loss.

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, March 12.—Mystery behind recent cases of Netherlands ships disappearing with all hands within a short distance of the coast in the North sea stirred speculation here today. Only a little wreckage of the Rijnstroom, the Grutto, and the Vecht was found, and none of the crew members, totalling 52, has been found. It is held possible these vessels were attacked by fast German, 52 ton motor torpedo boats that kidnapped their crews and sped away at a rate of 35 knots. Such lightning attacks, it is held, would have the object of intimidating Dutch merchantment sailing in the North sea and force them to remain in port.

Germany Defines Policy.

BERLIN, March 12 (AP).—The German admiralty has informed Norway that neutral ships in neutral trade may travel together without being subject to attack by German sea forces, it was disclosed authoritatively today.

Norway was told that Germany holds it has legal right to attack neutral ships being convoyed by enemy war vessels, as well as any neutral ship carrying contraband to enemy ports even if alone.

WANG ASKS CHINA AGAIN TO ACCEPT 'A SECRET PEACE

SHANGHAI, China, March 12 (AP).—On the eve of a meeting of the "orthodox Kuomintang" [anti-Chiang Kaishek] political council at Nanking Wang Ching-wei tonight again appealed to the Chinese people to accept peace with Japan according to a program he said would be best for China.

The premier designate of the projected pro-Japanese régime declared in a manifesto that establishment of his new government was "imminent." Wang's manifesto "regrets now is not the time" to reveal his plan for readjustment of Sino-Japanese relations, but assured the nation the plan would guarantee China's independence and that, as conditions improved Japanese troops would be withdrawn, except where needed to combat communism.

ENGLAND ADMITS FINNISH PEACE HARMS EMPIRES

Plans for Flank Attack on Germany Wrecked.

LONDON, March 13, Wednesday (AP).—Great Britain and France took new stock of their battle positions on the western front early today amidst indications their German foe had received encouragement by the newly signed Finnish-Russian peace pact. The treaty dashed plans for a British and French drive on Germany from the Scandinavian flank by sending an army to Finland's aid.

The foreign office and other official sources were silent and obviously disappointed for the moment. Prior to receiving news of the signing of the pact British officials had expressed the hope that Finland would not capitulate.

Generals Pore Over Maps.

Lights burned long last night as Britain generals, air marshals, and admirals pored over maps. They had to face the threat that 300 German divisions, ready for a hard war on the western front, might now be supplied with wheat and oil by Russia. The resources and transportation system of Russia no longer are tied up by war.

Terms of the peace indicated Britain and France had salvaged little except to go "on record" as being ready to send 50,000 troops to the north if Finland had decided to continue the war. But Britain and France did not receive any appeal from Finland for this aid.

The British viewpoint, as reflected in the report of the Press association, which goes to virtually every British daily newspaper, was:

"Finland has, it is feared, fallen victim to yet another instance of brutal aggression by a great power upon a small but wonderfully courageous state.

"Russian influence in the Baltic will be markedly increased and naked aggression, against which the allies are fighting, has secured at least a temporary victory."

Two Theories in Military Minds.

With the ending of the war in Finland, two theories were evident in military minds.

The first was that peace will enable Russia to throw her entire weight into economic support of Germany's war effort, making possible a German drive on the scale of the last big push in the west during the world war. This push was launched March 21, 1918.

The second theory was advanced by diehard exponents of the "hit Germany on the flank" school. They stuck to the idea that Britain can best be served by an aerial and land drive against the Russian oil reserve and wells at Baku in the Caucasus.

This, they argued, would smash the soviet oil industry and rob Germany of the lifeblood of her submarines and planes and Diesel engined motor transport.

That Britain and France are preparing to meet possible thrusts on the western front was disclosed yesterday when Oliver Stanley, British war secretary, announced that the British had doubled their forces in France since October. This would place 316,000 troops across the English channel.

Stanley told the house of commons that it was "improper and undesirable to attempt to forecast what task the British army might be called upon to fulfill in the future."

"We have a great army in process of formation," the war minister said, "and we hope and indeed we are duty bound progressively to take a bigger and bigger portion of the war on land from the shoulders of our allies, the French, who in the early days of the war had to bear such a very great part of this burden."

The house cheered as Stanley emphasized the close ties with France.

"In the last war we were allies," he said. "In this war we are friends."

BALLOON PULLS AWAY IN TEST; ROAMS AIR LANES; LANDS SAFELY

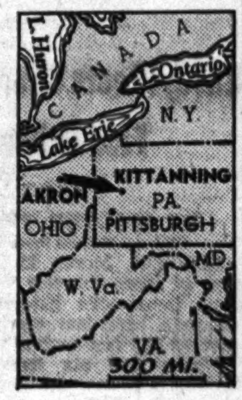
Kittanning, Pa., March 12 (AP).—A barrage balloon which broke from its mooring today at Akron, O., settled to earth tonight near here. Police said about one-half of 20,000 cubic feet of helium in the bag appeared to have leaked out. A guard was placed about the balloon. Kittanning is 50 miles northeast of Pittsburgh.



Arrow traces balloon's flight.

The balloon was undergoing altitude tests for possible European war use when it broke away at the Goodyear testing grounds at Akron. It rose to 15,000 feet and speeded before a brisk wind. Warnings were flashed to all commercial planes known to be aloft in the area.

The balloon was launched on Feb. 1 with considerable secrecy. Goodyear engineers said it developed more stability and greater height in tests than barrage ballons now protecting London from enemy plans.

Barrage balloons are elevated with long cables trailing from them, the theory being that hostile planes will fly into the cables and be wrecked.

TORNADO KILLS 10 IN LOUISIANA; DAMAGE HEAVY

Shreveport, La., March 12 (AP).—Ten persons were killed, 24 injured, and hundreds left homeless here tonight in the wake of tornadic winds which cut a path of destruction across the city shortly after 4:30 p. m. today.

Damage to the Libby-Owens-Ford plant was estimated at $200,000; to the state fair grounds, $100,000, and elsewhere in the city at hundreds of thousands more.

BRITISH FAIL TO FIND PEACE HOPE IN WELLES TALKS

Envoy Meets Churchill and Five Others.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 12.—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, President Roosevelt's listening post on Europe's battleless warfronts, spent another day fact finding today.

Welles had six interviews with leading Britons and will have six more and a dinner tomorrow to wind up the whirlwind impression he is gathering on his tour of Europe's leading capitals, to which he was sent from America to find a "basis for a sound and lasting peace."

While Welles was enjoying his social rounds, the British were frankly skeptical that his expedition would contribute anything to end the war.

Press Insists on Victory.

The London press, commenting on the visit, said the fundamental facts are not far to seek. It hinted that no special mission was necessary to learn that Britain and France are determined to pursue the war until "German aggression" is crushed and that and patched up peace at this time would only give the Germans the breathing space they desired "before gobbling up more territory."

This is the essence of the conversations Welles had with Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty; Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon, and other Britons, including leaders of the opposition to the government set-up in parliament.

Envoy Merely Listens.

Welles listened and gave out nothing. It was learned from an authoritative source that he had given out nothing in interviews here and was received, all told, impassively, with what the Britons have come to call ice water reserve. He gave the impression that all he gathered here would be reported impartially along with the data he had gathered from Hitler, Mussolini, and French leaders.

The Britons do not feel that Welles is completely impartial toward the British cause, however. The press has reported him as speaking and dressing and acting like a Britisher, a feeling that is shared by many persons in the United States who resent the Anglo influence in the state department.

Valet Horrifies London.

On the other hand the British do not feel that Welles' gentleman's gentleman, born in Bournemouth, England, is a British valet. The press is full of stories that the old proverb, "Like master, like man," has been reversed because the valet, Reckes, dresses like an American, talks Americanese, and has come to look American. The British were horried when the valet, in getting about London, appeared without the conventional bowler, trade mark of his tribe. Reckes has been receiving more attention than his master and appears to be having a better time, altho the British have put Welles well into the social swim.

Welles began his talks today by meeting the government's parliamentary opposition. He conferred with Clement Atlee, leader of the Labor party leader in commons, and his assistant, Arthur Greenwood. Next he met Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the Liberals in commons. Later he lunched with Simon and delivered to him a memorandum on American economic objectives at the end of the war. Afterward he visited Sir Alexander Cadogan at the foreign office.

Meets Lloyd George Today.

Tomorrow he will confer with David Lloyd George, who has requested a meeting; Stanley Bruce, high commissioner for Australia; James Maxton, independent Laborite and leader of a small opposition party, and Anthony Eden, dominions minister, and will dine with Premier Neville Chamberlain.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, citing "informed diplomatic quarters in London," says it is regarded as certain that as a result of Welles' report Roosevelt will frame a peace plan for submission to the belligerents.

URGE FREE TRAIN RIDES FOR FRENCH EASTER REUNIONS

Parents Seek to Visit Evacuated Children.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 12.—A campaign was launched in the Paris press today to provide free railway passage to parents of evacuated children so that they can enjoy family reunions on the Easter holiday.

Most children were hustled out of the capital in September, some to remote provinces. Many have not seen their mothers or fathers since then.

Meetings have been made more difficult because the use of railways by civilians is discouraged. The railroads must be kept free for military traffic. Many families cannot afford a long journey or are unwilling to interrupt their childrens' schooling by bringing them back to Paris for a visit.

Urge Free Transportation.

Authorities are urged to provide free or half fare transportation in such cases so that mothers and children can get together Easter day, which is a more important holiday in France than Christmas. A decision is expected in a few days.

Meanwhile, it was announced that the de luxe express trains which connect Paris with Brittany, Bordeaux, the Basque country, and the Riviera, but which were removed for military reasons, will be restored to service on Friday. Parisians, who have the means, then can go to their favorite resorts for the Easter season.

The general belief that there is little likelihood of a spring offensive on the western front has led to requests that something be done to build up the tourist trade in such places as the Riviera and the Pyrenees, which are outside the war zone.

Hotel Industry Suffers.

This demand is being voiced particularly by hotel owners. The normally flourishing hotel industry of France has been badly hit by the war.

A spokesman of the Hotel Owners' federation declared that virtually all hotels in Paris and the provincial cities are empty, except those near railway stations, which are frequented by commercial travelers.

YALE CLUB TOLD DROP IN INCOME IS FORCING CURBS

Charles Seymour, president of Yale university, yesterday said that lower income from endowments is forcing Yale to make further restrictions in its student enrollment and to reduce the number of courses taught. He spoke before 125 Yale alumni at a luncheon meeting of the Yale Club of Chicago in the Palmer House. Seymour said Yale plans to keep its enrollment within the present number of 5,000 for all schools. The number admitted to the freshman class has been reduced from 850 to 835.

HOUSE APPROVES 654 MILLION FOR NAVY EXPANSION

Army Is Under Fire Over Foreign Sales.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Overwhelming approval of a 654 million dollar measure adding 43 fighting ships and 1,000 war planes to the authorized strength of the navy was registered by the house today. The recorded vote was 303 to 37.

Democrats and Republicans joined in approving the bill, which must be supported later by appropriations for the naval equipment authorized.

Representative Ralph E. Church [R., Ill.], member of the naval affairs committee, emphasized that the committee had stripped the measure of the broad grants of discretionary power which it carried when first submitted by President Roosevelt.

Cut Total to 40 Per Cent.

The committee had also slashed the administration's recommendation for approximately 1 billion 600 millions of dollars to approximately 40 per cent of that total and confined the program to two years instead of the six years proposed.

"The administration's bill," Church told the house, "would have abolished the committee on naval affairs and given the President and the navy department permission to run the navy exactly as they saw fit. That is not only an unwise but extremely dangerous policy."

Church also called attention to the fact that Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison had recommended legislation to give the President discretionary power to commandeer all the factories and materials of the nation. The proposal would have made the President commander-in-chief of the nation's industry as well as of the army and navy, he said. He said that the committee had completely ignored this "extraordinary recommendation."

Fish Opposes Carriers.

The only fight against a portion of the bill was made by Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], who questioned the advisability of authorizing three new airplane carriers.

"I would like to be convinced of the need for these three carriers," he remarked. "No one can deny that our navy is now the largest in the history of the United States and that for the first time it is equal to if not greater than Great Britain's."

A proposal by Fish to eliminate the three carriers from the measure was shouted down without a record vote.

Army Under Fire.

As the navy was thus being given the green light on its expansion program, the army was under fire from a house subcommittee for releasing its new 400 mile an hour pursuit planes for sale to Great Britain and France.

Representative Dow Harter [D., O.], chairman of the aviation subcommittee of the military affairs committee, announced that his group would investigate the release of the Curtiss P-40 plane to foreign buyers. The subcommittee will also inquire into efforts being made by the allied purchasing mission to obtain release of six other types of war planes, all of them newer than the P-40.

None of the new ships are being delivered to the army on a quantity production basis. Great Britain and France, however, have pleaded that they must have these types to match new German models.

COLLAPSES IN CAR AND DIES.

Jay Vanderbeck, 46 years old, a printer, collapsed of a heart atack yesterday while driving his automobile in Broadway near Belmont avenue. He died on the way to a hospital after his car had plunged over a curb and stopped. Vanderbeck lived at 4744 Grace street.

HITLER AND DUCE PROPOSE A HUGE ECONOMIC UNION

Plan to Include Russia in New Setup.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 13, Wednesday.—The formation of what was described as the biggest economic bloc in Europe's history was the main topic of the Italian-German talks in Rome. This was learned last night when Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop returned to Berlin after conferring with Premier Mussolini, his foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, and other Italian statesmen.

Besides Germany and Italy, it was understood the economic bloc eventually is to comprise the whole of central and eastern Europe, including Russia and the Baltic states, as well as southeastern Europe.

Divide Spheres of Interest.

Much time was devoted in Rome to dividing up southeastern Europe into economic spheres of interest, Germans maintained. More than once clashing interests of Italy and Germany in that part of Europe have led to friction between the axis partners since both are dependent on the southeastern European markets and on the imports of raw materials from that region.

To pave the way for the formation of the economic bloc, members of Von Ribbentrop's delegation and Dr. Karl Clodius, economic expert of the foreign office, remained in Rome to work out the necessary details with the Italians.

According to German and Italian plans, Finland is to be included in the bloc.

Call Peace Blow to Britain.

Conclusion of the Russian-Finnish war, the Germans declared, is the the second big defeat of England in this war. They said the first defeat was the rout of the Polish army in less than three weeks.

In the world war, the Nazis asserted, it took Germany three years to defeat Russia on the eastern front.

"In this war we eliminated the 'war of two frontiers' in 18 days," they said.

With Germany's northern front no longer menaced by the possible landing of a British-French expeditionary force in Scandinavia, the reich can concentrate its forces and energies on the western front, the Germans argued.

BULLET PROOF FUEL TANK FOR PLANES DEVISED

Washington, D. C., March 12 (AP).—A new "bullet proof" fuel tank—potentially more effective than the much publicized devices used in the air fleets of warring Europe—has been developed by the army and navy for American military planes.

Details are confidential, but authoritative sources indicated that the new tank, like those reported in use by Germany, France, and England, depends on raw rubber to close bullet holes. Differences are the combination of the sticky and elastic raw rubber with other materials, such as metal, fibre, and vulcanized rubber.

SENATORS PLACE O. K. ON EFFORT TO BAN SNOOPING

Committee Raps Census Income Queries.

Senator Charles W. Tobey.

Washington, D. C., March 12.—The senate commerce committee condemned census snooping today by approving the resolution of Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.], which seeks to eliminate from the population schedule of the 1940 census two questions relating to personal income. The vote was 9 to 7.

Members of the committee expressed confidence that its action alone, independent of any subsequent action by the senate itself, would force the commerce department and census bureau officials to eliminate the personal income questions. The commerce committee handles all commerce department legislation.

Still Favor Income Queries.

Officials of the department declared this afternoon, however, that they still favored retention of the personal income questions and indicated a disposition to await action by the senate itself. The senate has a crowded legislative program and it is doubtful that the Tobey resolution can be called up before the taking of the census begins on April 2.

"We have always felt and still feel that the income questions on the 1940 population census schedule are proper and legal and would provide important facts in helping to solve the unemployment problem," said Edward J. Noble, undersecretary of commerce. "The action of the senate committee has not changed our attitude. The issue is now before the senate."

The commerce committee's action gave Senator Tobey a significant victory. His crusade against the snooping questionnaire prepared by the census bureau has resulted in a nation-wide furor and created a political issue over which many Democrats frankly confess their uneasiness.

Senator Tobey, whose position the commerce committee upheld, contended that the income questions not only exceeded the authority granted by the census act of 1929, but violated the constitutional right of citizens to privacy in their personal affairs.

Asks Immediate Deletion.

The resolution, with the whereas clauses eliminated, provides: "That it is the sense of the senate that the director of the census and the secretary of commerce should immediately cause to be deleted from the population schedule proposed to be used in taking the 16th census inquiries numbered 32 and 33, now appearing upon such proposed schedule."

Voting for the resolution were Chairmen Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.], Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.], John H. Overton [D., La.], Charles L. McNary [R., Ore.], Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.], Warren Barbour [R., N. J.], Ernest W. Gibson [R., Vt.], Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], and Wallace H. White [R., Me.].

Voting against the resolution, all Democrats, were Morris Sheppard of Texas, Hattie W. Caraway of Arkansas, Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi, Claude Pepper of Florida, Josh Lee of Oklahoma, Lister Hill of Alabama, and James M. Mead of New York.

Senator Pepper, a New Deal yesman, took charge of the administration forces at the committee meeting and was blocked at every turn by Senator Clark.

Pepper at first wanted commerce department officials to be heard further, and Senator Clark blocked that request by saying it would reopen the hearings. Then Pepper wanted to read what he termed an arm full of letters. Clark said he would respond in that case by reading a basket full.

The musician had volunteered previously to pay $15 a week temporary alimony. Mrs. Honnert's attorney, Victor Frohlich, said Honnert made $50 a week and asked an increase. Judge Sabath set the permanent alimony at $18.

CHURCH LEAGUE PUSHES WAR ON CENSUS SNOOPS

Calls for Continued Fight to Defend Rights.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Frank J. Loesch yesterday told of the renewed activity of the Church League of America, 53 West Jackson boulevard, against the two snooping income questions included in the 1940 census queries. As chairman of the league, Loesch appealed to the 100,000 persons on the league lists to continue their fight for deletion of the questions.

"I am delighted to learn today that the senate committee approved a resolution to delete the two offending questions by a vote of 9 to 7," said Loesch.

Recalls Court Packing Fight.

Loesch recalled the effective fight of the league against President Roosevelt's court packing and governmental reorganization bills. He explained that thousands of pastors had been made aware of religion's stake in those two proposals, as well as in the present census question situation, by the Church league's activity.

"I repeat again," Loesch added, "that I do not intend to answer the income questions. There is not a case of prosecution on record against any citizen for refusing to answer census inquiries. Since the league took its stand last week against the census questions I have been greatly encouraged by persons who assert that they join me in my position against this unconstitutional and illegal snooping and invasion of rights and liberties."

Tells of a Gossip's Boast.

"I have been told that in one downstate community the worst woman gossip in town has been made census supervisor," Loesch said. "This woman is boasting that she will now be in a position to get the real lowdown on her neighbors—whether they really have money enough to run an automobile and if they are living beyond their means.

"Every contact I make tends to confirm the fact that the general feeling of the country is becoming aroused, and I was gratified to hear Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] confirm the legal opinion made public by the Church league that the two income questions are both unconstitutional and illegal."

FRANCE ORDERS WAR REFUGEES TO GROW FOOD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 12. — Civilian refugees in the south of France will become vegetable gardeners in accordance with a program to restore agricultural production it was disclosed today.

Before the war so-called family plots were numerous in France, one society alone having 700,000 members. To remedy the falling off in this branch of farming it was decided to put tools, seeds, and plots of land at the disposal of refugees from Alsace-Lorraine, Moselle, and the Paris region.

It is also hoped to create small vegetable gardens in the army zone, as in the world war. The troops would cultivate the land.

ZEIDLER CHOSEN TO OPPOSE HOAN IN MAYOR RACE

Two Lead Field of Eight in Milwaukee Primary.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 13, Wednesday.—On the basis of unofficial returns early today Carl F. Zeidler, dynamic young former assistant city attorney, was chosen in yesterday's municipal primary to oppose Daniel W. Hoan for mayor. Hoan, Socialist mayor since 1916, led seven other candidates for the office, while Zeidler was far ahead of the remaining opponents.

Returns from 260 of the city's 435 precincts gave Hoan 37,596 votes, Zeidler 25,532, and Earl D. Lillydahl, their closest opponent, 9,490.

Lillydahl, who conceded his defeat at midnight, previously had pledged himself to support Zeidler against Hoan.

Election to Be April 2.

The two leading candidates for mayor, as well as for other city and county offices, will oppose each other in the city election on April 2.

City Controler William H. Wendt was far ahead of the other candidates for his office. Tabulation of 135 precincts gave Wendt 22,566 votes and John Grunwald, Socialist federation candidate 9,470, with Frederick W. Cordes trailing far behind.

Walter J. Mattison, nonpartison city attorney seeking reëlection, led Paul Gauer, federation candidate.

There was a close race for first place for city treasurer between Joseph J. Krueger, incumbent, and Theodore Dammann, federation candidate and former secretary of state. The vote in 115 precincts gave Krueger 15,240 and Dammann 15,735.

The vote results indicated that the election contest will be between the Socialist slate and the incumbent officials, with Zeidler a new factor in the campaign to beat Mayor Hoan.

Judge Steinle Ahead.

Returns from the suburbs and some of the rural precincts gave Circuit Judge Roland J. Steinle a lead over Leonard C. Fons and Dennis M. Sullivan for nomination for Circuit judge of branch No. 3.

Zeidler resigned as assistant city attorney to make the race for nomination for mayor. He is 32 years old, the youngest candidate for the office since 1906. He was born in Milwaukee, played football on West Division High school, and was graduated from Marquette university law school in 1931.

A good orator, he put on a lively show in his campaign speeches, and his earnestness and enthusiasm apparently won him general support. He attacked socialism vigorously, warning voters against being influenced by Mayor Hoan's personal popularity to the disregard of his radical political principles.

The polls did not close until 8 o'clock last night and tabulation of results was slow on account of the 340 candidates for various city and county offices.

MRS. SOPHIE PAULSEN.

Mrs. Sophie Paulsen's shiny new spring bonnet is made of a 25 cent sprig of white daisies and the words and music of "Springtime in the Rockies" and "My Prayer." "My Prayer" is the lining. Her friends say it is the prettiest Milan straw they've seen in years, and she told them only yesterday that she made it of an old phonograph record.

Mrs. Paulsen, who lives at 5208 Oakton street, Niles Center, is the mother of four children. She decided to make a hat out of the record after it was left on the grill of her stove and she noticed how pliable it had become. It took her half a day to shape it, and, barring a bump on the head, she expects it to wear a long time.

NEW HAMPSHIRE DEMOCRATS PICK 3D TERM SLATE

Bridges Leads G.O.P. Presidential Field.

Manchester, N. H., March 13, Wednesday (AP). — New Hampshire Democrats apparently assured President Roosevelt early today of a full slate of convention delegates—pledged to a third term as long as he wants to hold them—but the state's Republicans turned out in greater number in the nation's first presidential primary in behalf of United States Senator H. Styles Bridges.

Farley Delegate Close.

With more than half the state's precincts tabulated, only a single delegate pledged to Postmaster General James A. Farley kept pace with the third term adherents.

On the Republican side a heated fight among five of the Granite state's outstanding political leaders for four places as delegates at large pulled out a heavy vote. All were running unpledged, but had expressed favor for Senator Bridges. The lone G. O. P. pledgee, J. Howard Gile, who favored Thomas E. Dewey, without the latter's consent, was out of the race.

160 Precincts Counted.

With 160 precincts out of 294 already counted, the highest man on the Roosevelt slate for eight places as delegates at large had 4,911 votes and the eighth man had 2,588. Charles A. Burke, pledged to Farley, headed the non-Roosevelt list with 1,818.

Senator Bridges led the Republican ticket with 15,543 votes after 169 precincts had been tabulated, followed in order by United States. Senator Charles W. Tobey with 14,762, former Senator George H. Moses with 12,017, and former Gov. Huntley Spaulding with 11,778.

GARNER FORCES FIGHT TAMMANY AT PURGE SCENE

Seek Court Order to Get on N. Y. Ballot.

New York, March 12 [Special].—The New York battle of forces supporting Vice President John N. Garner in opposition to a third term for President Roosevelt today became centered in Manhattan's 16th congressional district, the only spot in which the attempted Roosevelt "purge" of 1938 was successful.

James H. Fay, who unseated John J. O'Connor as congressman from the district, again is a central figure in the fight. He and John T. Eagan, district leader of Tammany Hall, which is militantly supporting a third team for the man it opposed in 1932, are candidates for delegates to the Democratic national convention on the Roosevelt slate.

Enlist Tammany Aid.

With the aid of John T. Dooling, chairman of the Tammany law committee, they succeeded today in having the city election board rule their Garner pledged opponents off the April 2 primary ballot, only to find their right to a place on the ballot challenged by a court order.

Chief object of the Tammany anger is State Senator John J. McNaboe, who introduced the resolution, passed by the New York legislature, asking congress to disapprove of a third term for Presidents. He and Al Smith Jr., Independent Democrat, who won a city council seat last November over Tammany candidates, are the Garner candidates for delegates from the 16th district.

Court Orders Obtained.

Two state Supreme court orders, returnable Thursday, were obtained by the Garner forces today. One requires the election board to show cause why the names of Fay and Egan should not be stricken from the ballot because their petitions are illegal. The other gained an appeal for McNaboe and Smith.

McNaboe was ruled out because he failed to register as a Democrat at the recent election. Smith's petition was ruled out after two youths admitted unwittingly signing names of some voters.

SENATE ROUTS FOES OF CLEAN POLITICS BILL

Enemies Now Concede Measure Will Pass.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Opposition to the pending Hatch clean politics bill virtually collapsed today after the senate had rejected by a vote of 47 to 34, an amendment intended to sabotage the legislation. New Dealers and other Democrats fighting the bill abandoned all hope of blocking it by filibustering and other obstructionist tactics and conceded that it will be passed not later than Thursday.

The collapse of the opposition was attributed by supporters of the measure to a realization that public opinion would not support a filibuster against legislation intended to outlaw pernicious political activity on the part of state machines financed in part by the federal treasury.

Senator Bilbo Objects.

After the vote today, on an amendment by Senator Edwin C. Johnson [D., Col.], Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky almost succeeded in his efforts to obtain unanimous consent to vote on the bill and all amendments by 6 p. m. tomorrow. Senator Theodore G. Bilbo [D., Miss.] objected, but he did so, he said, solely because of his fear that some senator would offer the antilynching bill as an amendment at the last minute. The southern senators were taking no chances on being deprived of the opportunity to filibuster against the antilynching bill.

Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.], leader of the opposition to the Hatch bill, had threatened to offer the antilynching bill as an amendment, but he agreed after today's session to assure the southerners that the measure would not be offered.

Thus all insurmountable obstacles to the passage of the Hatch bill were removed today after eight days of stormy debate on an issue which has split the senate Democrats into bitterly contending factions. One side contends that the Democratic party will be wrecked if the Hatch bill is passed, while the other contends that the Democratic party will be defeated if it refuses to pass the bill.

Coercion Is Forbidden.

The animosities within the Democratic party which the Hatch bill has created were evident again in today's debate. The anti-New Deal Democrats took the position that the bill does not strike at the fountain head of pernicious political activity, that is, at the President and high officials of the Roosevelt administration. Senator Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.], Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], and Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.] all contended that the real offenders against political morality and decency are officials of the national administration, who use public funds extracted from the taxpayers to corrupt the voters and influence elections.

Supporters of the bill replied that it not only forbids all nonelective state, county and municipal officials and employés concerned with the spending of federal funds to take an active part in politics, but also forbids elective state, county, and municipal officials to use their official authority to coerce or intimidate their subordinates on the public pay rolls.

Baily Taunts Barkley.

The supporters of the legislation also explained that the Hatch act of 1939, directed gainst pernicious political activity by federal employés, makes it unlawful for federal officials, from the President down, to use their official authority for the purpose of interfering with or influencing elections.

Senator Bailey taunted Majority Leader Barkley about the unanimity of the Republicans under his leadership of the Hatch bill forces. The strategy of the Republicans to keep silent, except with their votes, in this Democratic family row has annoyed the Hatch bill opposition more than any other factor in the controversy.

Senator Bailey complained that the Hatch bill would not forbid Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City or Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago to take part in politics, but would place such restrictions on the employés of their respective cities.

Senator Carl A. Hatch [D., N. M.], author of the bill, replied that it would prohibit machine bosses from exacting tribute from city employés, from coercing or intimidating those employés and from padding pay rolls with federal money to control elections.

Divorces Banker

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. RUBY ECKHART.

The marital woes of Harold Eckhart, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, are no more. They were dissolved yesterday in an uncontested divorce decree, obtained by his wife, Ruby.

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington had set aside four days to sift the woes Eckhart outlined in a 40 page crossbill for divorce which he filed in answer to his wife's suit for separate maintenance. He listed 27 detailed years of nagging, but when his wife filed an amended complaint for divorce, charging desertion, he didn't even appear to contest it.

Instead, he gave her their home and furniture at 1025 Pine street, Winnetka, valued at $14,000; $375 a month for the next two years and $300 a month thereafter; $21,500 in securities on deposit in the Northern Trust company, and $75,000 in life insurance, at his death. He also will pay for the college education of their three children, Alan, 21 years old; Edith Robin, 17, and Gerald, 10.

CALLERS AROUSE SPECULATION ON ROOSEVELT'S AIM

Donahey Determined to Shun Ohio Race.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Senator Claude Pepper and Gov. Fred P. Cone of Florida informed President Roosevelt today that the Florida delegation to the Democratic National convention this year will be liberal enough to support the President for a third term. All they wanted to know was whether Mr. Roosevelt would be liberal enough to support a federal appropriation of $1,400,000 to construct a fresh water aqueduct to Key West.

The Floridans said upon leaving the White House that Mr. Roosevelt had expressed interest in the Key West aqueduct project. Gov. Cone appeared to be especially gratified and to feel that the White House interview would not injure him in his campaingn for the senate seat of Senator Charles O. Andrews, who has been less amenable than Pepper to White House whims and who was not invited to the conference.

Whatever the President does about Florida, according to Pepper, Florida will be for the President, or the man of his choice. "We told the President that Florida will send a liberal delegation to Chicago," Pepper said. "That means a Roosevelt delegation if he wants it or for anybody else he may indicate."

The Key West aqueduct project is intended to supply fresh water from the mainland, 100 miles away, to the city of 14,000.

Donahey Refuses to Run.

A cold which confined him to the White House gave the President an excuse to cancel his biweekly press conference today and avoid questions about his third term intentions. Politics, however, occupied his attention most of the day. He was disappointed when Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.] refused to reconsider his decision not to seek reëlection. He decided not to run in the belief that Ohio is certain to go Republican. Mr. Roosevelt wanted him in the hope that he could save the Democratic ticket.

A Massachusetts delegation next appeared with pleas for the President's support of their campaign for a veterans' hospital at Boston.

IN THE CURRENT

By CALEB

ARE you aware of the dynamic forward movement of the life you lead? Yesterday and a year ago you had not traversed any of the time and experience behind you today. The currents of onsweeping time carry you forward.

We hope it fills you with a zest, for you are in the universal current of mankind, the current that forever moves from Gehenna onward—eventually onward to a world civilization.

There is a tendency, as this stream of humanity flows through the avenues of man's experience—through wars and persecutions and dishonored covenants—to feel that we do not progress. But that is only in the short view of things.

There was a time, for example, when women were chattels—property to be handled and treated as such. There was a time when children crawled in harness through black mines to bring out coal, and there have been times when countless persons were persecuted and their goods confiscated, all in the name of religion.

The flow of humanity in England a hundred and fifty years ago beheld an era of corrupt politics. Public office was sought for the loot it would yield, and trusts were held more by politicians than by men of affairs and high social instinct. We are on our way now to a better fashion of public life and public service.

The current has carried through many of the worst reproaches to mankind. Now and again, as at present, we move through areas where civilization's zoning ordinances have not held up. And this will be so for a long time still. A dying serpent writhes furiously. But more and more, those areas and the evils they hold will become limited. More and more they will become an eyesore and a rallying cry to better things. That is the invariable precedent to their destruction.

In business it is the same. The human current carries us on endlessly, both as customers and as servitors. It is as though yesterday youngsters entered our doors. Tomorrow they come back as adults. One generation makes way for another, but the residue of their patronage, as the elders flow on, builds up a great institution.

Progress is not made without setbacks, but the world as a whole is moving forward. You are moving with it. So are we. If we are to keep up with you, we must keep up with the current. And if we are all to live agreeably and beneficially together, we must keep moving constantly, steadily forward.

FRIEND AND FOE ATTEND FUNERAL FOR LYN SMITH

1,200 in Pontiac Armory for Service.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pontiac, Ill., March 12 [Special].—Pontiac residents who knew F. Lynden Smith as a prosperous young lumber dealer, politicians who benefited from his aggressive solicitations of campaign funds, and relatives who saw his strength dissipated in political intrigues were among the throng attending his funeral here this afternoon.

Others present included state highway contractors, some of whom had many dealings with the curly haired state director of public works and liked him, even when he was insisting upon sizable donations to the Democratic campaign fund.

Highway department employés in the lower wage bracket also were there. They liked their chief personally, even if he did inaugurate the system of assessing 2 per cent of their salaries for the campaign fund.

1,200 Attend Services.

The crowd numbered 1,200 and filled the new $175,000 armory that Smith's influence caused to be built in Pontiac. He was the main speaker at dedication ceremonies last Sept. 28 as representative of Gov. Henry Horner. It was his last public appearance in this capacity before his break with the clique now surrounding the sick governor.

In the front of the armory's assembly hall was a copper casket covered with a silk American flag. The stage was a bank of flowers. The card of Henry Horner was on a basket of gladiolas, jonquils, and orchids.

Away from the view of the other mourners, in a private room with a door opening toward the coffin and the stage, were immediate relatives. The widow, Mrs. Marian Smith, her head bent, was helped to and from this room. She was with her husband during his exile in Florida. He told friends there that political intrigue and tales told by political enemies had almost broken up his home.

Son Escorts Widow.

Escorting his mother was the Smiths' oldest child, Francis N. Smith, 17 years old, known to his classmates in the Springfield High school as Frank.

Smith's mother, in her 80s, was here from her winter home in Claremont, Fla., with her other son, Don, who owns orange groves and dabbles in politics in the sunshine. Lynden went to Claremont early in February, planning to spend two months with his mother and brother. He returned secretly to Springfield and to his strange death last week.

Standing against the wall near the front of the armory hall during the services was United States Senator Scott Lucas, returned from Washington for the funeral. Smith and the 2 per cent club aided Lucas in his campaign to go to Washington in 1938. Smith's father, Francis N. Smith, died while his son was campaigning for Lucas.

Senator James M. Slattery with Harry B. Hershey, the Horner-Kelly-Nash choice for the Democratic governorship nomination, called at the Smith home before the services, but they were not able to attend the funeral. Lieut. Gov. John Stelle also stayed away from the armory. The friendship between Stelle and Smith was said to have been used to turn Horner against his former manager.

Foes Among Throng.

Samuel L. Nudelman, state director of finance, and Arthur O. O'Brien, Gov. Horner's secretary, leaders in ousting Smith from the Springfield regency, attended the funeral. Others there included Attorney General John Cassidy, Ernst Lieberman, chief engineer of the state highway department; Adj. Gen. Lawrence Regan of the Illinois National Guards, John T. Casey, the governor's traveling secretary; Charles P. Casey, acting director of public works; Homer Mat Adams, assistant finance director, and Chief Walter Williams and Capt. M. C. Baughman of the state police.

There were Republicans as well as Democrats at the funeral. Among these were Senators Arthur H. Bidwill of River Forest and Simon Lantz of Congerville.

Prayers were said by the Rev. Dr. John H. Ryan, Pontiac prison chaplain. A sermon was given by the Rev. Harry A. Cochrane, pastor of the First Methodist church here.

Burial will be made Thursday in the Livingston county memorial cemetery. The interment is awaiting arrival of a sister, Mrs. Ida Smith Vivrette of Pasadena, Cal. Another sister, Mrs. Gladys Capes of Berkeley, Cal., is here.

TOO LATE TO GET ON POLL LISTS; PROTESTS FILED

It's Their Own Fault, Says Election Board.

Many complaints were received yesterday by the election board from persons who charged that neighborhood fire station offices had failed to accommodate them at the registration deadline at 9 o'clock Monday night. The election commissioners said these complainants will be unable to vote in the primary on April 9, but asserted it was their own fault.

Several sources reported that a long line of persons waiting to register in the fire station at 6039 South Western avenue was turned away at 7:45 p. m. Monday when officials said they were out of supplies. Henry Marsky, in charge of judges and clerks for the election board, insisted that supplies had been sent immediately to this station and to 40 other stations.

Marsky said most of the fire station offices were open until midnight Monday completing the registration of persons who were in these offices before 9 p. m. William Daly, one of the election commissioners, said the crowd in the office at 4600 Cottage Grove avenue was so great police had to be called to keep order and fire department equipment had to be moved temporarily.

"We registered 35,436 persons in the 139 neighborhood stations on Monday," said Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, another of the commissioners. "We accommodated everyone who came to a registration office before 9 p. m. If they arrived one minute after 9, it was too bad for them.

"After all, the voters have had nine months to register or change their addresses at the election board offices and then we gave them 11 days at the fire station offices."

BOODLE INQUIRY ADDS MYSTERY TO SMITH DEATH

Reveal He Was to Be Federal Witness.

sources that the investigation involved contributions made to politicians. Evidence so far produced, it was said, indicated that Smith had not retained any of these donations and the inquiry was reported to be headed toward tracing the disposition of the funds.

Needed as United States Witness.

The plan, according to authenticated reports, was to call Smith as a government witness in the trial of any individuals who might be indicted as a result of the inquiry.

Dealers whose records have been subpenaed have charged that Mike Carrozzo, union boss, has refused to allow any ready mixed concrete or mobile mixing machinery to enter Chicago. Carrozzo is head of the International Hod Carriers, Building, and Construction Laborers of America.

Smith was believed to have in his possession details of the setup regarding ready mixed concrete on state projects, no details of which have been brought to light officially.

The government investigation is being conducted along two lines. Evidence of conspiracy in restraint of trade, in violation of the Sherman antitrust act, is being sought along with facts concerning possible interference and fraud in projects on which federal [PWA] funds were expended.

SLUSH SUIT CONTINUED

In the slush fund accounting suit here illness balked a contemplated move by Attorney Arthur Fitzgerald to have books and records of defendant state officials produced in the court of Circuit Judge L. E. Stone.

Fitzgerald represents Sylvester Steskal, state policeman who sued for an accounting of funds of the Illinoisans, Horner administration campaign fund collection agency, which demanded and got 2 per cent of the salaries of state employés.

Smith and eight other Horner employés, including Samuel L. Nudelman, state finance director, were named defendants in this action. Judge Stone continued the hearing to Saturday after Attorney Fitzgerald was reported ill.

EXTEND DEATH INQUIRY

Coroner W. L. Dragoo expressed grave concern over information from Chicago that Smith's death had thrown obstables into the federal government's building inquiry as well as the slush fund hearing here.

Coroner Dragoo had in hand the report of Dr. Howard H. Chiles on his examination of Smith's vital organs. Dr. Chiles, a chemist for the Central Illinois Testing Laboratories, said he had found no traces of poison thru ordinary tests. He said, however, that there are many rare poisons for which further tests would be needed.

"It appears that the affairs of many persons have been affected by Smith's death and the plans of many investigators may have been balked," he said. "Any scrap of evidence indicating he was not a suicide will be investigated thoroly."

Mayor John W. Knapp of Springfield explained that the investigation of Smith's death has been handled by state police and Sangamon county authorities. He said he would order Springfield police to do everything in their power to find the real cause of his death.

"I believe a searching investigation should be made," said the mayor, "because of reports that Smith acted as tho he were in fear for his life after he returned from Florida."

UNABLE TO REACH HORNER

Edmundson, who as state president of the United Mine Workers claims to represent 30,000 Illinois miners, said he had been unable for months to establish direct contact with Gov. Horner. His statement recalled the experiences of others who have called at the executive mansion and have been turned away.

Edmundson made public a letter to Alexander Wilson, who has the title of administrative assistant to Gov. Horner and is one of the bedside cabinet members able to get by the state policemen at the mansion door.

In the letter, written last week, Edmundson made a complaint against Loren Wasson of Harrisburg, a member of the state mining board. Edmundson accused Wasson of collusion with officials of a rival miners' union, to the detriment of the United Mine Workers. He expressed dissatisfaction with the deaf ear he found turned to previous complaints while Horner has been ill.

"The United Mine Workers of America," Edmundson wrote, "have a very high regard and respect for past administration of affairs of this state by Gov. Henry Horner. We believe that if he were physically able to take personal command, the inattention could be corrected.

"However, it is our further judgment that so long as such matters of importance are referred to appointees and others who are incompetent or uninformed, or politically or financially interested, justice, fair dealing, and compliance with the law will not be had."

United States Senator James M. Slattery made a secret visit to the governor's mansion this afternoon. He was ushered past the guards and thru the front door, but it was not learned whether he was permitted to talk to Horner. Slattery's presence in Springfield was not known until an acquaintance saw him on the railroad station platform, preparing to leave for Chicago.

Senator Luscas came to Springfield after the Smith funeral in Pontiac, but had made no attempt by midevening to gain entrance to the mansion.

TRACE 1938 FUNDS

Treasury department agents, according to an unimpeachable source, began an inquiry along a surprise front today. They sought to learn if the corrupt practices act had been violated in 1938 when Lucas was elected to the senate with the backing of the Horner organization. Accusations that there were excessive campaign expenditures are being investigated carefully.

The corrupt practices act is a federal statute under provisions of which it is unlawful to make a false statement of campaign expenditures or convert campaign contributions to private uses.

The federal agents also are delving into Smith's income and the incomes of other members of the statehouse clique. One item under scrutiny, it was revealed, is the income for 1938 of a state official.

This individual was reported to have charged off $50,000 to a loss on a mysterious business proposition, in order to offset $50,000 income, the source of which it would have been embarrassing to explain.

ONE OF MR. KILBANE'S CUSTOMERS ORDERS A DINNER—A RIB DINNER!

If Postmaster Joseph P. Daly of Waukegan gets a worn out business block a brick at a time today, C. O. D., here's why:

He telephoned yesterday to his friend, Harry Kilbane, restaurant man at 131 North Genesee street, Waukegan. "I'm bringing Jim Farley to lunch," he said. "Party of six. Give me a private dining room. Install a radio. Spare no expense."

Kilbane scrubbed out the back room. He bought a new table. He borrowed fine silverware. He put in a radio.

Postmaster General Farley wasn't one of the five regular customers whom Regular Customer Daly led in at lunch time. The special dishes Kilbane had prepared with loving care weren't needed. Each of the six had brought his lunch—a sack of sandwiches, eggs, tomatoes, pickles, and coffee. The visitors ate, littered their sacks and wrappings and egg shells about the floor and departed—leaving four cents to pay the check. But a Kilbane, says Kilbane, never forgets.

Court Parts Bride, 12, and Stepbrother Husband

Sundance, Wyo., March 12 (AP).—A 12 year old bride today was separated by a court order from her 21 year old stepbrother, whom she married last Thursday. The girl, Opal Daniels Rash, was sent to the Wyoming Girls' school for an indefinite period. Judge Harry Ilsley who signed the committal order, said a hearing revealed the girl was an expectant mother. Opal and her stepbrother, Lester Rash, were married at Belle Fourche after Mrs. Elmer Rash, the girl's mother and Rash's stepmother, swore the girl was 15 years old, the minimum marriage age in South Dakota.

Stir a little STERA-KLEEN in water, put in your plate or bridge for a few minutes. Rinse, and it is ready for use without brushing. Daily use prevents "false-teeth odor." Get STERA-KLEEN today. Only 30¢ a package at any drug store.

STELLE CHARGES ADVISERS USURP HORNER'S POWER

Adamowski Demands Truth About Health.

Springfield, Ill., March 12 [Special].—John Stelle and Benjamin S. Adamowski, rebel Democratic primary candidates, swung hard blows tonight at the political advisers and unelected state officials surrounding and secluding the ailing governor, Henry Horner. They spoke before a crowd of 1,600 at a political rally in the Elks auditorium here.

John Stelle.

Lieut. Gov. Stelle, who is seeking the gubernatorial nomination in defiance of the Kelly-Horner-Nash slatemakers, called the ring of Horner advisers selfish generals scheming and conniving to usurp the power of government.

"These usurpers," he said, "are disloyal not only to the governor but they are disloyal to Illinois."

Wants Truth About Horner.

Adamowski, 33 year old Democratic leader of the Illinois house, now seeking the nomination for United States senator, suggested that a nonpartisan organization select a committee of clergymen, who would in turn pick physicians to examine and make a definite report on the governor's condition.

Adamowski proposed that a Protestant minister, a Catholic priest, and a Jewish rabbi each designate a physician of recognized standing to examine the chief executive. It could then be determined, he said, whether the governor could perform his duties.

Adamowski said that the governor might die and his death be kept secret until after the April 9 primary. His suggestion for a medical commission was applauded by the crowd.

Calls Lyn Smith Loyal.

Stelle in his speech made a reference to the death of F. Lynden Smith, Horner's director of public works, who was found dead in a bathtub in a Springfield hospital last Saturday.

He called Smith the young man who came to Springfield six years ago with ideals. "This young man," he said, "looked upon Gov. Horner as another Lincoln. Today that man's career has ended. It will be said of him, 'He was loyal.'

Stelle made S. L. Nudelman, state director of finance and head of the sales tax collections, his particular target. Nudelman heads the "bedside cabinet" of unelected officials who, Stelle charges, have assumed the governor's powers and have kept Gov. Horner secluded. Nudelman is recognized as having more power than any one else in the cabinet.

"Who can doubt," Stelle demanded, "that 'Nudelmanism' is a reality and not a political catchword? Ask any jobholder who is forced to pay tribute to a campaign fund, the purpose of which is to perpetuate these usurpers in power in our state government. Ask any business man upon whom the forces of Nudelman are swooping down in ever increasing hordes.

"Connived to Usurp Power."

"The historian will tell," Stelle continued, "how, when the leader was stricken, the selfish generals schemed and connived to usurp the powers of government; that in order to accomplish their aims they set about poisoning the mind of the disabled leader against all who stood in his way.

"He also will tell of the chaos that came to pass in the government of Illinois; of the scandals that occurred; of the distrust in the minds of the people, and of what happened to the man who came to Springfield with an ideal in his heart."

Stelle said "these political termites who are undermining our government must be eradicated."

"The time is not far distant," he continued, referring to the April 9 primary. "Just four weeks from today the people will rise to crush forever this political dictatorship. The arrogant boys in the backroom will find that bossism and 'Nudelmanism never can prevail over Americanism.

"Not one single constructive measure for Illinois has been accomplished since the governor's return from Florida in April, 1939. Progress in Illinois has given over to stagnation. We are deteriorating as a commonwealth in spirit and morale. As citizens of a once proud state we must hang our heads in shame at the record of the last eleven months. Scandals and corruption run rampant and the citizens are fearful of worse things to come."

Health a Vital Issue.

Adamowski in his speech said friends of the governor insisted that it would be wrong for Stelle to assume the duties of governor, but believe it all right for Nudelman to seize the reins of government.

Turning to the governor's health, he declared it was a question of great importance.

"I suggest," he said, "in the interest of the people of Illinois, that a committee be appointed to call upon the governor and find out definitely his condition. I would suggest appointment of a Protestant minister, a Catholic priest, and a Jewish rabbi. Then each of these should designate a physician.

"If the three clergymen and the three physicians, all of recognized standing, should find out the facts, the people of Illinois would not be in the dark, as they have been.

Friend of Horner.

"No one," Adamowski continued, "can possibly say that I am not friendly to Gov. Horner. I handled 95 per cent of his legislation on the floor of the house. I have done as much for him as any other legislator in the state.

"If he were active in state affairs now, I would not raise my voice. But I do believe that a group of men, none of whom have been chosen by the people, are acting against the best interests of the state, and it is time the people found out about it. I believe it is necessary for some public spirited body to make a thoro inquiry into this question."

State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, third member of the Stelle-Adamowski-Barrett slate, discussed his record of two years as treasurer and seven years in the auditor's office.

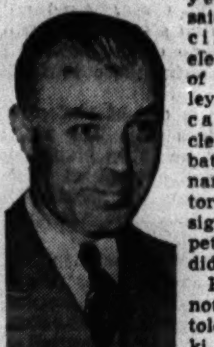
BALLOT PETITION NAMES FORGED, 16 TELL JARECKI

Witnesses Deny Circulating Candidate's Lists.

Sixteen witnesses paraded before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday and said they had not circulated the election petitions of Donald J. Seeley, a Republican candidate for clerk of the Probate court. Their names, as circulators, had been signed to Seeley's petitions of candidacy.



Donald J. Seeley.

Harold Moe, a notary public, told Judge Jarecki that altho he had notarized the petitions, after being called to a room in the Brevoort hotel, the men who appeared before him then as the circulators of the petitions were not the ones who were in court yesterday.

"I must have notarized three or four hundred petition sheets for various primary candidates," Moe said.

Candidate Charges Forgery.

The testimony was presented in a hearing on the petition of William John Granata, also a Republican candidate for probate clerk, who charged that all of the 4,325 signatures on Seeley's petitions are forgeries. Seeley admitted that the signatures appeared to be forgeries. He said he had paid $100 to a Leo Schwartz, who was to supply him with bona fide petitions, and apparently had been duped.

On Monday, Judge Jarecki ruled he would give County Clerk Michael J. Flynn and Seeley until yesterday to show cause why Seeley's name should not be removed from the ballot. Yesterday, Assistant State's Attorney Nathan Kinnally, acting for Flynn, filed a motion to strike off the case on the ground the county judge had no jurisdiction in it. Judge Jarecki replied he had jurisdiction to investigate charges of fraud and ordered the hearing to go on.

The witnesses who said they had not circulated the petitions were called to the stand by Attorney Goodwin L. Dosland, representing Granata. Dosland said one supposed circulator died Jan. 14, before the petitions were circulated, and the addresses of five others were vacant lots or between buildings.

Brands Signature Bogus.

"I'm not that good a writer," said Jerry Page, 1704 Arcade place, a former sailor and circus man, when Dosland showed him a signature purported to be his.

James Moyles, 80 years old, 3414 Harrison street, said he had not circulated any of the petitions, altho his name appeared on one.

"You can bet I wouldn't have circulated those petitions," said Joseph P. Thor, 5245 Gladys avenue, another whose name appeared on a circulator. "I'm a Democratic precinct worker."

John Dugan, 330 South Homan avenue, a friend of Seeley, said he introduced Seeley to Schwartz. He said he met Schwartz in a hotel lobby.

Judge Jarecki signed a warrant for the arrest of Schwartz, charging that he had used false pretenses to obtain the $100 Seeley paid him.

STATE'S HIGH COURT HEARS PLEAS IN ROW OVER SCALISE UNION

San Francisco, Cal., March 12 [Special].—The California Supreme court today heard arguments in the fight between the Building Service Employés' International union and Charles Hardy Sr. and his two sons, suspended officers of the union's local No. 87 here. The court allowed 10 days for attorneys to file additional briefs.

The Hardys had asked the court to issue a writ of supersedeas to halt their trial before three members of the executive board of the international on charges of irregularities in handling the local's funds and in organizing activities. Superior Judge I. M. Golden had ordered the trial, but specifically forbade George Scalise, former convict and president of the international union, to be one of the judges in it.

I. B. Padway, attorney for the international, contended today that the Supreme court lacks jurisdiction to stop proceedings against the Hardys. Albert Picard, attorney for the Hardys, argued that Judge Golden lacked power to order the Hardys to trial before the international board members.

GOV. LONG LOSES COURT FIGHT TO STAY IN OFFICE

New Orleans, March 12 (AP).—Louisiana's Supreme court today killed Gov. Earl K. Long's last chance to remain in public office after his term expires May 14.

The court, which only yesterday rendered its first important anti-machine opinion in a dozen years, today unanimously ordered dismissal of suits by Long to force certification of himself as the party nominee for secretary of state.

The court's decision ended Long's post-election fight for a place in the official family of Sam H. Jones who defeated him in the Feb. 20 gubernatorial primary. In the course of his struggle to save some of the fading power of the machine founded by his brother, Huey P. Long, the governor was repudiated by legislators and two central committees.

Long refused to comment on the court decision, but George Wallace, his executive counsel, said litigation was over as far as he was concerned.

ARMY FLYER, NATIVE OF PARIS, ILL., DIES WHEN PLANE CRASHES

Dayton, O., March 12 (AP).—Lieut. C. N. Piper, 35 years old, attached to the aircraft laboratory at Wright field here, was killed late today in a crash of a Seversky pursuit plane he was piloting. Wright field officials immediately began an investigation.

Lieut. Piper had been attached to the army field here for three years. He was a native of Paris, Ill., and was graduated from the Military academy at West Point in 1930. Prior to his transfer to the air corps he was in the coast artillery corps.

He had served with the 77th Pursuit squadron at Barksdale field, La., and also at Randolph field, Tex.

BOSSISM IS ISSUE IN ILLINOIS VOTE, DECLARES GREEN

Predicts G. O. P. Victory Over Machine.

The 1940 issue in Illinois is whether a machine-bossed state is to be returned to the people, Dwight H. Green, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, said in speeches last night at two ward club meetings. He spoke at 1023 North Dearborn street and in Lawndale Masonic temple.

"The time is at hand," he said, "to break the Kelly-Nash machine and the Springfield gang at one stroke.

"Thoroly discredited, publicly revealed as backroom slate makers, their record of criminal alliances laid bare, the machine and its ally, the Springfield gang, have no vestige of character or respect left.

Terms Machine Vulnerable.

"A year ago the people of Chicago supported my fight against the Kelly-Nash machine. We know now that regardless of how strong the Kelly-Nash machine and payrollers may be, it can be beaten. Without patronage or money, we got 638,000 of our votes counted. This year we can oust the usurpers from power.

"This is our chance to restore the prestige and independence of our judiciary, to smash the gambling ring and racketeers, to free our school system from the politicians, to restore the morale of our police and civil servants, and to make drastic reductions in the exorbitant tax rates."

Green left last night for a series of meetings in southern Illinois.

Lyons Committee Formed.

At headquarters of Richard J. Lyons, who also is a candidate for the Republican governorship nomination, formation of a citizens' committee was announced.

It is headed by Robert M. Adams. Among those on its executive committee are Albert D. Lasker, former chairman of the United States shipping board; Sterling Morton, Graham Aldis, and Francis G. Blair, former state superintendent of public instruction.

Edward A. Hayes of Decatur opened his campaign for the Republican nomination for attorney general yesterday with an attack on the Democratic 2 per cent slush fund. Hayes, a former national commander of the American Legion, spoke at the opening of his Chicago headquarters in the Morrison hotel.

Dictator Peril Cited.

"Illinois should be ruled from Springfield, not from Washington," said Hayes. "When the highest officials of the state bend to the will of the Washington braintrusters just to get some New Deal money to line their political pork barrels, they betray the people who elected them.

"In blindly following the lead of the Roosevelt administration the Democratic officials of Illinois have done much to help drive America in the direction of dictatorship. Any system of economics in which the government assumes control of agriculture, labor, commerce, and industry will destroy the American system of free enterprise. Government should act only as an umpire in interpreting the rules of the game rather than assume a dictatorial position over business or labor.

"The right kind of an attorney general, in acting as the legal adviser of all state officials, should see that the state government steers clear of dictatorship."

Records of 3 Republicans Seeking to Regain Court Jobs

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Following are three more of a series of sketches of Republican candidates for judges of the Municipal court of Chicago to be nominated at the April 9 primary:

JOHN H. LYLE.

John H. Lyle is 57 years old. But that doesn't prevent him from taking a workout in a gymnasium boxing ring nearly every day. And just as vivid as his memory of the days when he coöperated in Chicago's drive against public enemies, by issuing warrants for their arrest and setting high bonds in gun robbery cases, are those recollections of earlier years when he was a star semi-pro baseball pitcher.

John H. Lyle.

He has been farm boy, city lamplighter, secretary to A. A. Stagg, the famous football coach, typewriting speed champion, wrestler, and basketball player.

Mr. Lyle was born in Gessie, Ind., in 1882. He worked his way thru college as a court reporter, getting his degree from John Marshall law school and taking special courses at the University of Chicago and Northwestern. He served in the state legislature from 1914 to 1918 and was an alderman from 1918 to 1924—the first two years from the old 32d ward and the last four from the 17th ward. He was elected to the Municipal court in 1924 and reëlected in 1930, serving until 1936.

While sitting in the Felony branch of the court, he issued warrants for the arrest of 28 public enemies. In gun robbery cases, where the defendants had criminal records, he set bonds of $100,000. The Illinois Supreme court reduced the bond in one case which was appealed and other judges also cut the bonds, but Lyle's effort was a force in breaking up gangster organizations and won him high praise from the Chicago crime commission.

He sought the Republican nomination for mayor in 1931, but lost by a narrow margin. He failed to get the nomination for state's attorney in 1932. In his present campaign he has the support of the regular county Republican organization.

Mr. Lyle lives at 6517 Stewart avenue, is a widower, and has one daughter.

CHARLES F. McKINLEY.

Charles F. McKinley, a former Municipal court judge, has two ambitions:

Charles F. McKinley.

"I want to get back on the court," he says, "so I can continue my efforts to simplify the present complicated rules and make it the poor man's court again. And my second hope is that some day I'll win a prize with some of the flowers I raise in my country place at Lake Villa."

Mr. McKinley is one of 10 former Republican judges who are again seeking places on the Municipal bench. He and five other of these former judges have the backing of followers of the late former Senator Charles S. Deneen.

Mr. McKinley was born in Dubuque, Ia., 65 years ago. He attended Marquette university in Milwaukee and received his degree from the Kent College of Law. He was admitted to the bar in 1895. He was an assistant state's attorney from 1905 to 1908 and an assistant state's attorney general from 1916 to 1918.

He was elected to the Municipal court in 1918 and reëlected in 1924. In 1930 the late George V. McIntyre, a Democrat, was declared victor over McKinley in the election. But McKinley contested McIntyre's election and, after long litigation, was ruled the winner. He returned to the bench in 1934 and served two years. In 1936 the bar association gave him highest ranking in a questionnaire on sitting judges. McKinley is married, has a daughter, and lives at 3500 Lake Shore drive.

JOSEPH L. McCARTHY.

Joseph L. McCarthy, a former Municipal court judge, was a football player in his undergraduate days at De Paul university.

Joseph L. McCarthy.

"I played football afterward, too—professional, I suppose—but I don't remember being paid for it," he says ruefully.

Mr. McCarthy was born in Chicago, 57 years ago. After completing his studies at De Paul and the Chicago-Kent College of Law, he was admitted to practice in 1907. He was an assistant state's attorney from 1920 to 1924 and was on the Municipal court from 1924 to 1930.

He was defeated for reëlection in 1930 and 1932. In the latter year, the bar association, in commenting on his candidacy, said that "he did not demonstrate that he has the requisite qualifications for the office."

Mr. McCarthy lives at 4625 North Racine avenue. He is married and has two sons.

DITCHBURNE ASKS G. O. P. TO SELECT NEW DEAL FOES

Harry S. Ditchburne, candidate for the Republican nomination for state's attorney, last night urged his party to choose wisely in the primary. Speaking before the Young Republican organization of Oak Park, he said:

"I would suggest that the people of our county look well to their ballot in the Republican primary to the end that when our party is finally victorious in November only good and fit Republicans who are sincerely and definitely opposed to the fallacies of the New Deal will gain office in our county, state, and national elections."

Ditchburne warned against bipartisanism. "The unfitness of the New Deal has become so notorious," he said, "that no Republican can afford to trade any of his Republicanism. I consistently have denounced all bipartisan and nonpartisan deals, and will continue to do so."

DAD LOSES PLEA; SON TO REMAIN WITH STEPFATHER

Atlanta, Ga., March 12 (AP).—Superior Judge E. E. Pomeroy ruled today that Huntley Cummings, 12 years old, shall remain in Atlanta with his stepfather, Willard Cummings, instead of going to his natural father, Huntley Chapin Jr., Hollywood, Cal., investment counselor. Chapin's counsel indicated an appeal would be taken.

The ruling was on the Californian's petition for a habeas corpus. Chapin contended that he never had relinquished his legal rights as a father, altho his wife divorced him in 1934, was awarded custody of their child, and later married Cummings.

Mrs. Cummings, the former Mrs. Chapin, died last August in Tampa, Fla. The stepfather contended his stepson had not seen his father since infancy and that if taken to California his life might be marred seriously.

HERSHEY MAKES PLEDGE OF AID TO STATE LABOR

Herrin, Ill., March 12 [Special].—Labor's gains under Democratic state and national administrations comprised the main theme of Harry B. Hershey's address here tonight at a rally in behalf of his candidacy for the nomination as governor.

"I am here to tell you," he said, "that the kind of government I expect to head up at Springfield will be sympathetic to labor's cause and will have a ready ear and a helping hand for labor's needs. This will be so because I thoroly believe in labor's right to collective bargaining, to job insurance, to equality of opportunity, to social security. I shall go step by step with President Roosevelt's humanitarian objectives."

Accompanied by Congressman John C. Martin, candidate for state auditor, and Louie E. Lewis, candidate for lieutenant governor, Hershey left here tonight for Chicago and will travel from there for Wednesday meetings at Freeport, Woodstock, Waukegan, and North Chicago. On Thursday the candidates will attend a meeting sponsored by the Cook county Democratic organization.

Capt. Ralph Millard of the Great Lakes Towing company, said ice conditions are the worst in western Lake Erie in 35 years.

GOLD PURCHASE FROM RUSSIANS HIT BY BROOKS

Shows How New Deal Has Aided Soviets.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., March 12.—"The New Deal pink-red government increased the price of gold from $20 to $35 an ounce and with the stroke of a pen handed England 2 billion dollars and Russia 400 million more," Wayland Brooks, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, said at a massmeeting here tonight.

The Russian profit, Brooks charged, has been used to carry on soviet propaganda for the overthrow of this government, for world revolution, and war on Finland.

Brooks and his campaign mate, Richard J. Lyons, candidate for the nomination for governor, were at Woodstock, Harvard, Marengo, Belvidere, and Rockford today, in the last week of their downstate campaign for the primary election of April 9.

Lyons Assails Lucas.

Lyons took Senator Lucas sharply to task in an address at Belvidere, asking why the senator from Illinois is trying to defeat the Hatch clean elections bill.

"You don't have to look far for the reason," said Lyons. "Mr. Lucas is paying off the back room boys. They stole the votes which elected him in 1938 [when Lyons opposed him] and now they demand their price.

"The citizens of Illinois are entitled to demand of Senator Lucas that he tell the real reason why he is opposing this bill. These citizens are not being misled. They know that the corrupt, pay roll padding Democratic state machine is in such disrepute with the public that it cannot make any showing whatever unless it can crack the whip over 38,000 state payrollers."

Lyons said that if the Hatch bill passes, the Kelly-Nash-Horner machine "will face the fall campaign without being able to terrorize and intimidate public employés as it has done in the past."

Brooks Assails Policy.

Brooks said on the gold profit issue: "In the face of Europe's flat refusal to honor world war debts to the United States, the New Deal presented England with a 2 billion dollar plum. It is interesting to note that the New Deal government did not go after England to pay its debt with the vigor used against the American home owner who may be behind on his HOLC loan payments.

"The communists sent almost a billion dollars' worth of gold to America and collected not the old price of $20 an ounce, but the artificial New Deal price of $35. The communists benefited almost 400 million dollars from that deal and turned right around and spent the money for propaganda designed to overthrow our form of government."

JUDGE WEIGHS RULING IN CONTEMPT ACTION AGAINST GOV. RIVERS

Atlanta, Ga., March 12 [Special.]—Promising a decision within a reasonable time, Federal Judge Basom I. Deaver today took under advisement the contempt case against Gov. E. D. Rivers and Adjt. Gen. John E. Stoddard, head of the Georgia national guard.

The governor and Gen. Stoddard were cited for contempt for failure to obey a federal injunction against interference with W. L. Miller as chairman of the state highway department, whom Rivers "fired" in December and barred from returning to office by setting up martial law. A similar injunction was issued by a state court.

The contempt hearing, begun last week in Columbus, was concluded at Macon. The governor and Gen. Stoddard did not appear at either session of the court, but were represented by Attorney General Ellis Arnall. At today's proceedings Attorney General Arnall reiterated the contention that the federal court was without jurisdiction in the case because, he said, both Gov. Rivers and Gen. Stoddard reside outside the middle Georgia district.

PROBE VIGILANTE TERROR AFTER FATAL FLOGGING

Atlanta, Ga., March 12 (AP).—Federal and state agencies today sifted reports of vigilante terrorism in an effort to track down the night riders who fatally flogged a suburban barber, Isaac Gaston, last Thursday. A reward of $250 was posted by Gov. E. D. Rivers, and the Fulton county [Atlanta] commission was asked to put up a like amount for information leading to arrests.

Lewis F. Johnson, operator of a one man barber shop in East Point, was one of more than half dozen persons in an area south and west of Atlanta who volunteered as a grand jury witness to combat further outbreaks. Johnson told reporters he was beaten 12 years ago by a group of men who gained entrance to his home while posing as officers with a warrant.

"They took me to the same spot where they beat Ike Gaston," he said. "There were five of them. One of these same men who beat me was at Ike's funeral Sunday."

Gaston, with a police record of drunkenness, had been sought 48 hours on a charge of wife beating before his lashed body was found Friday near a pine knoll southwest of the city. A braided lash was the floggers' instrument.

Change Winter-killed oil—and here's why to change to OIL-PLATING

Slush in the gutter is scarcely thinner and dirtier than Winter oil over-staying in your engine. Drain now, warns your judgment—and Car Manual. But get more than a re-filled crankcase. Get cylinders, rings, bearings, and other precious parts OIL-PLATED by making sure that you change to Conoco Germ Processed oil—patented.

Your Mileage Merchant puts it in at an ordinary price, in the ordinary way. But how extraordinary is the man-made extra substance in the Conoco formula, that sets Germ Processed oil apart. For here is oil whose strong "power of attraction" makes engine parts draw glossy OIL-PLATING all over themselves and keep holding it close—as drain-proof as plating on hub caps.

Not for one instant can OIL-PLATING go draining "down home" to the crankcase. Though you're speeding the limit or parking long hours, OIL-PLATING is always faithfully maintained. All in addition to the strong oil-film of Germ Processed oil, this drain-proof OIL-PLATING helps to keep down wear. And that's how to keep your engine nearest to the oil economy of its youth. Your correct Germ Processed oil for Spring, at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station today, will give you the change to an OIL-PLATED engine.

SUPERIOR COURT CLERK IS OPPOSED BY A NEWCOMER

Enright Seeks Nomination Against Schlaeger.

(This is one of a series of sketches on Democratic candidates for nomination in the April 9 primary.)

Only four candidates, of whom three are veteran Democrats seeking to succeed themselves in office, have entered the primary race this year for the Democratic nomination as clerks of the Probate, Circuit, and Superior courts of Cook county.

Frank Lyman and John E. Conroy face no opposition from the Democratic camp in their bid for reëlection as Probate court clerk and Circuit court clerk, respectively. Both are the choices of their party's regular county central committee.

Schlaeger Faces Opposition.

The only contest will be for the nomination as clerk of the Superior court. Here Victor L. Schlaeger, present clerk of the court and the candidate supported by the Democratic organization, is opposed in the primary by Thomas M. Enright, a political newcomer who until recently was employed in the state auditor's office in Chicago.

Schlaeger was born and has lived all his life in the 10th ward, on Chicago's far south side. He is 44 years old and married, and has a daughter. From 1911 to 1917 he was employed as freight clerk by the Illinois Central railroad. In the latter year he enlisted in the navy and served until 1919 in West Indian waters.

Elected to Post in 1936.

He served as deputy internal revenue collector in Chicago from 1919 to 1922, and then became an office executive with the National Carbon company for the next ten years. In 1933 and 1934 he was assistant manager in Chicago for the Home Owners' Loan corporation. Then he spent two years as chief deputy coroner of Cook county. In 1936 he was elected to his present post.

Enright is a bachelor and lives at 1110 West Garfield boulevard. He is 32 years old and a graduate of Georgetown and Notre Dame universities and the Loyola law school. For the last six years he has been employed in the legal department of the state auditor's office here. He has no organization backing.

[Sketches of Republican candidates for nomination to these offices will appear in later issues.]

Portland, Me., March 12 (AP).—Officials of F. J. O'Hara and Sons, Inc., operators of a fleet of fishing vessels, announced today the American navy had requisitioned four trawlers for undisclosed purposes. The trawlers include the Villanova, one of the most modern craft of its kind in the North Atlantic. O'Hara officials theorized the vessels might be assigned to do test work as mine sweepers.

VOTE TO INDICT DAIRYMAN FOR WATER THEFT

Accused of Stealing from Cicero Plant.

Charles Kraus, 40 years old, president of the West Towns Dairy, Inc., which holds the contract to supply milk to five state institutions and 18 Civilian Conservation corps camps, was reported named in a true bill yesterday by the grand jury charging him with the larceny of 750,000 cubic feet of water from the Cicero waterworks.

The reported indictment is the first in county history in which water is regarded as a commodity subject to theft. Cicero gets its water from the city of Chicago and charges its consumers about $1.50 a thousand cubic feet of it. At this price the 750,000 cubic feet of water allegedly stolen would be worth $1,125.

Prosecutor Tells of Arrest.

Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown, who presented the evidence against Kraus, said that last Friday he went to the dairy at 1623 South Cicero avenue, in Cicero, accompanied by Detectives Willis Brennan and Robert Ward. With them went three sewer diggers.

On the way they obtained a warrant from Police Magistrate Henry Sandusky of Cicero charging Kraus with larceny.

On information given by a discharged employé of the dairy, the party began tracing a hidden tap designed to route the water supply around a meter instead of thru it. Altho Kraus and his attorney, Joseph Lustfield, objected to their entering the plant without a search warrant, Brown and his men went to the refrigerator room, where six inches of concrete flooring was broken with picks. Brennan, a former lineman for the Chicago Cardinals, professional football team, ejected Lustfield, who was protesting.

Apparatus Shown to Jury.

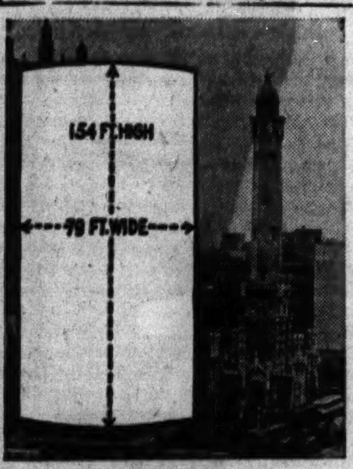
Brown asserted that the tap and pipes circling the meter were laid open to the view of the investigators. The apparatus was disconnected and submitted as an exhibit to the grand jury.

A West Towns Dairy driver, participating in a strike at the plant, was reported to have testified before the grand jury that he connected the tapping system last summer at the direction of Kraus. Brown said the investigation disclosed that before the tap was installed the dairy's water bills ran from $200 to $400 a month but in the last few months had dropped to $60 or less.

According to George Diamond, Cicero city engineer, the city lost about 55 per cent of its water thru diversion or leaks in prohibition days, when bootleggers were active. Present losses run to about 20 per cent, he added.

During the typhoid epidemic which claimed 60 lives at Manteno last year, the attention of State's Attorney Samuel H. Shapiro of Kankakee county was directed to the dairy, which succeeded in retaining its contract to supply milk to Manteno by always underbidding competitors by a small margin. When other dairies ceased bidding it promptly raised its rates to the institution 50 per cent, it was found.

Water Theft Charged



A tank holding 750,000 cubic feet of water, the amount that Charles Kraus, Cicero dairy owner, is charged with having stolen, would appear in this size alongside the Chicago avenue water tower.

G. O. P. CHIEF HITS BACK AT FARLEY ON PARTY FUNDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—A blast at Democratic Boss Jim Farley was fired by Republican Chairman John Hamilton tonight in response to Farley's refusal to drop the sale of convention books as a means for raising party funds.

Hamilton said he was not surprised that the Democratic national committee showed little regard for the federal corrupt practices act which prohibits corporations contributing to national political committees. In 1936, the Democratic committee raised $1,246,763 from the sale of convention books to corporations and others, including $379,750 for the sale of the $250 de luxe books.

Answers Farley Charge.

The Republican chairman asserted that Farley had attempted to "draw a red herring across his smelly convention book operations" by citing several large contributors to the 1936 Republican campaign.

"The truth of the matter is," he declared, "that the largest single contribution to the 1936 campaign was made to the Democrats by Walter A. Jones, the Pittsburgh oil man. According to the official records Mr. Jones contributed the sum of $104,500 to the Democratic campaign that year.

Lists Large Donations.

Hamilton then listed several other large contributions to the 1936 Democratic campaign as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. D. Biddle Jr., New York	$13,700
R. W. Bingham, London, England	15,000
Curtis Bok, Philadelphia	25,000
R. E. Buck, Fort Worth, Tex.	13,700
Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Clayton, Lookout Mountain, Tenn.	16,250
Doris D. Cromwell, Somerville, N. J.	50,000
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, Washington, D. C.	17,500
Bert Fish, Deland, Florida	13,000
James W. Gerald, [Sic] New York	23,000
F. J. Lewis, Chicago	10,000
Lucious Manning, Chicago	25,000
Arthur Mullen, Omaha	13,200
Floyd Odlum, Jersey City	10,000
Fred Pabst, Milwaukee	10,000
J. M. Patterson, New York	24,100
Lewis S. Rosentiel, Greenwich, Conn.	17,500
Jos. M. Schenck, New York	10,000
Nicholas Schenck, New York	10,000
Emil Schwarzhaupt, New York	11,510
Clara D. Sevier, Corpus Christi	10,000
B. E. Smith, New York	10,000
L. C. Steinhard, U. S. embassy, Sweden	10,000
John J. Turtelltaub, New York	10,000
C. V. Whitney, New York	10,000

"The most pathetically humorous line in Mr. Farley's statement," Hamilton remarked, "is that which reads: 'Unfortunately a Democratic administration has no favors to sell.' The truth is that there never has been an administration in Washington whose favors have so boldly been placed on the auction block as that of the New Deal."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Congressional action on a bill calling for a reapportionment of the house appeared assured today when the house census committee reported the measure and instructed its chairman, Representative Matthew Dun [D., Pa.], to request a special rule requiring early consideration.

The law requires reapportionment of the house after each decennial census. Because of the Norris lame duck amendment to the constitution which changed the meeting date of congress, this legislation requires correction to make it operative.

Shifts Time of Reapportionment.

The measure reported by the census committee alters the law so that the reapportionment may be made during the first session of the next congress. If not passed, reapportionment would automatically be delayed until the 1950 census or even later.

The committee vote in favor of the bill was 10 to 8. Opposition came from legislators who fear that a reapportionment, based on the 1940 census, may find their states deprived of one or more representatives in the house. On the other hand, such states as California where hundreds of thousands have migrated from the dustbowl regions in the last few years, probably will gain in representation.

Seeks Prior Legislation.

"The bill should be passed at this session," remarked Dunn, "and before the census reveals the trend of population. There would be plenty of opposition from congressmen from states that lost population. They would be afraid of being eliminated."

Legislation correcting the reapportionment law was sponsored by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], and passed in the senate last year. The house bill was reported in the form of an amendment to the Vandenberg bill and will require the assent of the senate to changes. One of these provisions excludes aliens from the census for purposes of reapportionment.

EVANSTON ASKS 'A LITTLE TRUCKIN' AT POSTOFFICE

Evanston has a new postoffice, and citizens in the north shore town are justly proud of the building. But when, they pondered sadly last night, are postoffice officials going to replace the delapidated postoffice trucks. Lieut. Albert Hagel of the police accident prevention bureau, expressed concern over the safety of the trucks, some of which are more than 10 years old. He said the city can do nothing toward inspecting the trucks, because they are exempt from safety lane tests.

Watchman Found Burned to Death on His New Job

Frank Sitko kindled a fire to keep warm early yesterday on his new job as watchman for a building that is being remodeled at 6032 South Ashland avenue. He was found burned to death at dawn. Police believe that he fell asleep near the fire, which ignited his clothes. Sitko was 52 years old. He lived at 4254 Crystal street.

Mansion of Rufus Dawes Is Damaged by Blaze

Fire which started from sparks of a chimney did approximately $500 damage last night to the roof and third floor storage room in the mansion of the late Rufus Dawes, 1800 Sheridan road, Evanston. The home is occupied by his son, Charles C. Dawes, president of the Franklin Insurance company.

FRIENDS OF CORRUPTION.

The effort to sidetrack the Hatch bill failed in the senate on Monday. The enemies of the bill had a scheme to give the right of way to the agricultural appropriation but their stratagem failed by a vote of 47 to 36. The clean politics bill, therefore, remained before the senate.

The bill would extend the principle established in the Hatch law. That statute forbids all but the highest ranking federal officials from engaging actively in politics. Similar restrictions would apply under the new bill to state officials who receive their compensation even in part from federal grants. For example, any one on a state highway pay roll would be barred from sitting in a party convention or from serving as a precinct or ward committeeman because the states receive federal subsidies for road construction.

Both the Hatch law and the present bill are logical consequences of the New Deal. Federal patronage has long been a political weapon, but never before has it been anything like the instru ment of corruption it has become in these last seven years. Under the New Deal the federal pay roll is now longer than it ever was before in the nation's history; close to 400,000 names have been added since Mr. Roosevelt took office At the least this army of job holders is counted upon to deliver a couple of million votes and, of course, the knowledge that the politicians have jobs and cash to distribute has immensely increased their power to threaten and cajole.

The Hatch law was an attempt to restrict the abuse in some degree, but it was obviously only a start. The direct federal pay roll has been increased by something like 60 per cent in the last seven years—from a few more than 600,000 names to a few less than a million—but the federal budget has been increased by 300 per cent. Much of the money is spent thru the states in the form of subsidies, grants in aid, etc., etc.

In consequence, the number of state pay rollers and the number of contractors working for the states and their subdivisions has increased by leaps and bounds. No such slush funds as are now distributed by the Washington government have ever before been available to any political machine in the world's history. The administration has never successfully concealed its use of this money for corraling votes. Grave abuses were exposed by the Sheppard committee in Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and many other states. The Hatch bill was conceived in the attempt to save the country from the grip of a national Tammany reaching out into every state and every congressional district to control political parties and buy votes.

Now that the attempt to push the bill aside has failed, the New Dealers in the senate are threatening a filibuster to prevent action on the measure. Perhaps they are bluffing and perhaps not; at any rate, if the threat is carried out, the country will have no doubt of its meaning. The senators who take part in it will be engaged in a last ditch fight on behalf of systematic and wholesale corruption.

MR. BACH WROTE A LETTER.

A week or so ago the program notes for the symphony concert presented in translation a letter which the great Bach had written to his patron, Christian Ludwig, margrave of Brandenburg. About all that any one knows today or wants to know about Christian Ludwig is that for a couple of years a man of genius named Bach was on the margrave's pay roll. Except for that, Christian Ludwig was just another petty German princeling of the eighteenth century who was born and in due time died and was buried.

Bach's letter, written in 1721, was in French and in translation reads as follows:

> Monseigneur:
> Two years ago when I had the honor of playing before your royal highness I experienced your condescending interest in the insignificant talents with which heaven has gifted me and understood your royal highness' gracious willingness to accept some pieces of my composition. In accordance with that condescending command, I take the liberty to present my most humble duty to your royal highness in these concerti for various instruments, begging your highness not to judge them by the standards of your own refined and delicate taste, but to seek in them, rather, the expression of my profound respect and very humble obedience. In conclusion, Monseigneur, I most respectfully beg your royal highness to continue your gracious favor toward me and to be assured that there is nothing I so much desire as to employ myself more worthily in your service.

Thanks to the American revolution and the French revolution, that kind of bootlicking went out of fashion a few generations later and remained out of fashion, except in backward lands, for a century and more. Now the world appears to be headed in the other direction. The paper hanger fancies himself the arbiter of architectural elegance and Stalin's taste in music carries the greatest weight in Russia.

Those in this country who believe that the right of a man to hold his head up is a precious right, not to be sacrificed in a vain endeavor to attain economic security, will read the great Johann Sebastian's letter to his patron as a warning. Already in this country there are many highly competent men who fear to state their opinions publicly lest they antagonize the political magnificoes in Washington. The next step is obsequiousness. The closer we approach to dictatorship the more probable it becomes that our men of genius, not to mention the rest of us, will be obliged to adopt the tone of Bach's letter if they want to eat regularly.

SO, THERE IS A GPU.

Senator George W. Norris, writing to Attorney General Jackson, asks for an impartial investigation of some of the recent operations of the federal bureau of investigation and suggests that it needs "a strong restraining hand to keep it in bounds." What particularly interested the senator was the arrest of Detroit citizens accused of recruiting for the Spanish loyalist army. That was done under Mr. Jackson's predecessor in the attorney general's office, the present Mr. Associate Justice Murphy.

Mr. Jackson dismissed the charges, remarking that prosecution in this instance would only emphasize the lack of prosecution in similar activities for other causes in other parts of the country, and intimating that the government would have difficulty establishing good faith in selecting one alleged violation of law out of many.

Senator Norris commended Mr. Jackson for dropping the cases, but severely criticized the FBI for "disgraceful and indefensible third degree methods in making the Detroit arrests. The accused were taken with scant consideration, at unreasonable hours of the early morning, and apparently with the purpose of making it as unpleasant an experience as could be given them.

Mr. J. Edgar Hoover and his agents are coming in for a great deal of radical criticism these days which appears to have more prearrangement than spontaneity. The fellow travelers have at last discovered the American GPU. These fellow travelers were forced to concede that the Roosevelt administration had done a politically necessary thing when it pretended to break violently from Moscow associations. What the more abundant soviet life was endeavoring to do in Finland made a continuance of pretentious cordiality in the relations of the White House and the Kremlin inadvisable.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed his amazement at the revelation of what most informed people had known for 20 years. Mr. Browder and his fellow communists retorted with some embarrassing accounts of the way the New Deal had used them and the Roosevelt administration began cracking down on the comrades. Mr. Jackson by his dismissal of charges rescued a group of them from the wrath and this is approved by Mr. Norris.

The fellow travelers, altho they themselves have been compelled to shift from the Moscow line, nevertheless feel a sympathetic regard for their fellow radicals and, hence, their discovery that we have a GPU. Many other citizens made that discovery long ago, but found that the radicals themselves had set it up. Their GPU was presented as an instrument of social justice when it was operating for the Black lobby investigation, for Senator La Follette's raid upon the industrialists, for the labor board's prosecution of employers, and in other New Deal dragonnades.

The New Dealers and the fellow travelers had no objections to the American GPU when it was raiding the offices of investors, illegally seizing telegrams, letters and personal documents, subjecting persons to search and seizure without warrant, depriving them of fair hearings and exposing them to authoritarian insolence and abuse, restricting their rights of free speech, and invading so many liberties that the courts had to call a halt.

The department of justice and the federal bureau of investigation will have to conduct their own defense against the radical accusations, but the radicals themselves must explain why they never found a GPU at work in the New Deal until it began to make trouble for the revolutionaries themselves.

WHO WON THE WAR?

Several of our friends who fought thru the last war in regular army outfits have come out of the movie houses in which "The Fighting Sixty-ninth" was on view with somewhat plaintive protests that the gallant New Yorkers didn't, after all, win the war all by themselves.

The war department's records of battle casualties bear out the contentions of these regulars and ex-regulars. The 69th [carried on the rolls as the 165th infantry after it was mustered into the national service] was a splendid regiment, as the losses it withstood proved. It had a higher total casualty list, killed and wounded, than any other National Guard regiment, altho one Wisconsin outfit, the 127th infantry, had more men killed or mortally wounded.

But all six of the regular infantry regiments in the 1st and 2d divisions suffered more casualties, including a larger number of fatalities, than any National Guard or any national army outfit. This was also true of the two marine regiments in the 2d division. It was only natural that the better trained regulars should have been given more difficult assignments and been driven harder than civilian regiments, however brave the latter were.

If it will soothe the regulars any, they might remember that no army on earth is quite as good in actual combat as a Hollywood script writer makes it out to be when he really goes to town on the subject.

Footnote: Scanning the statistics on battle casualties, we wondered why the American Medical association never sued the war department for libel over this definition of mortal wounds: "Died as a result of wounds received in action against the enemy [or] of treatment thereof . . ."

WHEELER AND LA FOLLETTE CAN'T NEED VOTES THIS BADLY.

[Baltimore Sun.]

If a new W. S. Gilbert were writing a comic opera about the New Deal, this is the kind of farm-loan bill he would put into Bab-ballad meters:

1. Foreclosures would be outlawed.
2. Payments of loans would be on a variable basis, according to the "ability to pay" of the borrower.
3. The interest rate would be reduced, congress making up the difference out of direct appropriations.
4. The government would guarantee principal and interest of all the bonds on which the farm bank had originally borrowed its capital. [It would have to.]

Senators Wheeler and La Follette don't put it into meter, Bab-ballad or otherwise. But those are actually the terms of their new bill "reforming" the Federal Land bank system. Both the gentlemen are up for reelection this fall, but we still prefer to believe they are working out a comic opera on the New Deal farm plan. They can't need votes that badly.

NEW WORDS TO SELL.

We feel that our contributions to the American language, during a lifetime of putting words into print, are not what they might have been. Our additions to the popular patter have been few and far between. In fact, after observing the efforts of other journalists in this direction, we have always rated neologisms as slightly beneath our contempt. We claim the copyright on "loophound," but it has passed out of usage after a long career; and we believe that we have priority rights in "yearner," meaning soulful, art struck amateurs, but Sinclair Lewis and other big time satirists have made it their own.

It is high time, therefore, to try for a touchdown run into the slang dictionaries, or at least the vocabulary of the New Yorker Magazine. Here are some new inventions from our typewriter:

Barshee: Not a relative of the Irish banshee, but something that screams almost as ominously at times. It is a female barfly.

The demmymonde: New Deal "society."

Power cocktails: Martinis, Manhattans, and old fashioneds.

Whoozoozer: A person who attends crowd-making events in the hope of seeing celebrities. [See "WHO'S WHO."]

Sexhibitionist: Almost any modern American writer.

Picassowary: A person who says he understands Picasso but cannot explain him. [See CASSOWARY.]

Orsonic: An adjective to describe any affectation of superiority by persons under 21 years of age. [See ORSON WELLES.]

Bleeding heart: Any demagog or propagandist who overemphasizes issues of social reform.

No touchdowns here, perhaps; but this is only spring practice. Wait until we learn the signals.

LET US REJOICE A LITTLE.

In a world compounded, as it were, of murder,
Of war and fraud and many another sign
Of man's inadequacy for his heritage:
To put it mildly, of our sad decline;

In the muddy, murky maelstrom we call politics,
In the bellow and the brummagem and bunk
Of another presidential year (vae nobis!)
When the Ship of State is lucky she's not sunk;

In the tedium and humdrum of late winter,
When weariness lies on us like a pall,
It's surely great and grateful to remember
That ere long we'll hear the umpire yell, "Play ball!"

Whose Voice Is Like Lincoln's?

Raymond Massey says that various people with whom he has discussed the Lincoln voice and mannerisms have given him divergent impressions.

I have a letter written by Gen. Oliver Otis Howard, dated 1906, about Lincoln's appearance and his voice which says:

"My impression differs somewhat from that of these writers only in one thing, and that is in the strength of his voice. His voice had the same quality as McKinley's, only it was stronger and usually took on a pleasant monotone and was far reaching."

My mother, who heard McKinley frequently, claims that Dwight Green's voice reminds her of McKinley's. Philardee.

The New York Pronunciation of Chicago.

How Chicago was pronounced around 1890 is told in "The Honorable Peter Stirling," a novel by Paul Leicester Ford [1894].

A gentleman from Chicago says [page 243]:

"Why, look here, you people are so ignorant of my city that you don't even know how to pronounce its name." He turned to Miss De Voe and said, "We say Chicawgo. Now, how do you pronounce it in New York?" Miss De Voe put on that quiet crushing manner she has when a man displeases her, and said, "We never pronounce it in New York." Fred W. Blaisdell.

BEFORE SURGERY TAKE A VITAMIN COCKTAIL.

FOR at least 20 years vitamins have been regarded as indispensable food accessories. But their rôle in surgery has been but little explored. Can it be that better recoveries are made if the level in the diet is given some attention? Emile Holman answers this question in the affirmative.

In a recent report he states that for the last 11 years certain patients were provided with high vitamin feedings—supplemented by concentrates—for several days in advance of operative procedures. Originally, he prescribed a "cocktail" which consisted of an ounce of cod liver oil and the juice of one lemon and two oranges. Later he substituted halibut liver oil capsules with lemon and orange juice to which B was added. He now regards this measure as so beneficial that he advises its observance for a week or two before coming to the hospital. In emergency cases, B and C are injected beneath the skin.

What about the period of convalescence? Three days subsequent to the trip to the surgical department the artificial form is included with the diet and is continued until the patient goes home. Many persons requiring the application of the knife will delay "taking the plunge" as long as possible—hoping perhaps to starve out the disorder or to scatter its effects by means of nostrums. As a result, some allow themselves to become undernourished. Others possess too little of what is called "vital reserve" because their meals have been improperly balanced.

Careful studies have shown that many of those in our general hospitals are markedly deficient in C. In fact, a substantial number will exhibit scurvy—without symptoms. While the classical signs of sore gums, etc., are not displayed, yet this derangement exists. It is well known that among individuals with gastric or duodenal ulcers—18 out of every 20 will show a low ratio of C and the statement has been made repeatedly that 40 per cent of all who need the services of a surgeon will evince this tendency.

Why is this so important? It has been proved conclusively that high nutrition is intimately concerned with healing and that those who lack C will fail to form firm scars. Furthermore, the speed of recovery will be greatly retarded. When we realize that abdominal incisions demand the most rapid type of repair, we can realize the danger that may ensue should slow or weak welding of the tissues take place.

Another fact is that in those suffering from liver or gall bladder disease, A may be absent. Night blindness is one of the common results of this failure and the condition is frequently associated with chronic jaundice or with trouble somewhere along the gall tract. The plan then calls for the employment of large doses of this vitamin—accompanied by bile salts.

Pain along certain nerves, a weakened heart muscle, and a flabby digestive tract may be the aftermath of an inadequate supply of these substances. One group of workers administered B1 to patients afflicted with thyroid disease. There was an immediate response—with more perfect digestion and a fall in the pulse rate. Within a short time these victims were fully prepared for the removal of the offending gland. It is believed also that this element plays a vital part in the regeneration of red cells—should hemorrhage occur, or should blood be lost in other than minute quantities.

K—so essential in promoting the clotting of blood—is most desirable should jaundice be present. It apparently neutralizes the anticoagulating effect of bile. Here, too, bile salts are used to augment its action. Such a program insures not only better behavior of the body in other respects but adds to the safety of any surgical attack.

When we are in tip top health we may assume that the diet furnishes all the vitamins that the system can use. Nevertheless, when some extra strain comes along, reinforcements can do no harm. Perhaps every careful surgeon in the future will advocate this special regimen for all who appear to be a bit "run down." It cannot fail to aid in more rapid and complete rehabilitation.

D. G. writes: I am 73 years old, 5 feet tall, and weigh 158 pounds. I have weighed the same for 25 years. According to charts I am about 35 pounds too heavy. REPLY.

Congratulations. You are the exception that proves the rule.

PNEUMONIA.

V. S. writes: If a physician is not available how is pneumonia treated? Is a chest jacket necessary?

REPLY.

Pneumonia is a dangerous disease and medical help should be secured if possible. In the meantime keep the patient in bed and rely upon good nursing. The old fashioned chest jacket is rarely advised.

FORGETTING.

Mrs. D. writes: Is it possible for a person to forget certain happenings in his life and then, after a period of years, recall them?

REPLY.

Many incidents are forgotten until some association or chain of thought brings them to mind. We all have this experience.

TAVERN BUSINESS.

Chicago, March 8.—I have read many articles regarding vice, gambling, etc., in a great many taverns. As the wife of a legitimate tavern owner, I would like to present my side.

My husband runs a tavern in a very respectable neighborhood on the north side, and one that would be a credit to any community. His customers consist of some very fine people, a great many of whom are married couples seeking a little clean pleasure and relaxation.

Now, after almost five years in business, he has finally managed—with my financial assistance in doing part time office work—to own the place. However, he has never yet been able to make enough to pay his city license fee, which at present is the exorbitant sum of $800 per year, not counting the other licenses [state and federal] and many insurances, etc., a tavern owner is compelled to have. No other business in the city is forced to pay such a large sum to operate. My husband works long hours, day and night, every day including Sunday, as he cannot afford to hire a relief bartender.

Why then, I ask, are these disreputable, crime breeding places allowed to continue in business and the majority of them remain open all night without any regard for the law? Why are not their licenses revoked? I'll tell you why: Because the city wants the money from those taverns, which, by their crooked methods and dealings, are the more able to pay. If this sort of tavern was completely done away with, honest, law abiding, upright citizens like my husband, would then perhaps at least be able to meet expenses. DISGUSTED WIFE.

CAMPUS POLITICS.

Sterling, Ill., March 8.—I woud like to inform "Illinois '26," whose amusing letter appeared in this column March 5, that he, or she, should not make such dogmatic statements without accurate information.

At the University of Illinois within the last several years there have been many independents who have held very important positions. These include presidents of classes. Already this year there has been at least one independent chosen for a queen besides several others who have appeared in queens' courts.

Perhaps "Illinois '26" did not know that for nearly two years an independent nearly monopolized the beauty crown, besides many others who won contests.

I'm afraid the majority of Greek letter people wouldn't agree with your correspondent in thinking that independents are not the right crowd. ILLINOIS GREEK.

A STAFF FOR THE CENSUS.

Berwyn, Ill., March 8.—In less than a month the census is to be taken thruout the country. Much unnecessary money will be expended for salaries in getting this task completed. Why cannot those on relief or the WPA be doing this work? They are not all illiterates. There are many intelligent people who could very efficiently handle this questionnaire. This would effect a tremendous saving to the country. FORESIGHT.

IF MEDICINE IS A TRADE.

Chicago, March 8.—Now that the learned New Deal jurists have decided that the practice of medicine is a trade and not a profession, it behooves the medical profession to form a strong union and use their influence in getting rid of these crack-brain jurists. HARRY A. SALZMAN, M. D.

CALL THE WEATHER BUREAU.

Maywood, Ill., March 7.—Maybe some reader can help me out on this one as you have helped in the past. Just when was the big snowstorm of 1939? I had note of it in a book [no, not a diary] that it started to snow Jan. 29 and was going strong the next day. I have had several arguments about it. H. M. M.

A USE FOR THE GOLD HOARD.

Chicago, March 7.—On the financial page March 5, 1940, you reported Senator Elmer Thomas as having proposed in a bill that the Export-Import bank redistribute the 18 billion in government gold among the "solvent nations" of the world. Why would it not be better to coin this gold, and use it in retirement of a portion of the federal debt?

We are informed that there are about 45 billion dollars of federal debt on which the taxpayers have to pay an average annual interest bill of 2.6 per cent. Part of this debt has been used to purchase this gold. At 2.6 per cent, the interest on 18 billion 188 millions would amount to about $472,888,000 annually. In a word, it is costing the American people that sum to keep the gold in a hole in the ground in Kentucky.

Possibly the idea is economically unsound in some way, but it does not seem so to me. If this were done, it seems to me we would save nearly a half billion in interest annually; also, if the opportunity to invest this sum in government bonds were removed, the prospective owners of this sum in gold would be compelled either to hoard it at no cost to the taxpayers nor at any profit to the owners, or they would be compelled to invest it in business, with the result that it would probably produce a vast amount of wages, taxes, and profits. However, if my reasoning is at all correct, we would at least save a sum nearly great enough to have covered all federal government costs annually 25 years ago. Besides, it belongs to the taxpayers. B. A. SHEEHAN.

MRS. LINCOLN: FACT VS. FICTION.

Peoria, Ill., March 7.—"Abe Lincoln in Illinois" is one of the best plays I have ever seen, but goodnes! A petite blonde in Mrs. Lincoln's shoes! Unthinkable! But was I mistaken?

Well, I hied myself to Springfield to find out, and after visiting the old Lincoln home and the Lincoln room in the Centennial building, and studying all the old photographs of Mrs. Lincoln from the time Abe wooed her until her departure to the White House, I found out I was not mistaken. Mrs. Lincoln was a decided brunette and quite buxom in appearance.

I admit her acting in the play is very fine, but how about a dark wig and a little upholstery on shoulders, bosom, and hips to turn the trick? BESS BARRY.

CHILDREN'S PAINTINGS.

Chicago, March 10.—I refer to an exhibition now in progress in the north lobby of the public library showing art work of public school children, ages 6 to 11 years or thereabouts. Here is a fine show, alongside of which most of the Picassos recently shown at the Art institute would suffer badly. If any proof is necessary regarding the mental age necessary to produce such work as was recently exhibited at the Art institute it may be obtained quickly and conclusively by a visit to the children's show. This comparison is not fair to the children, and no disparagement of their work is intended in the slightest degree. On the contrary, their work is wonderful and we should have more exhibits of their talent. F. A. B.

TODAY IN HISTORY

March 13, 1733.

Joseph Priestley, English nonconformist minister, chemist, and discoverer of oxygen, born. He was also an able political writer, and is frequently compared with Benjamin Franklin, whom he knew. He became unpopular in England, first for his sympathy with the American colonies and later with the French revolutionists, and in 1791 his chapel and house in Birmingham were destroyed by a mob. He spent his last years in the United States.

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

CLOSING ESTATE.

Chicago, March 7 [Legal Friend of the People].—There are four children in our family, all of age and married. Three years ago we lost both our parents. Father died first and left no will. Mother died a month later and left a will making all four of us equal heirs. All four are in perfect accord.

We hired a woman attorney who probated the estate and [1] promised to close the estate in one year. There were two real estate properties at the time of their death with some cash, and insurance, which was spent for burials. We were forced to dispose of one building at a sacrifice because mortgagee would not renew contract. We have at least 10 years' unpaid taxes on the other. We would like to hold on to this one if we can.

We have experienced a lot of difficulties in our dealings with our attorney. She has proven herself incompetent in all her dealings, and has shown a lot of ignorance in real estate matters and has made numerous unkept promises to close the estate. We made three trips to the Probate court with our complaints and received no satisfaction. We also were advised to hire another attorney, which we cannot afford to do, as we already have paid our lawyer in full, plus an additional sum which was not agreed upon but which she claimed came up in the meantime. This additional sum we paid to avoid continuous disputes and to hasten the closing of the estate. She has ignored all the phone calls and letters we have written her.

2. She claims many things have kept her from closing the estate. Minor things which could have been done the first couple of months, as we have been told.

3. What legal [or other] proceedings can we undertake to expedite closing of the estate?

4. Is there any way we can have property taxes reduced by having the estate probated? M. K.

1. Under the statute as it stood before this year creditors were allowed a year in which to file their claims and hence an estate could not be closed within one year. We doubt if she promised to do the impossible.

2. We cannot advise without having her side of the facts before us.

3. You might try asking the clerk of the court to bring pressure to bear on her to close the estate.

4. Ordinarily the tax assessments are higher on property going thru probate than on other property. Hence we do not understand your question.

INQUIRY ORDERED IN DISMISSAL OF FRAUD CHARGES

Accused Precinct Boss Loses County Job.

State's Attorney Courtney ordered an investigation yesterday after County Treasurer John Toman discharged Frank De Salvia, 42 years old, a clerk in Toman's auditing department, as a result of disclosures following a conference in Judge Jay Schiller's chambers Monday.

Charges of embezzlement were dismissed against De Salvia at the conference for want of prosecution after the defendant, a Democratic precinct captain in the 31st ward, had handed over a cashier's check for $400 to Mrs. Theresa Anzalone, 5139 Ainslie street, the complainant.

Mrs. Anzalone charged that De Salvia, who lives at 1125 North Lawndale avenue, had failed to pay her back taxes with the $400, which she had given him for that purpose. De Salvia's defense was that he had paid the money to another man, who had absconded.

Courtney Orders Quiz.

Courtney ordered De Salvia brought in for questioning after Courtney had conferred with Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, who had received a report on the proceedings in Judge Schiller's chambers from Joseph O'Connor, the assistant state's attorney assigned to Felony court.

Courtney instructed Crowley to find out from De Salvia whether there actually was another man in the transaction. He directed that De Salvia be taken before the grand jury, if necessary, and that the entire matter be referred to the jury for possible action.

"If the matter had been handled in open court," Courtney said, "there could have been no objections from any one. But these matters should be out in the open, where everybody can see what goes on."

Ousted from Pay Roll.

Treasurer Toman, who began an investigation after learning of the proceedings Monday, ordered De Salvia dismissed. De Salvia was placed on the treasurer's pay roll Sept. 6 at a salary of $235 a month. His political sponsor was not named, but he comes from the ward in which County Recorder Edward J. Kaindl is Democratic committeeman.

Judge Schiller issued a statement in which he said his part in the case had been misconstrued. He said nothing resembling a star chamber session occurred in his chambers, that no witnesses were sworn, no testimony was taken, and that nothing was before the court except the desire of the complaining witness to withdraw the prosecution.

ACCUSED S. SIDE BOSS OF POLICY GAMES GIVES UP

Edward P. Jones, 42 years old, colored, alleged policy game king of the south side, surrendered at the federal building yesterday on his indictment last week for evading $803,650 in income tax for the years 1933 thru 1938. He posted $100,000 worth of real estate to cover a $25,000 cash bond.

Jones, who lives at 4726 Michigan avenue, was indicted with his brothers, McKissack McHenry Jones and George P. Jones. The two brothers surrendered last week and posted bond of $10,000 each. McKissack is accused of dodging $123,498 in taxes and George of evading $93,306.

Meanwhile John Jones, 47, of 11417 South Ashland avenue, no relation to the others, was sentenced by Judge William V. Daly in Racket court to two days in jail and fined $25 for possessing gambling equipment. Court attachés said he is the first gambling defendant in memory to be jailed in the court, where gamblers usually are freed because of lack of proper warrants. Jones was seized when he entered a policy office at 114th street and Racine avenue with gambling records. The operator of the office, Walter Daniely, 44, colored, was discharged on a motion to suppress the evidence.

Elected as a Joke, Woman Makes Good as Police Chief

Warren, N. H., March 12 (AP).—Elected last year as a joke, Mrs. Dorothy Clark made good to such a degree as New England's only woman chief of police that she was reëlected on the first ballot by a wide majority at today's town meeting. Mrs. Clark surprised the voters by accepting her first term and immediately began strict enforcement of the law. She made many arrests, but retained the admiration and respect of the townspeople, who today also elected her overseer of the poor.

If Your Sleep Is BROKEN Again Tonight by an Overwhelming Urge —you have only yourself to blame

Your getting up at night may be due to too much acid in your kidneys. This over-acidity, which can be brought on by your sluggish kidneys failing to eliminate at least two quarts a day, can be irritating your bladder linings. This irritation can cause those "overwhelming" urges that break up your sleep, those pains in the back, in the lower abdomen, those burning passages and irritations. If you are suffering from those conditions and if your kidneys are failing to eliminate at least two quarts a day—

Start taking three-way FOLEY PILLS. These triple-acting pills for sluggish kidneys and irritated bladders will give you three-way relief. Their action will stir those sluggish kidneys, dilute and neutralize the over-acid contents of your bladder. Equally important is the fact that FOLEY PILLS will transform the over-acid contents into a bland fluid which will actually help soothe those bladder linings—and quiet those irritations which may be responsible for those "overwhelming" urges, backaches, getting up nights, burning, itching, etc.

If your being awakened at night comes from over-acidity in your bladder due to sluggish kidneys, you have only yourself to blame if you permit those "urges" to continue to ruin your sleep. YOUR MONEY BACK if any such urges awaken you the second night after you start taking FOLEY PILLS. Many report sound slumber the very first night. For the sake of undisturbed slumber and feeling better, start taking FOLEY PILLS today. At your druggist.

Most in Teens

Eight suspects arrested Monday by the county highway police at Homewood yesterday confessed at the state's attorney's office that they had committed dozens of burglaries and robberies in the last three years. The confessions enabled Policeman John McNeela to recover tires, batteries, electric drills, and acetylene torches that were included in the loot.

The most mature of the prisoners is Harold Warner, 32 years old, Oak Forest, alleged fence for the gang. The others, all from 17 to 21 years old, are William Hayes, Carl Belt, James Burton Holmes, and Marion O'Grady, all of Oak Forest; James Lydon and Peter Kaltsas of Bremen township, and Bruno Lahucik of Dixmoor.

TRACE 4 YOUNG JAIL BREAKERS IN STOLEN CAR

Gallup, N. M., March 12 (AP).—Search for four young jail breakers, two of them accused killers, centered at the village of Grants, 75 miles east of here tonight.

State Police Lieutenant Joe Roach said the fugitives were riding in a stolen car in the Grants vicinity, about half way to Albuquerque.

The four broke from the Gallup jail last night, after overpowering Sheriff D. W. Roberts. Escaping were Lynn Fryback and Donald Combs, two 18 year old youths from Fort Wayne, Ind., held on a charge of murdering William Fry, a filling station attendant, and two brothers, James and Paul Thompson, who were being held on forgery charges.

FEDERAL AGENTS HUNT TWO FAKE CENSUS TAKERS

Agents of the federal bureau of investigation were assigned yesterday to search for two fake census takers who have been questioning housewives in the Albany Park neighborhood.

Informants said the men had demanded answers to three questions: What the family income was, the rent paid, and the amount of mortgage on the home, if owned.

George W. Schreech, area supervisor of the census, said that census taking would not be started until April. If the fake census men are caught, he said, they would be prosecuted for representing themselves as federal officers.

JURY IS SWORN IN FOR A RETRIAL OF 1930 HOLDUP CASE

George Burka.

A jury of 10 women and two men were sworn in yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge James F. Fardy to try George Burka, 30 years old, an ex-convict, as a robber under the habitual criminal act. If found guilty, he can be sentenced to life imprisonment.

The indictment, oldest on the Criminal court docket, has been continued 23 times. Burka was brought to trial last month, but a mistrial was declared when a police witness made a prejudicial statement. The robbery of which Burka is accused occurred nine years and three months ago—Dec. 17, 1930—when a filling station attendant at 6434 South Kedzie avenue was robbed of $5.

Burka, who was on parole at the time of the holdup, was a fugitive until his arrest 13 months ago in Seattle, Wash. He escaped while being returned here by leaping thru the window of a washroom on a train. He was recaptured last July in California and finally appeared in court last Aug. 2.

SCRATCH DETROIT PROSECUTOR OFF COUNTY PAY ROLL

Detroit, Mich., March 12 (AP).—The Wayne county board of auditors today took the name of Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea off the pay roll in an attempt to enforce the suspension of McCrea by Gov. Luren D. Dickinson.

The prosecutor has refused to vacate the office, declaring that he was legally elected by the people and that rotten politics is the explanation of indictments charging him with gambling conspiracy and petitions seeking his ouster.

Attorney General Thomas Read filed a petition in the state Supreme court Monday asking that the office of Wayne county prosecutor be declared vacant. Examination of McCrea, former Detroit Police Superintendent Fred W. Frahm, and others accused of conspiring to operate and protect a million dollar baseball lottery, will be resumed tomorrow.

Three Ways to Treat AN OLD AILMENT

This is the "do nothing" or "let bad enough alone" method of treating common constipation. The believers in this fatalistic system merely grumble and slump, until benevolent Nature finds a way or serious distress takes them to the doctor.

This is the "periodic purger" type, usually of a grim and determined nature. The advocate of this method does nothing at all to prevent his constipation, or to get at the cause of the trouble. He merely waits for it to happen, as it continually does, then meets the emergency with "a good stiff dose."

Finally we have the "forethought" school who believe the way to correct common constipation is not to get it at all! These people know that one of the most frequent causes of constipation is lack of what doctors call "bulk" in the diet. So they adopt the sane and sensible routine of eating delicious KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN for breakfast.

Kellogg's
ALL-BRAN
WITH SUGAR, SALT AND MALT FLAVORING
A NATURAL LAXATIVE CEREAL

By eating crisp, bulk-rich ALL-BRAN every day and remembering to drink plenty of water, the happy followers of the "forethought" school forget they ever worried about constipation due to lack of "bulk." They "join the regulars," as the slogan goes, and step out on the sunny side of life.

FOUR UNIONISTS SURRENDER ON TERROR CHARGE

Questioned on What Use Is Made of Dues.

Four officers of local 1248 of the Retail Clerks International Protective association, all accused of terrorist tactics in trying to force grocery employés into their organization, surrendered at the detective bureau yesterday. They were formally charged with disorderly conduct, finger printed, and released on bonds.

The men are Robert Kruger, 41 years old, 1440 North Spaulding avenue, president; Michael Pollack, 29, of the Harrison hotel, recording secretary; John J. Farrell, 38, of 7029 Michigan avenue, an organizer, and Morton Schaps, 22, of 1632 North Lawndale avenue, sergeant-at-arms.

Warrant Issued for Boss.

A warrant has also been issued for Max Caldwell, business manager and real boss of the union. He was reported out of town and the others said he would surrender Friday. The complainants against the five men are Mrs. Mae Gleich, president of local 22260 of the Demonstrators union, and two women members of her group.

Sergt. George Barnes of the police labor squad questioned Pollack, who is Caldwell's first assistant, about the conduct of the organization. He was informed that the union has 5,200 members who pay $2 a month dues.

Of these only 326 appeared Sunday to vote in an election of officers, and the Caldwell-Pollack choices won easily. Pollack admitted that this was the first election that had been held since September, 1937, when he became an organizer. He added that every officer except Caldwell had been opposed by other candidates.

Where Do Dues Go?

Asked about where the dues went, Pollack said he was paid $75 a week, but didn't know what salaries were received by others.

"I have never been arrested," Pollack declared, "except in connection with union matters."

Sergt. Barnes asked whether there had been any internal troubles in the union and the reply was:

"We had to expel Mrs. Gleich."

SEARCH WIDENED FOR RELIEF CLERK IN FRAUD PROBE

A search for James Bennette, clerk and auditor of the Bremen township relief office, will be carried into an adjoining state today, Lieut. Fred Muhlhausen of the county highway police said yesterday. Muhlhausen refused to say where the new search would be conducted or where he had obtained information leading to it.

Bennette has been missing since the relief office burned Feb. 25. He is sought on warrants charging bigamy, nonsupport, and conspiracy to obtain money on false pretenses thru the relief office. Police charge he operated a confidence game and used relief office disbursing orders to defraud fellow employés.

NAB ST. CHARLES GRAD, 5 PALS IN BURGLARY GANG

Walter Semma.

A tough young parolee from the St. Charles School for Boys boasted last night at the North avenue police station how he taught five companions, all held with him as members of a burglary ring, to be good thieves.

The braggart is Walter Semma, 16 years old, 2438 Division street. He asserted that while he was "a natural born burglar" the finishing touches of his training were received in the school.

"I got out last Sept. 15," he said, "and inside of a week I was busy stealing again. Since then I've been on 65 jobs. Mostly I worked alone, but I taught these guys all they know.

Rule 1: Never Carry Gun.

"My first rule was never to carry a gun. I've seen too much about murders. Another rule was always to pick a good apartment on the first floor. My boys were instructed to ring a doorbell, and to say it was a mistake, if anybody answered. If there was no answer, then the boys were to flash a light.

"If this didn't bring anybody, the next step was to jimmy the door and get inside. After that there was nothing to do but pick up what stuff they wanted. They were told to wear gloves and leave no prints."

The student members of the band are Robert Birdie, 15, of 1507 North Fairfield avenue; Albert Kulinski, 15, of 2140 Potomac avenue; Peter Storczak, 15, of 1500 North Fairfield avenue; David Moran, 16, of 2061 Bingham street, and Raymond Hayes, a pupil at the Working Boys home, 1140 Jackson boulevard. Only Hayes denied participation in the thefts.

Razor Leads to Arrests.

He and Birdie were arrested last Friday, after a grocer saw Birdie with an electric razor, considered him too young to shave, and notified the police. They implicated the others.

Policemen estimated that the band's loot exceeded $1,000, but doubted much was obtained for it. Semma said he sold it all to acquaintances in his neighborhood, and that he and his companions spent all the proceeds on food, drink, and movies.

U. S. GRAND JURY TO LAUNCH DAIRY PRODUCTS PROBE

Leo F. Tierney, special assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust prosecutions, disclosed yesterday that the federal grand jury soon will begin an investigation of alleged monopolies and price fixing in dairy commodities other than milk in the Chicago area.

He said the inquiry would be related to a concerted investigation in other sections of the country of alleged combinations in restraint of trade in milk and other dairy products which is planned by Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold.

Separate Probes Planned.

Federal grand juries in other major cities will conduct separate inquiries, Tierney said, but the result is intended to break up what amounts virtually to agreements thruout the nation as to prices, supply, and restriction of competitors outside of dairymen associated in the alleged combination.

Tierney said it would be unnecessary for the Chicago investigation to concern itself with milk, as indictments are pending here against 34 corporations and 63 individuals, among them Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, the Associated Milk Dealers, Inc., and all the large dairies.

It was indicated, however, that alleged monopolistic practices in the distribution of cheese, butter, and other dairy products would be investigated and that the federal jury may be asked to launch a new inquiry leading to indictments against a group of firms and individuals related to the ice cream industry.

Indictments charging a monopoly in ice cream were voted Nov. 14, 1938, against 20 individuals and 20 corporations, but were thrown out of court last October by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan. He ruled the indictments were vague and did not show that the northern Illinois district court was the proper venue.

FBI to Join Inquiry.

Tierney said the new investigation is intended as an attack upon a price structure governing dairy products which the government regards as artificial and unjustifiably high.

He said the inquiry will be conducted by George P. Ault, special assistant attorney general, with the assistance of a staff of 20 attorneys, accountants, and investigators. Tierney said the federal bureau of investigation also is to be at Ault's disposal.

Latin America Explored in 2 Inviting Books

"This Way Southward," by A. F. Tschiffely. [Norton, $3.50.]
"Ecuador, the Unknown," by Victor Wolfgang von Hagen. [Oxford, $3.50.]

BY PERCY WOOD.

Two intelligent and sensitive adventurers here add absorbing items to the South American shelf. Read Tschiffely to learn of the vast regions between Buenos Aires and Cape Horn, and Von Hagen not only for Ecuador the unknown but also for a comprehensive report on the Galapagos Islands, which belong to Ecuador.

"This Way Southward" should be of especial interest to the readers of "Tschiffely's Ride," the account of a trek on horseback from Buenos Aires to Washington—a three year journey completed in 1928. "Gato" and "Mancha," the sturdy Argentine ponies which alternated in carrying the author on this memorable ride, are briefly glimpsed again in the current volume. They are now living in easy retirement on the pampas.

On his newest adventure, however, Tschiffely surrendered to the machine age and used an automobile to take him thru Patagonia and Tierra del Fuego, at the southern tip of the continent. But mere speed did not blur his descriptive eye as he rolled over the great, flat cattle lands, stopping occasionally to eat roast mutton and armadillos with the gauchos. Expertly he weaves the history of this little known country into a very modern travelogue, appraizing the new life going on there in the light of the past.

"Ecuador the Unknown" is told by a young naturalist, who had his wife along in the rôle of botanist. So while Von Hagen collected and observed the fauna—with a deep interest in the great land tortoises in the Galapagos—Mrs. Von Hagen gathered the flora, and charmed the Indian women in the Ecuadoran interior with gifts of needles.

The Von Hagens "did" both Ecuador and the Galapagos pretty thoroly. On the mainland they investigated the coca and straw hat industries [all "Panama" hats are made in Ecuador], watched the government in operation, traveled extensively in the interior, and happily noted the spread of modern plumbing.

Their trip to the Galapagos was made on a dingy schooner, and they spent about six months climbing over the lava beds, watching flamingos, tortoises, seals, and smaller animal life. It is less of a tropic paradise than many have apparently thought, but to the naturalist it is a rewarding location.

Author of Trio.

Kay Boyle, whose volume of three short stories, "The Crazy Hunter," is reviewed in adjoining column.

Lectures

The winning author will be presented with $1,000 at the Friends of American Writers Foundation for Literature Award dinner at 7 p. m. tomorrow at the Blackstone hotel. Carl Sandburg, author of "Abraham Lincoln: The War Years," will be the guest speaker. His subject will be "Hyacinths and Biscuits."

Edward Weeks, editor, and author of "This Trade of Writing," will conclude the Northwestern university lecture series with a talk on "Books in a Troubled World" at 8:15 p. m. tomorrow at Thorne hall.

Word Artistry Is Kay Boyle's Special Talent

"The Crazy Hunter," by Kay Boyle. [Harcourt-Brace, $2.50.] $2.50.] Published last Thursday.

"Three Short Novels" the tales in this volume are labeled, but they are not novels. They are short stories, but long ones with more substance and strength and less plot-carpentering than most short stories.

All of them are written with exquisite sensitivity for words and their cadences. No one writing today does a more delicate job of word patterns than does Kay Boyle. No one gives words fresher sparkle. To anyone interested in writing as a craft-art, Kay Boyle has a special and rare significance. The non-professional reader does not of necessity recognize Kay Boyle's special genius. But even for him, these three stories will seem unusual.

The first of the tales—and the most typical of the author's special technique—is the story of a horse which goes blind and which has to be, eventually, destroyed. In it a young girl, her father, and her mother are involved—the girl deeply, emotionally eager to save her beloved horse; the father determined that his child shall not suffer the hurt which the horse's destruction would bring her [his relation to the horse's fate is thus a vicarious one], and the mother determined that the horse shall be destroyed for its own sake as well as to prevent disaster. The implications in this record of psychologies at war are broader than the mere facts of the story.

The second tale, "The Bridegroom's Body," is too much entwined with the symbolism of swan's mating to be other than a tour de force. The last story, "Big Fiddle," is a horror tale of a new variety, in which the hero, trying to escape madness, innocently becomes involved in a chain of circumstances which will inevitably return him to prison—or death—which haunts him. It is at the same time less subtle and more popular than "The Crazy Hunter." F. B.

The Writing Hoffman Twins

Ruth (left) and Helen Hoffman, Minnesota twins who wrote "We Married an Englishman" and have continued their record of life in Iraq in "Our Arabian Nights," reviewed below.

Amusing Adventures Continued in Another Arabian Nights Tale

"Our Arabian Nights," by Ruth and Helen Hoffman. [Carrick & Evans, $2.75.] Published last Friday.

The twin authors of "We Married an Englishman" have written another Arabian nights tale in the amusing, gay manner as its predecessor.

There are two methods of writing successful travel-adventure books. One merely records such fascinating adventure that the material makes the book memorable. The other sets down experiences which, altho they are unusual for most readers, have no special drama or melodrama about them, and sees those experiences with such a fresh eye and describes them with such gayety or beauty of language that the resulting book is long remembered. Such recent books as Margaret Halsey's "With Malice Toward Some," Agnes Newton Keith's "Land Below the Wind," and Isak Dinesen's "Out of Africa" are examples of freshness, amusement, charm, or beauty of description making not entirely unique experiences memorable.

"Our Arabian Nights" belongs with that group rather than with the adventure thrillers. For, altho these twins from Minnesota were probably the first twins ever to live in a Bedouin harem, quite obviously from the casualness of one English woman caller's reception while they were there, feminine visitors to the harem were not at all rare, and their experiences were almost lethargically undramatic in the harem.

"We Married an Englishman" recorded the twins' life in Iraq, when one of them married "Douglas," an English engineer. "Our Arabian Nights" continues the amusing record of their search for a house in Bagdad, their large menagerie which increased in almost mathematical progression, Bedouin women's beauty secrets, the strange real estate conventions of Iraq, British propriety, and other lively topics. How Gangsters Rule New York Is Vividly Told

"Gang Rule in New York," by Craig Thompson and Allen Raymond. [Dial Press, $3.50.] Published last Thursday.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—A sordid but fascinating tale of how gangsters and their political allies seized control of a great city is unfolded in the pages of "Gang Rule in New York." Craig Thompson and Allen Raymond, two seasoned newspaper reporters who wrote this crime saga, believe the city is still, to a certain extent, in the grip of that alliance.

Messrs. Thompson and Raymond have minced no words, neither have they spared names in their story. Their undertaking covers the two decades from 1919 thru 1939. Roughly the book might be divided into two parts, one dealing with the rise of the underworld to power during the prohibition era and the other with the branching out of the gangs into racketeering enterprises after repeal.

"Frankie Yale and Joe Adonis, Louis Lepke and Gurrah Jake, Buggsy Siegel and Meyer Lansky, Frankie Costello and Owney the Killer, Joe the Boss and Lucky Luciano, Dutch Schultz and Dutch Goldberg, such were the names of the men who ran a town of 7,000,000 persons, much as they wished to, and laughed at controls by elected officials. Some officials they made; others they broke," the authors write.

"All of these gangsters owed their success to politics."

Tammany Leader James J. Hines, whose influence reached to the White House, as the authors point out, and who is now under conviction as political fixer for the policy racket, tops their list of gang aids in public life. It is an imposing roster of politicians, judges, magistrates, lawyers, prosecutors, police, and labor leaders.

Along with their running chronicle of the bloody battles of gangland, which caused a thousand deaths here during prohibition, the authors have gone to some length to analyze the effect of rackets on the daily lives of citizens. For much of this knowledge they are indebted to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and his racket prosecutions.

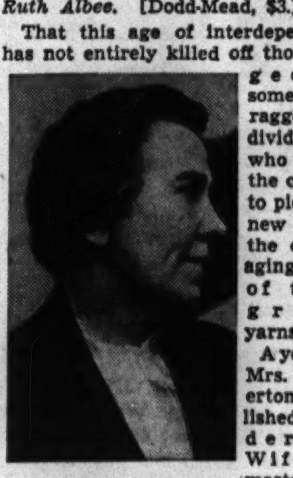
There are chapters devoted to the larger racketeering rings which Dewey has successfully prosecuted—the restaurant racket, flour trucking, poultry, vice, and the policy game.

Dewey and the reform administration in the city have dealt gangland some wallops, the authors admit, but their book closes on a gloomy note: "Gang rule in New York is not dead. Stunned temporarily, it seems to be reviving."

Pioneer Courage Triumphs in Two Readable Stories

"Three's a Crew," by Kathrene Pinkerton. [Carrick & Evans, $2.75.]
"Alaska Challenge," by Bill and Ruth Albee. [Dodd-Mead, $3.]

That this age of interdependence has not entirely killed off those rugged, if somewhat ragged, individualists, who have the courage to pioneer a new life is the encouraging theme of these grand yarns.



Kathrene Pinkerton.

A year ago Mrs. Pinkerton published "Wilderness Wife," a masterpiece of simple and exciting adventure writing. "Three's a Crew" continues the friendly narrative of this amazing family. Novices at navigation, as they were at north woods living in the former book, Mr. and Mrs. Pinkerton and their delightful daughter Bobs cruise the inland passage to Alaska in their own little boat. Their adventures are authentic and fascinating as they probe inlets, meet seabred settlers, and discover how to compress home life into the closet-like confines of a ship's cabin.

If the Pinkertons are amazing to those of us who complain testily when the hot water faucet clogs up, the Albees are astounding. Alone, uninitiated into the secrets of wilderness ways, and guided only by unreliable maps, they tramp the Canadian woods northward into Alaska. Near starvation, they reach their goal, and find there a new life and a horizon immensely widened by their contest with the forces of nature.

These tales spotlight some very human and admirable persons. W. D.

GUN BOUGHT GRANT . . . . By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Framed by his enemy, Santee Bales, Sam Teacher, outlaw cowboy, shoots the bank robber dressed to resemble him. The United States commissioner offers him the governor's full pardon for all the crimes accredited to him if he will persuade obstinate Matt Drury to sell the railroad the right of way thru one of his canyons. Sam accepts—on his own high terms of $25,000, in addition to full pardon. He knows the governor needs the railroad to get votes and Drury's money to finance his next campaign. Sam gets a job on Drury's ranch and uses the name of Jim Melody so the other cowboys won't know his identity. Defending a horse, Sam gets into a fight with Drury's worthless son, Steve. Instead of firing Sam, Matt Drury accepts Sam's advice about reforming Steve and his spoiled but pretty daughter, Celia. Steve is to get a small stake and go on his own; Celia put to work and made to run the house.

INSTALMENT IX.
A NEW SCHEME.

Outside the door, Sam stopped and turned to Gates. "He drunk?"

Gates chuckled. "Dead sober—for the first time in his life."

Sam shook his head and they started across the patio. Halfway across it, a girl's voice drawled, "Hello, Pearly."

Gates pulled up and looked over at the house. Leaning against a pillar of it, her gray dress silver against her dark skin, was Celia.

"Hello, honey," Gates said, and waved to her. He and Sam started out again.

"Wait a minute," she called.

Sam said to Gates, "I'll off-saddle and throw my bedroll in the bunkhouse," and started for the gate.

"I said 'wait!'" Celia said sharply from behind him.

Sam was almost to the door in the wall, but he stopped and turned slowly, waiting. Celia pushed past Pearly and came up to Sam. Her temper was up, Sam noticed.

"The help around this place usually comes when I call them," she said coldly.

"What of it?" Sam asked, just as coldly.

"I called you."

"I didn't hear you say anything but 'wait.'"

"I meant you."

"Here I am."

She glared at him for a long second, then said, "If you even stay around this country for a day, my father will run you out of it with dogs."

Sam laughed quietly. "That's a funny way to treat one of his crew."

"But you aren't one of his crew!"

"Ask him."

Celia's anger gave way to surprise. She whirled and asked Gates, who stood near by now, "Is this true, Pearly? Didn't dad fire him?"

Pearly said no. Celia couldn't believe it. "You mean, after that beating he gave Steve, dad is still keeping him on?"

"That's right," Pearly said.

Celia whirled back to Sam, speechless for a moment. The sneering smile on Sam's face was the match that touched off her anger. She said, "Well, if Steve can't do it, I can!" and she slapped him. She slapped him four times, twice on each cheek, and hard.

Sam took it, his expression impassive as four red streaks appeared on each cheek. He glanced beyond her then, noting the rose bush behind her and the border of stones that edged the walk to the gate. Then his eyes flicked to her and he took one slow step toward her. "I guess I'll have to give it to you, too," he murmured thru closed teeth.

Celia stood her ground for a couple of seconds, and then doubt and then fear crept into her face. "Pearly!" she called, and backed up.

It only needed one step. Her heel caught on the stone walk border, she lost her balance, screamed, and sat down—in the rose bush. She screamed some more then, putting her hands down gingerly to lift herself up and getting them stuck with rose thorns. Sam stepped back and laughed quietly. Pearly turned away to hide his face.

"Get me out of here!" Celia raged.

Sam walked over to her and put out his hand and she took it. He pulled her up, and she was not even erect before she lashed out with her free hand to slap him again.

Sam simply kept pulling, leaned down, caught her waist with his shoulder and lifted. When he was erect, Celia Drury was staring at the middle of his back, and upside down.

She beat furiously on his back with her fisted hands, and Sam walked swiftly toward Drury's office. He kicked open the door, walked in and paused at the first chair. Stopping, he slipped Celia off into the chair and then turned to face Drury.

"What is this?" Drury asked, his eyes wide.

Celia made a lunge to get up. Sam put a hand out and pushed her down. "Maybe you better start now, Drury," he drawled. "It's past time."

Drury's eyes wrinkled a little at the corners. "Maybe I had," he said as Sam turned and walked out.

. . . .

In Spanish the word trabajo means labor. So when the peons of a past day, ignoring all the holy patrons on the calendar of saints, chose to name their town Trabajo, it indicated that they felt deeply about the matter. And they should have. Trabajo, the seat of the Ortega grant which was the nucleus of Matt Drury's Star 22 holdings, was literally carved out of a cliffside, with the Rio Arriba running its course below. Legend had it that when Don Diego, the original Ortega grantee, was asked why he had worked 200 peons seven years in constructing the town when he could have moved a mile in any direction and built it on the broad grama grass plains, he had answered, "I am their patron. Their sons, and their sons' sons will live here. Let them remember that it was hard for their forefathers, and they will be content with what little they have."

Save for the fact that it rested on rock leveled by many hands, Trabajo was no different from other towns. The usual plaza held the usual big trees, and false front and adobe stores flanked all sides of it. There was only one thing about it not apparent to the eye: It was wholly dependent upon Matt Drury's beneficence, just as it had once been dependent upon Don Diego's.

Santee Bales had learned that, just as he had learned that Matt Drury had a beautiful and spoiled daughter, a wasteful son, a crew of 20 odd men, a 17 room house and a well padded bank account. Of all these, Santee figured that the son was the most accessible and vulnerable, and had laid his plans accordingly.

Already, thru a two-day acquaintance with Charley, the bartender at the Chamisa saloon on the plaza, he had established the fact that he was a cattle and horse buyer. He had even taken Charley's advice on two deals that had netted him seven horses he neither needed nor wanted. He had taken a dozen imaginary trips to imaginary ranches, so as to establish the fact that he was a busy man. But he was always at the Chamisa around 3 o'clock, for that was the hour when Steve Drury usually came in.

He was leaning against the forward end of the bar reading the Territorial News when he heard the batwing doors swing open. He glanced up at the bar mirror and saw a lean, angry looking puncher enter. He looked carefully, because this puncher had just been in a fight. He had a black eye, several bruises on his face, and his lips were swollen thickly. Santee heard Charley's respectful, "Hello Drury," and knew that this was the end of waiting. He merely glanced back at his paper, however, while Drury ordered whisky in a surly tone of voice.

Presently, Santee finished his drink and strolled idly over toward the doors, looking out over them. Suddenly, he whistled in exclamation and went on. In a moment, he came into the saloon again and walked over to Charley, who was reading the paper Santee had just left.

"Who owns that black out there?" Santee asked in a loud voice.

"I dunno," Charley said. "What black?"

"I'd like to make a trade with whoever owns him,' Santee said. "That's a horse."

"It's mine," Drury said. "He's not for sale or trade."

Santee needing only this chance, walked over to Drury and praised the horse. In the conversation he contrived to state his name, his business, and to buy Drury a drink. The younger man, self-conscious because of his black eye, listened surlily and answered in monosyllables.

It was while Santee was chatting idly that he felt a touch on his elbow and turned to confront an unshaven puncher of middle years. He was a lean, tall bleach-eyed man in a clean levis and his speech immediately identified him as a Texan.

"If I'm speakin out of line, gentlemen, why say so," he drawled amiably. "Me and my partner has been tryin' to buy into a decent poker game all mornin', but we can't make it more than three handed. Like a little sport?"

Santee looked at Drury and then said casually, "I'd like a few hands myself. Can't speak for this gentleman."

"Suits me," Drury said promptly, ungraciously."

Authors and Their Work

A paragraph from "Self-Portrait" [Dutton, $2.50], the autobiography of Gilbert Frankau published last Friday, gave the editor of this page something of a jolt. It reads: ". . . is still vivid. So is the leopard skin coat worn by blonde Fanny Brewer, literary critic of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, when she showed me the whole of her great city from the roof of that newspaper's building. Memory suggests that I may have conceived a platonic tendresse for the lady." The lady's name isn't and never was Brewer and she isn't and never was a blonde, but she did have a leopard skin coat! It must have been the leopard skin that inspired Mr. Frankau's tendresse.

Richard Wright, the 31 year old Negro whose grandmother predicted he'd end on the gallows and who has won tremendous acclaim for a novel about a Negro who did, "Native Son" [Harpers, $2.50], has just returned to New York from a visit to Chicago, where he came to spend the first money he got from the book to buy his mother a house. She and his brothers live here on Chicago's south side, the scene of the book.

Pierre Van Paassen, author of "Days of Our Years" [Hillman-Curl, $3.50], will receive the degree of doctor of letters from Oglethorpe university at its commencement in May.

BOOKS

Frank Swinnerton's "The Two Wives," a subtle tale of a comedian.

Swinnerton Novel Is a Robust and Gently Humorous Story of Tragedy in a Comedian's Life

"The Two Wives," by Frank Swinnerton. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50.] Published last Friday.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Unless a man or a book or a play went on getting better and better to the end, he or it must fail," says the engaging hero of "The Two Wives," and in that phrase gives the hard working reviewer a catchword for its criticism. For that, in a sentence, is exactly what this novel does . . . it goes on "getting better and better to the end." Naturally it cannot fail. Indeed, it is headed for the best seller lists.

In the tradition of English novel writing, which is full-blooded without being lusty, gently humorous without being either whimsy or satire, so skilfully fabricated that neither the literary carpenter's design nor his tools are made obvious, "The Two Wives" tells the tale of a year in the life of one of England's best beloved comedians.

That year is filled with drama. Melodrama would be the word if almost any one else's pen had written the book, but so real has Mr. Swinnerton made Sam Barnabas, so human, so obviously the victim of destiny [and his own kindness and good works], that melodrama assumes the dignity of drama just because it happens to him.

Not until the book is well on its way and not until the true gentleness and armorlike cheeriness of Sam's character have been established does the skilful Mr. Swinnerton let his readers feel the chill of events which are to become spectacular. Then what happens to Sam matters greatly and, at the same time, doesn't matter at all in the reader's fondness and sympathy for him.

The fact that the Barnabas' two wives die violently does not make this a murder mystery, nor indeed a mystery at all. It is primarily the story of middle aged Sam Barnabas at the height of his career as a comedian violently wrenched from his pinnacle by a series of circumstances which almost, but not entirely, wipe the smile off his funny face. It is the story of a man who was honestly good in his heart.

"The Two Wives" is, despite the hovering of tragedy over little Sam's life and career, essentially light hearted, entertaining, and "better and better to the end." But since some of that entertainment lies in the surprises of the plot—what actually happens to Sam Barnabas—I must leave it to Mr. Swinnerton to tell you.

Biography of a Villain

"Aretino," by Thomas Caldecott Chubb. [Reynal & Hitchcock, $3.50.] Published last Friday.

"In following my life of Boccaccio with a life of Aretino," says Mr. Chubb in his introduction to this long, colorful biography, "I have turned from an essentially good man to another for whom good was the very last adjective you could possibly employ."

Good in no possible sense of the word and bad in all the profitable ones, Aretino is a fascinating villian in this entertaining "success" story.

For success story it is, of a man born "two centuries and a half before the technical beginnings of liberté, égalité, and fraternité . . . without any opportunities whatsoever," and by the sheer power of hits wits attained a "pride of place and universal acknowledgment."

The son of a poor shoemaker, born in 1492 in the little town of Arezzo which gave him his name Aretino, he became so vivid a figure in his day that horses were named for him, ladies were proud to label themselves Aretines, and the real name of the street he lived on was forgotten and became the street of Aretino. If he had lived today, popular songs would have been written about him. They were, in a sense, in his own day, and certainly one of the sources of his popularity was the popular verse that he wrote about others, and one of the chief sources of his wealth the things he wrote and didn't publish. For, according to Mr. Chubb, Aretino was "the first blackmailer and the first journalist, and the first publicity man."

He was also an adept at the slush system. He presented kings, emperors, popes, and royal aristocrats, as well as lesser folk, with verses for which he in turn was presented with riches, or he presented them with silence for which, in turn, he was heaped with jewels. He was bad in every possible way that he could advance himself by being bad. And he topped the heap of his day.

Mr. Chubb calls Aretino's life story "one of the most dazzling success stories ever narrated. For no wielder of the pen ever attained quite Aretino's influence before him, and no wielder of the pen has attained it since him but Voltaire." With such a rogue as foreground spotlight, the author paints a colorful picture of the Renaissance and peoples the background with its great figures.

Important New Books

An Irishman Twits English.

"Going Native," by Oliver St. John Gogarty. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $3.]

Oliver Gogarty.

You might suppose that Margaret Halsey had written the last satire on the English when she twitted them so unmercifully in "With Malice Toward Some." But you failed to reckon on Oliver St. John Gogarty. It really takes an Irishman to spit the Briton over hot coals, and of the Irish, none has done it with more shattering success than the man whom William Butler Yeats calls "one of the greatest lyric poets of our age" and whom others call Ireland's wildest wit.

With tongue in cheek, this Gaelic surgeon-poet-novelist proceeds to tell the story of Gideon Ouseley, who forsook the emerald sod for England.

Thru manor house dinners and manor house boudoirs, thru the country vicarage and the vicar's niece, from the honest Yorkshiremen in their pubs and Lady Bumphrey-Bumfrei and Sir Chalfont St. Gules, the puzzled Ouseley learns about the English. And in the end his tortured soul laments: "How long can I live with the pirates who have put on dinner jackets?" J. H. T.

Unusual Device in Novel.

"Solitaire," by Edwin Corle. [Dutton, $2.50.]

The quality of this book is rare and beautiful, too subtle to define. The author has assumed the immensely difficult task of looking at the world thru the eyes of a little girl of 10. Most of the book is written entirely from her viewpoint, with only occasional departures for adult statements that are chiefly explanatory of the various events that take place.

If you like children, if you have memories of your own childhood, you will cherish this portrait of a lovable, highly intelligent, imaginative, and sensitive youngster. Virginia lives in two worlds: the every-day humdrum of school and home, where her father and mother dominate, and another, utterly happy and carefree world, where an old man named Ben and Ben's pet rat fill her mind and heart to the brim.

Thru Virginia's eyes the reader learns the homely and beautiful philosophy of old Ben and follows the mounting action of the narrative.

"Solitaire" is written with great tenderness and understanding, with delightful humor, and with no sentimentality whatsoever. E. W.

A Symposium on War.

"War in the Twentieth Century," a symposium edited by Willard Waller. [Random, $3.]

Sharply etching a mosaic of vast military movements against a background of social and economic conflicts and political intrigues, Willard Waller, associate professor of sociology at Barnard college, has brought together 13 of his colleagues and writers to show us why wars occur and what they do to every one of us.

Even tho you may not have been born when the first guns of 1914 were fired, their repercussions were inevitably to enmesh you in one manner or another, and so will the battles of today, each contributor agrees. Then they tell us why with a multitude of facts, figures, and personalities, how war affects economy and the state, how propaganda warps public opinion, and how war's horror reaches into our every social institution, and conclude with a hopeful view for western civilization. Europe's Road to War Traced by Eyewitness

"Europe Downstream," by Leonard O. Mosley. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.75.]
"Britain Goes to War," by N. Scarlyn Wilson. [Revell, $1.]
"The British Case," by Lord Lloyd of Dolobran. [Macmillan, 50 cents.]

BY HOWARD ALLEN.

Leonard O. Mosley, as correspondent for one of Britain's largest chains of newspapers, saw Europe plunging headlong toward war in the three years he traveled over the continent before fateful Sept. 3, 1939.

In "Europe Downstream" he gives an intimate, revealing, and vivid picture of the continent's plight and its war of nerves. Starting with the Spanish civil war, he covers each succeeding crisis in a highly personal fashion.

Blood flows freely in his story of the pathetic disintegration of Czecho-Slovakia. He was in the Sudetenland when the Germans unleashed their attacks on border towns, and he witnessed the gunfights which were the "incidents" exploited by Nazi propagandists. His accounts of the Nuremburg Nazi party conferences reveal a Germany blindly headed for the abyss of war behind a fanatical leader whose screaming denunciations of his enemies [real or mythical] set the tempo for a remilitarized reich plunging downstream.

Here, then, is middle Europe on the skids, tossing caution to the wind [except the British, who sought peace but couldn't find it at Munich or Godesburg] and marching blindly behind the banners of dictatorship to the stepping off spot.

How did Britain take the news of the war? What has it done and what is it doing about "that Hitler" who "asked for it?" N. Scarlyn Wilson gives you the answers in his intimate narrative, "Britain Goes to War," which provides a closeup of the British determination to fight it out and an insight into the psychology of the average Briton.

Lord Lloyd, Britain's "cultural propaganda" chief for foreign countries, reviews in his short treatise, "The British Case," the reasons why Britain went to war. The chief reason, he says, was for national independence. "Our case against Germany is plain enough in common sense; she wanted to dominate England and we are determined to prevent her," he asserts.

New Book Out

Martha Gellhorn, author of "A Stricken Field," reviewed below.

"A Stricken Field," by Martha Gellhorn. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $2.50.] Published last Friday.

Martha Gellhorn is a war correspondent. She observed two real wars in Spain and in Finland, and she was in Prague in the terrible days of war that were ironically called the anschluss. Most of the horrors of war were there. It is of these days, and obviously autobiographically, that she writes in this heart-breaking book.

The book's heroine is a war correspondent, and its relief from utter tragedy is only in Mary Douglas' and her fellow international correspondents' life. At the end of the book Mary says to herself of a manuscript which she smuggled out of Prague containing the true life stories of the German refugees: "Safe people will not believe this."

Safe Americans may feel the same way about "A Stricken Field." But it is written with the impressive authority of truth. Here Mary Douglas—Martha Gellhorn—was so moved that her story tells itself inevitably. Some inner compulsion writes books like "A Stricken Field" and some eternal truth lies in them.

As a novel it has obvious defects, its principal one that it is written simultaneously from the points of view of both the main and the sub heroine, and that it thus lacks a technical core. But as a record of what terror can do to the human soul, what horrors of oppression and sheer human brutality can be borne, what it means to have no roots anywhere on the face of the earth and, as a picture, the contagion of inhumanity, this book is something you won't forget. F. B.

A Sign of Spring: Gardening Books Starting to Sprout

Gardeners who are looking forward to the first days of spring and spring planting will be interested in some of the new books on gardening.

Two very attractive new books are Bouquets and Bitters, by Julian R. Meade [Longmans, $2.75], and Garden Notebook, by Constance Spry [Knopf, $3]. The first is an account of the formal and natural gardens of this country as seen by Mr. Meade in his wanderings from Maine to Florida and into the deep south. The second, which has 48 half-tone illustrations, presents the famous English flower authority's views on the planning and planting of both vegetable and flower gardens, and the decorative arrangement of the blossoms thus grown.

Gardening for Fun, Health, and Money, by A. Frederick Collins [Appleton, $2], is a practical how-to-do-it book for the beginner, concerning itself with the fundamentals of gardening. Florence Bell Robinson's Planting Design [Whittlesey House, $2.75] shows how to achieve beauty by the proper use of color and mass in planting. For the small homeowner the discussion of planning the arrangement of the small plot will be especially helpful. The author is assistant professor of landscape architecture at the University of Illinois.

The Garden Encyclopedia, edited by E. L. D. Seymour [Wise & Co., $4], offers a new edition of a huge volume, well illustrated with photographs and drawings, which contains all sorts of information for the home gardener.

Rousing Romance

SHOW ME A LAND. By Clark McMeekin. New York: D. Appleton-Century Co. 1940. 441 pp. $2.50.

Reviewed by STEPHEN VINCENT BENÉT

THIS is a ramping, unashamedly romantic romance, full of beautiful girls, handsome gentlemen, fine horses, moving accidents by flood and field, and quite a lot of vivid and unpretentious historical detail. The keynote of the book is struck in the list of "Principal Characters," which includes such admirably melodramatic figures as "Zurka, a Rom wench, moon-eyed, jealous, passionate, impudent," and "Teague, her vicious gypsy son, graceful, resourceful, brutal." From the moment that sixteen-year-old Dana Terraine, the Virginia belle, encounters dashing young Rike Galphine at the Aintree Fair, we know there's going to be love and trouble—more love and trouble than you can shake a stick at. There's a gypsy prophecy on page 66 and a first-class shipwreck on page 80. By page 135, Jarred Terraine, Dana's father, has gambled away his plantation and is forced to move to Kentucky. And, of course, Rike Galphine turns up in Kentucky, too, but, by then, Dana has married a young Scotch minister, Eben Coates. Wait a minute while I catch my breath, for there's going to be lots more—pioneering, plague, abolition, the Millerites, the Civil War, Reconstruction—and, of course, Rike and Dana came together in the end, though not till after numerous trials, including a marriage apiece. The last scene takes place at the first Kentucky Derby and, though, by that time, both Rike and Dana are seventy, they're still just as brisk and handsome as you can ask for, and as interested in horses. There must be something in the climate—or maybe the bluegrass.

It's a breathless tale and a dexterous one. It may be—and it is—melodrama, but it makes good reading. Where a good many serious, solid historical novels bog down in their own detail, this one keeps moving. It unashamedly introduces Audubon, Lafayette, and Lincoln when and as convenient, but it doesn't make the mistake of letting prominent historical figures get in the way of the plot. It is full of local color and local customs—it does catch something of the wonder and the freshness of a new, fine land. And the thread that ties the book together—the breeding and racing of fine horses—is admirably and consistently handled. A great deal of the plot comes right out of the toy-theater—not a bit of the book is dull. If you've ever cheered when Black Beauty came up from behind to win by a nose or sobbed when Old Massa had to sell the plantation, you are going to like this one. And what a movie it will make!

CORTEZ PALACE CARRIES VISITOR BACK 400 YEARS

Story of Conquest Told by Rivera Murals.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

CUERNAVACA, Mexico [By Mail].—This city, perhaps more than any other in this country, carries the visitor back to the days of Hernando Cortez, the Spaniard who came over and conquered Mexico some 400 years ago.

In the palace that Cortez built here, and that for a time was his favorite residence, are Diego Rivera's vivid murals, telling the story of the Spanish conquest. The walls of the second floor veranda, facing the snow-crested mountains and the green fields leading upward, are covered with huge paintings.

These murals depict one of the great dramas of history, and they do it in a fashion worthy of their subject. Under them are Rivera's black and white frescoes, so realistic that they look like carvings in stone. Here Mexico's outstanding artist painted his masterpieces.

March on Mexico City.

Standing on the veranda, and trying to grasp the significance of the pictures, the newcomer finds himself transported to the year 1519, when Cortez landed on the eastern coast with 700 men, a few horses, and some light artillery. He recalls the Spaniard's march on Mexico City, the reception by Emperor Montezuma, and then the emperor's imprisonment. He sees again the capture of the city and the eventual conquest of the whole country. History once more marches before him.

After he had completed the job, Cortez went back to Spain for a few years, but when he returned to this country in 1530 he decreed the building of one of the finest palaces in the new world. It was built so well that, after four centuries, it is still being used. One of the government departments occupies a part of it.

From the palace the conqueror directed the work on his huge estates. He brought over sugar cane from Cuba, and had enormous tracts cultivated, and built sugar mills to handle their product.

Estates Divided Among People.

These estates long since have been split up among the people. Today the splendid city of Cuernavaca occupies a small part of the acreage.

In the tower of the cathedral of Cuernavaca is a great clock given to Cortez by Emperor Charles V. From the top of the tower one may see most of the valley. Both the valley and the clock symbolize the vastness of the realm taken over by the man who was so sure of himself that he burned his 11 ships behind him after he had landed at what is now Vera Cruz and started his march inland.

But the palace and the cathedral aren't the only attractions here. The Borda gardens are an amazing collection of fountains, pools, and flowers. [Our guide told us there are 20,000 varieties of plants there.] The gardens are not what they used to be, but some day somebody is going to take them over and restore them to their former grandeur. When that time comes, they will be one of the finest sights on this continent.

Please give me the dates of this year's Cherry Blossom festival in Washington, D. C. S. M.

The dates have been tentatively fixed as April 5 and 6. This is based on the experience of previous seasons. The blossoms have appeared as early as March 20, and as late as April 15. If they are late this year the festival will be postponed. It is expected that definite announcement will be made by March 25.

COMMITTEE ACTS TO SPUR TRAVEL IN THE AMERICAS

Seeks to Cut Red Tape in Regulations.

New York, March 12 [Special].—Stimulation of travel between the countries of Central and South America and the United States is being discussed with federal officials by a newly formed committee of Pan American travel representing steamship companies, air lines, and tourist agencies.

John W. Chapman, vice president of the Grace Line and chairman of the committee, has promised coöperation with the department of commerce, the state department, Latin-American consuls in this country, and United States consuls in the southern republics, the Pan American union, and the United States travel bureau of the department of the interior.

Plan Systematized Effort.

A systematized effort will be made to acquaint the peoples of Latin-America with the varied travel attractions of the United States. A brochure, written in Spanish and Portuguese, is being prepared by the United States travel bureau.

A suggestion has been made that literature prepared by other agencies be translated and, to eliminate waste, be forwarded to prospective tourists thru the travel bureau. Consular offices in Central and South America will be used for local distribution.

As an attraction for visitors to the United States from the southern republics, arrangements have been made for the showing of a national park service motion picture for distribution in the other Americas.

Seek to Ease Restrictions.

Among suggestions made for attracting people from this country to Latin America is minimizing the use of passports, visas, health and police certificates, and tourists' cards required by some countries. Attention has been directed by the committee to the action of President Vargas of Brazil in easing such restrictions.

A report detailing the various documents required of tourists by each southern republic will be drawn up by the committee and recommendations made to the state department. These proposed changes may be shown to the Inter-American congress, composed of 21 republics, now sitting in Washington.

DANCERS REHEARSE FOR TULIP FESTIVAL IN HOLLAND, MICH.

Holland, Mich., March 12 [Special].—Tulip time is approaching in Holland. Altho the tulip beds in this vicinity are covered with snow, the 300 "klompen" dancers are preparing for the festival, which will be held May 18 to 25. They are calling on Albertus Klinge, 82 years old, to pick out new wooden shoes to replace those worn out in last year's dances.

In his 70 years as a cobbler Klinge has turned out an estimated 125,000 pairs of "klompen." A sizable forest of poplar trees has been cut to supply the raw material.

Folk dancers have been rehearsing in the high school gymnasium all winter. They will move outdoors in spring and put the finishing touches on the routines they expect to perform in the streets next May.

'Frock' Coats of Spring Are Soft, Feminine

BY REA SEEGER.

Clever new spring coats have been christened with an appropriate new name. Softly gracious in eye appeal, these feminine models more than live up to the name of "frock" coats. These 1940 versions of the dress parade coats have a place in every well planned wardrobe.

The bloused coats are flattering affairs that by miracles of cutting and fitting whittle inches away from the waistline. Collar lines are high, soft, and tellingly important. Bows of the thin wool and silk decorate as well as double for fasteners. And this season fullness is introduced and held in place so that the swirl is active only below the hipline. Belts cinch in the waistlines and provide contrast and trim.

Glittering flat gold or silver metal buttons make the red wool daytime and street coats exciting loot for the younger set . . . the chest pockets have flaps held in place by matching buttons.

Navy blue coats have the entire chest sparkling with these metal buttons, like a bell boy uniform. Double panels dramatize the backlines. Welt stitching and seaming accent other models. Reefers as slick as a whistle are made for string bean silhouettes. The newest arrivals of covert cloth are destined to make shopping excitement for the next few weeks. These are tailored as smoothly as a man's coat even to concealed buttons under the front flap.

Pockets are slapped on nearly every coat in every collection. Hips, chest, and side skirts are completely covered with them, ranging in sizes from the neat little fob pockets to the capacious bag models that are patched on the hips.

Ford Grandson, Daughter of Broker to Wed

Detroit, Mich., March 12 [Special].—Henry Ford II., grandson of Henry Ford, is engaged to Miss Anne McDonnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Francis McDonnell of New York City and Southampton.

Young Ford, eldest of the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Edsel B. Ford, is a member of the 1940 class at Yale, where he is manager of the crew. He is a member of the Book and Snake society and Zeta Psi fraternity. His preparatory school was Hotchkiss.

Miss McDonnell was graduated from the Convent of the Sacred Heart, and later studied at the Grottanelli school, Siena, Italy.

Miss McDonnell's family is prominent in New York social circles. Her father, a graduate of Fordham university, is a broker and partner in the stock exchange firm of McDonnell & Co.

The Housewife

Bothered with drops of cream on that nice new tablecloth, cream that drips from the spout of the pitcher? Why not try one of the pretty now pottery cream pitchers that are designed especially to avoid this annoyance, being dripless? They pour beautifully with never a drop running down the side.

Made by a Wisconsin ceramic firm, they come in several styles. The one we like best is a charming, soft blue and is slightly fluted in design.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Coon of Oak Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Helen, to James L. Cockrell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Cockrell of Tulsa, Okla. Miss Coon was graduated from Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., and from the University of Illinois. Her fiancé attended the University of Illinois and is doing advanced work at the University of Oklahoma. The wedding is planned for early September.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

"Doesn't that make you think of Easter Sunday?" asked one of the office bystanders when she found us toying with a new and lovely cologne. And that's exactly what it does make you think of.

It's cologne scented with the perfume of white hyacinths, which is quite the most Easterish fragrance imaginable. Not overpowering, as an avalanche of Easter lilies might be, but very cool and crisp and reminiscent somehow of white flowers, a choir of tender young voices and that lovely hopeful feeling of Easter morning.

Entirely aside from its rather unusual type of beauty, it's an excellent light perfume agent for the woman who likes exquisitely clean and delicately sweet fragrances. The bandbox kind of woman, feminine and immaculately groomed—the kind of woman who looks well turned out all the time—will love it.

And for some reason or other we think of it as an ideal cologne to use generously when you're wearing a crisp black and white costume. It will make you feel crisper—and all who pass will like its fragrance.

There are more perfumed colognes about than we can keep up with; this strikes us as decidedly unusual, and well worth the attention of the woman who feels that an ounce of subtlety is worth a pound of sharp sauce. It's sweet without being cloying and fresh without being tiresomely hearty. It's ideal for the daily refreshment and enjoyment of the business girl, incidentally.

For that spirit lifting that's a necessity when spring seems just a little too far behind, try this.

Annual Flower Show at Pier to Open March 30

BY JUDITH CASS.

SPRING is on its way, notwithstanding yesterday's snow flurries and chill winds. Officially the season starts next Wednesday, but actually to the thousands who annually enjoy the Chicago Flower show spring makes its first appearance at the big show on the Navy pier.

This year's show is to open on the afternoon of Saturday, March 30. It is the 14th annual one that the Garden Club of Illinois has sponsored, and, according to Mrs. George Plamondon, the president, it will be the best ever. That this is no idle boast the 13 previous shows testify, for each one has surpassed the others in beauty.

Every one marvels at the shows that the amateur gardeners in the Illinois club manage to give each spring. They are the tops in flower shows.

This year gardens of the present day will be exhibited, gardens such as average American homes have. Since many modern houses are adaptations from the colonial style of architecture, the little houses in the show all will have colonial atmosphere. There will be a Georgian one, a French colonial one, a New England farmhouse, and a Dutch colonial house. Also there will be summer houses, gazebos, garages, garden gates, tool houses, and outdoor fireplaces.

Show Both Formal and Informal Gardens.

There will be formal and informal gardens, kitchen gardens, porches, and three "knot gardens," a type that was popular in colonial days. For the benefit of those who are not familiar with knot gardens we hasten to explain that they are pattern gardens. Gazebo may be a strange word to some, also, but to gardeners it means a small turreted house. At the flower show the gazebo will be used for the dispensing of refreshments to gentlemen guests. Why ladies are to be discriminated against we do not know!

There will be all sorts of flower arrangements on display, and also eight dioramas, miniature scenes portraying some phase of garden activities or work. There will be ten formal dinner tables, the same number of luncheon tables and five buffet tables. The entrance to the show will be thru a large azalea garden planted by the Chicago parks district. The forest preserve district of Cook county will exhibit a bit of forest with a winding path thru great trees. The Allied Florists will have their usual stunning exhibits and four horticultural societies of Chicagoland will show large estate gardens.

Creole Lily Will Be on Display.

Among flowers new to the show will be the Creole Lily, a flower which was found growing wild in Louisiana about 50 years ago. The Morton Arboretum is building a barn and corn crib for its exhibit. In the barnyard will be shrubs repellent to Only Asking.

When Alexander Brailowsky was in town recently he related an astonishing little incident in his career as a concert artist. He was engaged to make an appearance in a midwestern city not long ago and the Tschaikowsky concerto was on his program. Some days before the concert he received a long distance telephone call in New York from the midwestern city.

"We have decided that the Tschaikowsky concerto is too long. Could you play just the first movement?" asked the local impresario.

Script.

Helen Hayes, who never has looked lovelier nor been gayer than on this Chicago visit in Ladies and Gentlemen, looked at a long Pump room menu and remarked, "Maybe I better go on in it." And added, in theatrical parlance, "If I could get up in it."

At Midnight.

Miss Hayes, wearing blue green crêpe, gayly put some of the spun sugar in her hair from the elaborate dessert waiters wheeled into the Pump room at the party in her honor after her opening night's performance, a large ice "H" in a nest of spun sugar lighted by sparklers. Clifton Webb at the next table seized some for a beard, like the one he wears in The Man Who Came to Dinner. It was Miss Gish, wearing a red velvet gown, who suggested to Miss Hayes she put the sugar in her hair.

"A friend," murmured Miss Hayes when she couldn't get it out of her brown curls.

The Pump room at midnight was a festive scene. Philip Merivale, after his fine performance in Ladies and Gentlemen, was supping with a table of friends that included Diana Dalton of The Man Who Came to Dinner and Pat Harrington, the practical joker in Ladies and Gentlemen, whom Playauthor Charles MacArthur induced to leave Jack White's Club Eighteen in New York to play the part. O. Z. Whitehead's (Life with Father) flaming red head was silhouetted against the hydrangea blue leather seats in a party that included the Raymond Masseys and Lillian Gish. The Grand Duchess Marie was supping with a friend; Glenda Farrell, Lyle Talbott, and Ethel Shutta were in another party; there was a girl with a hairdo like a blue period Picasso; waiters dashed about with food on flaming swords, and there was loud applause for a spectacled, tow-headed accordionist in Matty Malneck's orchestra.

Book Marks.

Improvised book marks that book borrowers have left in library books have been collected and put on exhibit at the Blackstone branch of the Chicago public library at Blackstone avenue and 49th street. X marks the Place is the title Miss Frances Meusel of the Blackstone branch staff has put over the exhibit. Postcards, street car transfers, hairpins, match packs, theater stubs, paper cups, a hair curler, a dog tag, a whalebone corset stay, bridge tallies, playing cards, and cocktail recipes are included in the exhibit. Two improvised book markers found in returned volumes were not put on exhibition. One was a peanut butter sandwich, found in a copy of Mortimer Adler's How to Read a Book; the other, a strip of bacon. The exhibit is part of a display of books on behaviorism and on the use of books.

"Man cannot solve his own problems by himself, he never has thruout all history, because he heeds not the voice of God—his conscience! Looking Lonely Is Barrier to Social Success

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I am married and have a little girl of 9. My problem isn't young love or even one of married trouble. It is that of making friends. I have been living in this community for five years and seem to have been taken up by nobody. I am well educated and am known for having good executive ability. I have joined the various organizations the community affords. In fact, I have led a child study group, but to no avail.

"My husband's work, requiring different shifts, makes him of little social help on the side. Of course, being unhappy my face reflects it. Altho I have told people I am lonesome, they don't care. They have their circle and just are callous and unconcerned. MRS. T. D."

Aren't you letting your emotions rather than your head govern you? You come a stranger to a new community and are a lone woman socially, with your husband unavailable for social doings. You, being intelligent, must realize that neighborliness is a lost art among us busy humans, or nearly a lost art. The husbandless woman is a fifth wheel in social plannings.

On the other hand, you are young, the mother of a nice youngster, no doubt, with a home in which to do some entertaining by way of introducing yourself around. You, the stranger, have to realize that your progress is not the affair of the other people, but your very own. You are the one who must extend the cheer, the charm, the niceness that attract people. You can't let people know you are lonesome.

Some of those women you think hard and callous are lonesome, too. They yearn for the friendly smile, hand and heart. Look at your problem from this point of view and then see what happens.

Movie Closeup

Swedish movie fans are deriving a lot of enjoyment from the Swedish film now showing at the Julian. It is titled "Hennes Lilla Majestat"] "Her Little Highness"] and tells the story of a spoiled but lovable girl who becomes transformed into a worthy young woman thru the influence of a young country parson. Sonja Wigert, who plays the title rôle and Anders Henrikson [the parson] are players dear to the hearts of this little theater's patrons. . . . Also on the bill is another full length movie, "Girls from the Old Town," featuring Edward Persson.

That great silent film of long ago, "The Birth of a Nation" continues its run at the Sonotone.

At the sneak preview of Sutherland's latest flicker, a metaphysical exploration, a movie fan dropped dead in the aisle just before the picture went on. . . . At the end of the third reel, thru some boner in the projection room, the flicker was interrupted by the unexpected appearance of the M-G-N lion on the screen. . . . He loosed one roar before the projectionist wiped him off the screen. . . . "If a bad beginning means a good ending," says Sutherland, "I have a smash hit."

Two of the newest and most unusual crocheted pot holders are those illustrated today. If red and white is your favorite color scheme, you can make these two toned holders, the backs of which are crocheted in a single color. The spiral holder is a quick and easy job, while the quilt block design requires a little more time. Both of them will take prizes as unusual and practical kitchen items of beauty.

If Brothers Quarrel Look Into Leisure

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

When two brothers, close to each other in age, quarrel constantly, something needs to be done. But the solution is not easy. Still, since a real feeling of friendship and affection should exist, a real effort to bring this about is worthwhile.

Yesterday we began this subject in connection with two boys in their early teens who quarrel and actually fight whenever they are together, the older being the one who hurts and teases the younger.

Now, there may be a certain amount of teasing and rough-and-tumble and conflict of personality between two boys in a family, with, at the same time, a normal, friendly relationship. But when conflict reaches the point described in yesterday's letter, I believe a more fundamental cause exists. The cause we dwelt upon was the showing of marked favoritism to the younger child, probably over a period of years. I have seen this create a permanent barrier between brothers.

But that was gone into rather fully. Today we'll touch upon other possible causes:

Quarreling may result from boys not having enough to interest them in their leisure hours, I mean enough of either mental or physical activities. So, aimlessly, they pick upon each other, whereas if they were devoted to some hobby, such as making model ships or airplanes, collecting stamps or Indian arrowheads, studying sailing or photography, fishing or birdlore, if they were "keen on" some sport, their minds would not be empty and turn to the mischief that is quarreling.

Another possible cause for boys' quarreling might be found in their being too constantly together, this especially if their temperaments are very different. Boys such as this may need to be separated more by having different sets of friends and doing different things in their spare time. Their father might even try taking just one boy at a time out on Saturday or Sunday jaunts.

A nervous or too fussy mother, or an overly critical father, might be partly responsible for an irritability or suppression that would show itself in a wrangling between boys which can easily turn into fist fighting or constant teasing.

Naturally, each family situation is individual and requires thoughtful study by the individual parents of the young "enemies."

March 13, 1940.

Think up pleasant things to do and say today. Be social and friendly.

If this is your birthday, you may already have felt freer to express your personality. Make the most of this year to make friends and to cultivate your hobbies and talents. This month should prove expansive, but next month beware of too much emotionalism. Guard your tongue then and avoid temperamental outbursts. Promote all entertaining projects. Visit the theaters and enjoy yourself in general, for 1941 will be more restricting and less fun.

Breakfast sausage for dinner? Yes, ma'm, and a good idea it is, too. The juicy little links march 'round and 'round a macaroni loaf, looking for all the world like the stockade of posts around a frontier fort. It's the kind of simple main dish that brings calls for seconds.

Sausage Macaroni Loaf.

[Serves six to eight.]

2 cups cooked macaroni
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1 green pepper, chopped
1 small onion, minced
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups dry bread crumbs
2 eggs, well beaten
1½ cups canned tomatoes
About 2 pounds tiny link sausages

Mix macaroni, pimiento, green pepper, onion, salt, and bread crumbs together. Stir in eggs and canned tomatoes. Brown sausages lightly in a skillet and line sides and bottom of a loaf pan with them, placing sausages side by side. Turn macaroni mixture into pan and bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for 45 minutes, or until loaf is firm.

Pickled peaches are an attractive garnish for tomorrow's sausage macaroni loaf and freshly cooked spinach fits the menu perfectly. Wash the spinach in several waters and then cook it in just the water clinging to the leaves. If you turn the spinach over now and then as it cooks there will be no danger of burning. And do cook only until it is nicely wilted, not until it's worn down to a mushy mass. Serve with it melted butter, to which lemon juice has been added. The juice of one lemon for 3 tablespoons of butter is about right.

Crunchy, butterscotch flavored apple pudding completes tomorrow's dinner menu. Don't bake this dessert too far ahead of time. In fact, it's best when still a little warm and gooey from the oven. But, hot or cold, serve it with plenty of cream.

Appleflake Pudding.

[Serves six.]

3 cups cornflakes
⅔ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon cinnamon
3 cups sliced cooking apples

Place layer of cornflakes in bottom of a heavily buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with brown sugar, which has been mixed with the cinnamon. Dot with butter. Top with layer of thinly sliced apples. Repeat until all ingredients are used, topping final layer of apples with an extra layer of brown sugar, cinnamon, and butter. Bake in a moderately hot [350 degrees] oven for 20 minutes.

Tomorrow's breakfast centers around French toast with maple butter. To make the maple butter use 1 cup of any sirup that is maple flavored and cook it until it forms a soft ball in water. Then add ⅓ cup of butter and beat with a rotary beater until thick and creamy. You can make this while the toast is frying, since you'll want to serve the sirup while it's still warm.

Ripe olive French dressing is nothing more nor less than your favorite French dressing with a generous handful of sliced or chopped ripe olives thrown in. It's good on apple Waldorf salads, too.

Wednesday, March 13.

A very strong set of vibrations here. Full of urges to start something new, with or without proper consideration of what will the harvest be—unless we pause and look over all possibilities. Avoid strong emotions; move wisely.

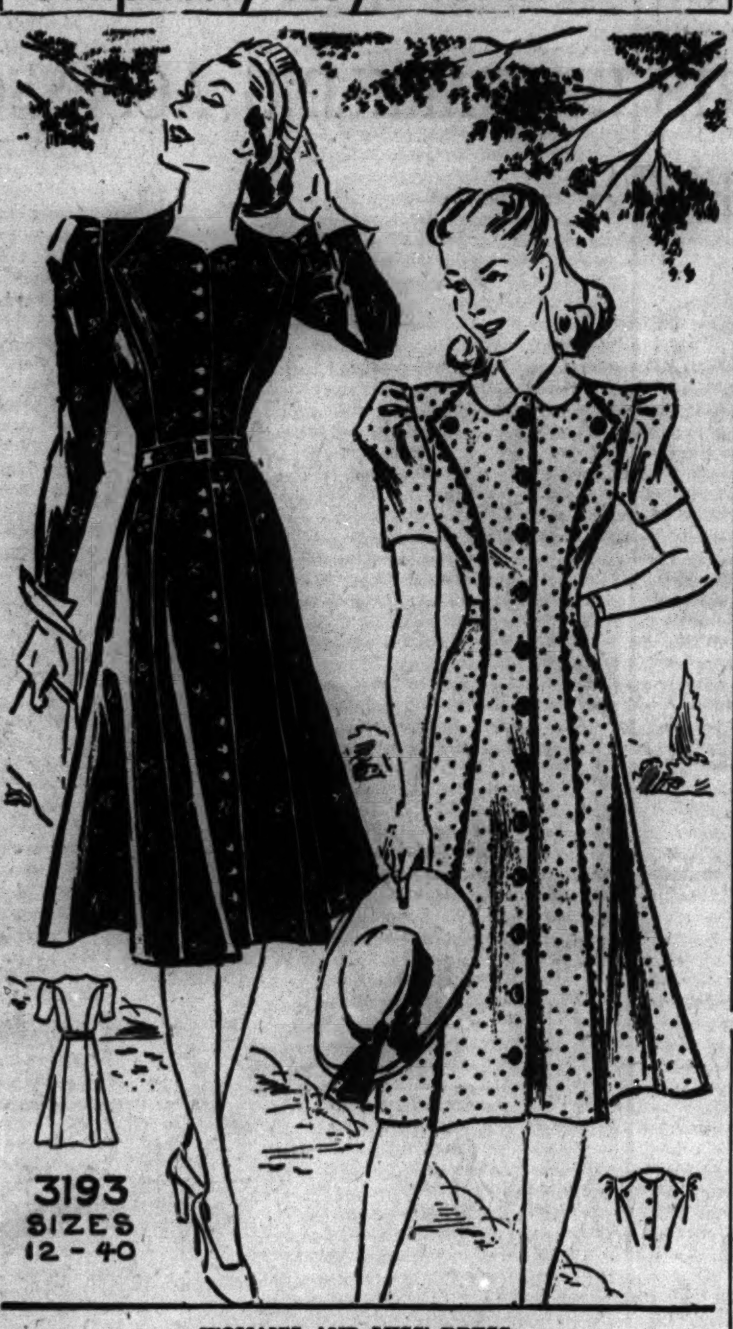
Simplicity Keynote of Frock



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Simplicity is the keynote of many of the new spring fashions, and this one-piece dress is an illustration. Down the front is a panel that is wide at the shoulders and at the hem, but narrow in the midriff. This panel may be emphasized with trimming if you wish, as illustrated in the sketch at the right. The neckline may be collared or not, as you choose. Sleeve length also is optional. Both dark and light shades, in prints and plain colors, make up well. Silks are as good as cottons.

Style No. 3193 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch material for long sleeved dress; 3¾ yards for short sleeved dress, with ¼ yard of contrasting for collar and 3 yards of braid.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

A good player bids a game whenever he knows that there will be a fair play for it, with a one trick set as the worst that can happen. Against expert opponents a "fair" play means about a 50 per cent chance or slightly less; against only average opponents a 30 per cent chance may be sufficient.

The reason that no better chance is needed is that the defenders almost always have greater difficulty than the declarer in finding the correct line of play. In today's hand South overbid because he felt sure that, in case of need, he could help the opponents make a mistake.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 club	2 hearts	Pass	2 no trump
Pass	3 hearts	Pass	3 no trump
Pass	4 hearts	Pass	Pass
Pass

West opened the three of clubs, East winning with the king. The best return probably would have been a trump, but East saw no great harm in laying down the ace of clubs. South ruffed and led a heart to the king. The jack of clubs was led and East played low.

Since no honor had fallen on the king of hearts, South was sure of losing a trump trick. A club trick already had been lost and there seemed to be no way of avoiding the loss of two tricks. One method alone could avail. If South discarded on the club, and West won and did not immediately return a diamond, South could obtain a discard on the remaining club. To discard a diamond on the jack of clubs would make it obvious to West that South had losing diamonds. South therefore discarded the three of spades.

West won with the queen of clubs and hastily returned a spade to prevent South from discarding his "losing" spades. South won with the ace of spades and laid down the ace of hearts. The queen of spades then was led and overtaken by the king and one diamond went off on the jack of spades and the other on the ten of clubs. South cheerfully conceded the trump loser and scored his game.

Choir of N. U. Gives Concert at Thorne Hall

The Northwestern university a cappella choir sang its first downtown concert under its new director, George Howerton, in Thorne hall last night. Maria Noelte, young Chicago soprano, whose husband is Dr. Albert Noelte of the university's music faculty, appeared as assisting soloist.

Mr. Howerton, it would seem, has given primary attention to rhythmic precision in training his choir. The singers' crisp unity of rhythmic attack lent a bright, lively character to a group of folk songs at the end of the program. It also enabled the conductor to achieve some solid and well defined climaxes in Robin Milford's dramatic "Songs of Escape." Several florid excerpts from Bach's motet, "Jesu Priceless Treasure," on the other hand, suffered from rhythmic overconscientiousness. The singers sang their fast passages in such a detached manner that the vocal line was destroyed, with the result that the music sounded ungainly and unspontaneous.

The choir is well balanced. As yet the tone sometimes sounds a bit raw and impure, but it takes time to teach a polished vocal method to a college choir. In the main the pitch was good, tho it frequently sounded off color in different sequences of modern harmony.

Mr. Howerton is fortunately free from the exaggerated musical affectations peculiar to the kind of choirmaster who is interested in "showmanship." His musical attitude is straightforward and simple, and he evidently wants to let the music speak for itself. I did not feel, however, that he had a secure gift for discovering the most effective tempo, particularly in the Bach, which was consistently remote from a satisfactory baroque style.

Of the contemporary pieces on the program the vocally effective Milford cycle, "Songs of Escape," proved to be worth knowing. As much could not be said for Cyril Jenkins' mawkish "Out of the Silence," a piece of trash hardly worth troubling university students with.

Aside from half the hackneyed chestnuts of the coloratura repertoire, Mrs. Noelte introduced her husband's colorful, wordless "Vocalise." Since her spectacular debut last summer she seems to have lost some of her vocal spontaneity, and to have let her voice become more uneven and less bright. She needs to smooth out her scale and to depend less on an over-delicate half voice. She has the makings of an unusually good coloratura.

Says Muradeli Symphony Has Lasting Values

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, Frederick Stock conducting, repeated in Orchestra hall yesterday for the Tuesday subscribers the Vano Muradeli symphony which received its first American performance here on Feb. 15.

A second hearing of this product of the genius of a 31 year old Russian composer not only strengthened the good impression made on first acquaintance but aroused the hope that the symphony would take its place here as a permanent item of the repertoire.

For the piece is authentic, imaginative, superbly rich in color. By "authentic" is meant that the composer used his natural materials and idioms to express himself and that he did not try to make his work more vivid and arresting by dragging in calculated effects. Thus the lack of surface originality noted after the piece's first performance might be considered not a demerit but a virtue.

The symphony uses a great many Caucasian folk idioms—Muradeli was born in the Caucasus—but the manner of their use is personal. Those fainting cadences and haunting, falling intervals become part of the symphony's warp and woof. There is never the feeling that everything has been merely appropriated.

Mr. Stock prefaced the symphony with a beautifully subdued and evocative performance of Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave" overture, and followed it with a miniature program of French music. There were Franck's "The Wild Huntsman" [all about the bad nobleman who goes hunting on Sunday and who gets chased himself by a flock of demons]; Saint-Saëns' "The Spinning Wheel of Omphale" [wherein the feminine weakness of the Lydian princess triumphs over the brawn of Hercules], and excerpts from Berlioz's "The Damnation of Faust." The "Rákóczy" march from the last named brought the afternoon to a roaring conclusion and raised our Hungarian blood to the boiling point.

The Abdominal Muscles Key to Your Poise

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

In our experience with women who are eager to correct faulty posture, we find the relaxed abdominal muscles are the big problem. Incidentally, it is in permitting these muscles to become relaxed and flabby that the abdomen becomes the camping ground for superfluous flesh. And we would like to challenge woman-interest on this point.

Few seem to realize why the fat accumulates at this point. The real reason is that these abdominal muscles are the laziest in the whole structure.

They're supported by girdles, for one thing, relieving them of all the work. They're given no substitute to rely on themselves when the corset is removed. We could point to one woman who has made a fetish for years and years of holding back those abdominal muscles on their own power, and we have yet to see a woman half her age with a better carriage.

Her inspiration came in her capacity as fitter in a dress establishment, where she viewed day after day the results of depending upon corseting for abdominal muscle strength. She noted rightly that these women could boast a neater waistline by many inches, if they kept those muscles hard and firm so fat would not accumulate.

All this may seem a long stretch away from our poise theme, but as explained earlier in this brief poise course, the disciplined body muscles come first in poise acquisition. The first approach would seem to be to do something to harden the abdominal muscles. So we suggest this exercise, which is not too strenuous, but is good: Lie face downward, arms extended to the front. Now raise and lower the right leg extended its fully stretched length. Alternate with the other leg. Don't overdo in the beginning—but keep at it and soon you'll find your abdomen flatter, your silhouette better for it, naturally.

Our feeling is that because these abdominal muscles are the slackest in the body, generally speaking, they should be the first to be toned and hardened. Usually women think of back straightening exercises first, but we think that this midsector muscle strengthened, the back correction will come much more easily.

The show, as usual, will be given for nine days, but there will be no preview, as heretofore. Usually the show opens on a Saturday with a preview on Friday night. Every day after the first, thru the closing day on April 7, the show will open at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and close at 10:30 at night.

Plans for the gigantic show were disclosed yesterday at a luncheon given by the committee in charge at the Palmer House. Mrs. Raymond Knotts presided. Among the committee members present were Mrs. Plamondon, Mrs. William L. Karcher, Mrs. Maurice Mandeville, Mrs. Lawrence W. Scudder, Mrs. O. W. Dynes, who just had returned from Palm Beach; Mrs. Howard Countryman, Mrs. Charles Walgreen, just at home from Honolulu, and Mrs. Warren Shoemaker, on crutches as a result of a broken ankle.

The wedding will be a quiet one at 4:30 o'clock in the Kimball home in Kenilworth. Only the families will hear the Rev. Douglas H. Cornell of the Glencoe Union church read the ceremony.

Mr. Sidell-Fish's mother, Mrs. Frederick W. Sherwood of Port Washington, N. Y., has come west for the wedding. Mr. Sidell-Fish and his bride are not going away on a wedding trip. They will be at home temporarily in Chicago.

Miss Kimball, who attended the Faulkner school, Farmington, and Miss Florence MacLean's traveling school with headquarters in Paris, will have her younger sister, Jeanne, for her only attendant. Donald Essex Kimball II. will serve his future brother-in-law as best man. Mr. Sidell-Fish, who is a graduate of the University of Chicago, is engaged in business in Chicago.

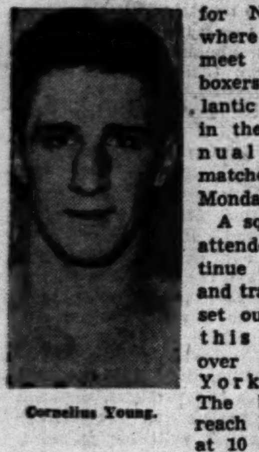
BRUINS BEAT RANGERS, 2 TO 1; NEAR TITLE

GOLDEN GLOVERS TO LEAVE TODAY FOR NEW YORK

LOOK FORWARD TO BOUTS WITH EUROPE APRIL 10

Meet East's Best in Garden Monday.

BY HOWARD BARRY.



Cornelius Young.

Chicago's Golden Gloves fighters, sound in body and confident in spirit, will leave today for New York, where they will meet the best boxers of the Atlantic seaboard in the 13th annual Intercity matches next Monday evening.

A squad of 30, attended by a retinue of coaches and trainers, will set out at 3:45 this afternoon over the New York Central. The boys will reach New York at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and will promptly take up where they left off in their training for one of the toughest assignments amateur boxers are called upon to tackle.

Have Tradition to Uphold.

These fighters have something to live up to because their predecessors have established a tradition of victory. No Chicago team has lost to New York since 1934, a tie in 1936 being the best the easterners could do during the intervening years. Thru a long, hard campaign, the members of Chicago's 1940 squad have shown themselves well fitted to follow the trail blazed by the brilliant boxers of former years. In the sectional tournaments and in their engagements in the Stadium these youngsters performed with skill, power, and courage in order to get where they are today.

The boys have an additional inducement to turn on full power in an effort to distinguish themselves in the Intercity bouts. Upon their showing in these encounters will depend their chances of being picked on the International squad, which will fight the champions of Europe's neutral countries in the Stadium April 10.

Despite the excitement that went with preparation for their New York trip, the fighters concentrated on their jobs every minute they were in the ring for their last hard Chicago workout yesterday in the Illinois Athletic club. Each of them went three three minute rounds.

Hold Brisk Workout.

Vic Saccoia and Walter Cavalieri opened the afternoon's activities and there was never a slack moment thereafter until Savior Canadeo and Patsy Ancona climbed out of the ring two hours later. In the course of this brisk session, all members of the squad showed that they were in excellent physical shape. Their alert footwork and their well timed punches eased a few of the worried lines out of the faces of Head Coach Johnny Behr and his aides, Paddy Kane and Fred Caserio.

The boys will be held down to a brief session of floor work this afternoon before heading for the railroad station. They'll return to their three round quota tomorrow, however, the workout being scheduled for 3 p. m. in Stillman's gymnasium.

They'll begin cutting down thereafter, coasting up to their engagement with two rounds on Friday and one on Saturday.

Young Hopes for Better Luck.

Cornelius Young, Chicago's heavyweight champion, hopes to make up for a disappointment he incurred the last time a Chicago Golden Gloves squad went to New York. That was in 1938 when he held the middleweight title. Shortly before time to leave for the east he suffered a broken nose during a sparring session. He went along with the squad but was forced to sit at the ringside and watch while his teammates went in and slugged out another Chicago victory.

The boxers who will make the trip to New York follow:

112 POUNDS—Harold Dade, Chicago; Sam Stinson, Peoria, Ill.; Vic Saccoia, Detroit, Mich.; Walter Cavalieri, Chicago.

118 POUNDS—Jimmy Joyce, Gary, Ind.; Jimmy Blake, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Ray Brown, Chicago.

126 POUNDS—Roy Lewis, Muncie, Ind.; Leon Haire, St. Louis, Mo.; Jim Palmer, Detroit, Mich.; Tom Mair, Chicago.

135 POUNDS—Tony Ancona, Detroit, Mich.; Joe Sgro, Indianapolis, Ind.; Ed O'Connell, Chicago; Robert Simmons, Gary, Ind.

147 POUNDS—Savior Canadeo, Chicago; Anthony Jones, Springfield, Ill.; Patsy Ancona, Kansas City, Mo.; Harry Sparrow, Chicago.

160 POUNDS—Joe Maxin, Cleveland, O.; Harry O'Dell, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Otto Stowe, Springfield, Ill.; Leo Mahon, Sioux City, Ia.

175 POUNDS—James Richie, St. Louis, Mo.; Oshibe Smallwood, Centralia, Ill.; Shelton Bell, Dayton, O.

HEAVYWEIGHT—Cornelius Young, Chicago; Bill Peterson, Chicago; Ernie Nordham, Omaha, Neb.; John Livaditus, Davenport, Ia.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

VALLIE EAVES, White Sox pitcher, has displayed the same courage in the face of great physical handicaps that marked the careers of Glenn Cunningham and Archie San Romani. . . . When the Sox rookie was 14 years old he suffered a shin bruise which put him in the hospital for nine months. . . . Because of bone decay, doctors said he never would be able to walk. . . . After six months in a wheel chair and four years on crutches he took up pitching. . . . Last year with Shreveport he won 21 and lost 10. . . . Cunningham and Romani won a place among the greatest runners of all time after incurring accidents in their youth which threatened to preclude athletic participation. . . . Morton High school, Cicero, and its basketball coach, Norman Zeibell, are happy that two of the school's graduates, Bill Hapac and Johnny Drish, have been chosen in succession as basketball captains at Illinois. . . . Four of Alabama Poly's football opponents next season will be teams that played in New Year's day games—Georgia Tech, Tulane, Clemson, and Boston college. . . . Dave Shade, former middleweight boxer, is an expatriate from his native California and is running a tavern in Pittsfield, Mass. . . . His pugilist brothers are in San Francisco. . . . George is a bouncer and Bill a stevedore. . . . Robert C. Lewis, traveling secretary of the Cubs, is an expectant grandpa. . . . Mrs. Ed Coughlin, Robbie's daughter and expectant mother, is a resident of Chicago. . . .

University of Michigan's cinder track in Yost fieldhouse will be remodeled for the Michigan A. A. U. relays March 23. . . . A straightaway will be built down the center of the building for the dashes and hurdle events while the distance events will be run on the circular track. . . . Dr. Eddie Anderson, Iowa football coach, will be an instructor at Northwestern's summer coaching school. . . . John Quinn of the American league umpire staff may hear a few words this summer about blind men who sell pencils. . . . Quinn is attached to the Athletics in their camp at Anaheim, Cal., and in his spare time sells pencil sets shaped like baseball bats. . . . Sid Barbarian, Detroit lightweight of the Roaring Twenties, is employed in an automobile plant in his home city. . . . Dick Bass, Cub pitcher, went fishing every day the club was on Catalina Island, but he had no luck in getting Bob Sturgeon, rookie shortstop, to join him. . . . Sturgeon spends his spare time tuning in top-flight radio bands.

Maki-Nurmi Tour to Go On Despite Peace

The end of the Finnish-Russian war will not interfere with the nationwide tour of Gene Maki and Paavo Nurmi, it was announced last night in Chicago by their American representative, Naylor Stone. Maki will make his second American appearance Friday night in the University of Chicago fieldhouse in a special three-mile race.

Nurmi, the original Flying Finn and now coach of Maki, his successor as the peer of distance runners, was disappointed when informed of the concessions his country made to the Russians.

Calls Terms Unsatisfactory.

"Even tho it might be true that Finland has signed a peace pact," Nurmi said, "my country still needs help. On the face of things, the terms of peace are no good for Finland. However, there probably is a lot I do not know."

Maki's reaction was just the opposite. He jumped up and down in joy and grinned. He has been worrying over the safety of his wife and daughter in Helsingfors.

Hopes to Beat 14 Minutes.

"The money sent to Finland from now on will be for rehabilitation work in those places hardest hit by the war," said Stone. "Heretofore the money has been used to purchase airplanes and ammunition. The tour positively will continue."

Nurmi said that he believes Maki will run his favorite race, the three mile, under 14 minutes at some point along his trail of 13 scheduled appearances. His chief opponent on the Midway will be Tommy Deckard, former Indiana university distance running star.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Arthur Rubin, the New Yorker who is making his debut in the current world three cushion billiards tournament, is now one of the boys. There were old timers who charged him with stage fright in his opening match against Johnny Layton Monday aternoon, but they took it all back after watching Arthur hand the defending champion, Welker Cochran, a 50 to 32 licking in 52 innings last night at Bensinger's, 131 South Wabash avenue.

Rubin Keeps His Poise.

There was no symptom of the money shakes in Rubin's cue as he stepped out and consummated the first upset of the $20,000 show. The match was the fastest of the tournament, being run off in 66 minutes. Rubin's nickname prior to the tournament was "Moich", but he now can be properly dubbed Machine Gun Rubin, one of the speediest billiardists to come up to the big leagues. After the match, however, Rubin said that last night's pace was only moderate, adding that he usually plays at a swifter gait.

Chamaco Wins a Long One.

In contrast to the brevity of the champion's defeat was the 50 to 44 victory Joe Chamaco, national champion, scored over Arthur Thurnblad of Kenosha, Wis., 1931 winner of the world meet. This required 67 innings, longest of the tournament, and one hour and 54 minutes to complete.

Chamaco was making his first world match appearance, and made as much of a hit with the gallery by his unpredictable stroking as Rubin did with his speed. There was one stretch, from the tenth thru the 20th, where José could do no better than 11 red-faced goose eggs. Then after trailing Thurnblad for 41 innings, he reeled off a 5-3-5 in three

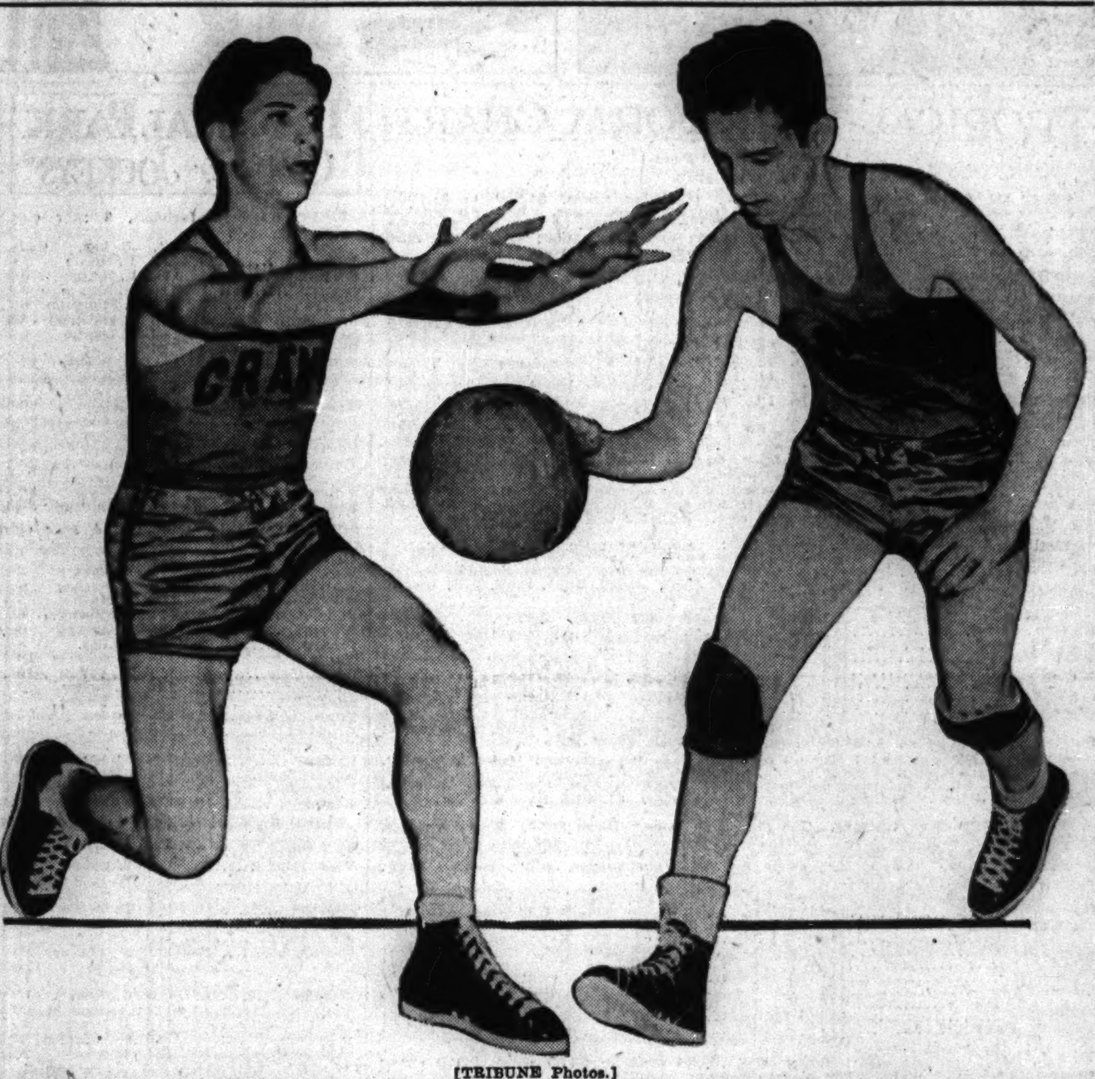
Off for Champaign—a New Experience for Crane



[TRIBUNE Photos.]

The Crane Technical High school basketball team, Chicago champion, starts today on a new experience—a trip to the state tournament in Champaign to oppose Champaign High on the opening game tomorrow. Two of Crane's regulars are Ben Erkes (left), a forward, and Capt. Buddy Burrows, a guard.

CUBS BID ADIEU TO CATALINA BUT NOT TO WORRIES

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 12.—The Cubs this afternoon closed their 1940 exercise span on Catalina Island. For the first time in history they went thru the three weeks here without a regular third baseman, without a regular centerfielder, and with their most famous pitcher absent.

Stan Hack, third baseman in absentia, is due to reach Los Angeles tomorrow, but no one here knows to what extent he has progressed in convalescence from an operation. Hank Leiber, holdout center fielder, has not been heard from except thru the public prints, and it is not suspected he will show up for the Cubs-Sox opener in Wrigley field Thursday. Dizzy Dean appears to have been sunk without trace.

Rowland Ready for Action.

Front Man Clarence Rowland, the trade wizard, spent the day loading his fountain pen and numbering his checkbook. If Hack seems weak and Leiber remains silent, Mr. Rowland will start telephoning and slinging ink in an endeavor to assemble a full baseball team.

Manager Gabby Hartnett and most of his protéges will be on the boat which embarks at 4:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Charley Root, Larry French, and Bob Sturgeon were excused after the windup drill and sailed today to visit relatives.

Players in Good Shape.

The camp breakup found most of the players in excellent physical condition and only three or four on the brink of shipment home or to leagues of minor classification.

Manager Hartnett stayed by his decision to send his best pitching against the White Sox, despite reports that Jimmy Dykes, manager of the American leaguers, will assign rookie pitchers to stop the Cub sluggers. It will be Bill Lee, Claude Passeau, and Ken Raffensberger in the opener Thursday afternoon.

Coach Sees an 8:50 Two Mile for Greg Rice

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., March 12.—Greg Rice, who established a world's 2 mile record in Madison Square Garden Saturday night, came home to Notre Dame yesterday and was greeted spontaneously with royal acclaim.

For the new indoor 2 mile king not only has achieved the greatest individual triumph in the athletic history of his alma mater, but that victory is the climax to a quiet, intense campaign for the last two years. It also may assuage the keen regret that war has canceled the 1940 Olympic games in which Rice had hoped to be the first American to win the 5,000 meters run.

Saturday night Rice ran two miles over the 160 yard board track in the Garden in the amazing time of 8:56.2. It supplanted the 1937 record of Don Lash. The record also is a satisfying complement to the 3 mile mark Greg recently established, and it serves notice on Taisto Maki of Finland, who is touring the United States for his beleaguered homeland, that when these champions meet in New York March 30 a new page in track history quite likely will be written.

Maki Wants to Be at Peak for Race with Rice.

Maki runs in the University of Chicago fieldhouse Friday night. Tommy Deckard, formerly of Indiana university, will be his opponent over a 3 mile course. Deckard was third in the now famous 2 mile race Saturday and so well did he run that for the first time in his career he bettered nine minutes. Walter Mehl, Wisconsin's great runner, finished second and was timed in 8:58.2.

Rice was willing to run against Maki in Chicago. Indeed, we suspect he anticipated his race with the holder of the world's 2 mile outdoor record. But officials believed the Finn required more time to reach peak condition, and well they might after the dismal performance of Sydney Wooderson, England's record holder, in the

CRANE'S COACH DEFIES JINX ON TOURNEY JAUNT

There's no superstition in the makeup of Sam Edelcup, coach of the Chicago Public High School league basketball champions. Sam will put 13 students of Crane Technical school on a southbound train at 9 o'clock this morning, heading for Champaign and the 33d annual state prep tournament starting tomorrow in the University of Illinois gymnasium.

Edelcup sees no reason why the figure 13 should jinx Crane's chances any more than previous Chicago representatives have been hexed. And his reasoning is sound, since no Chicago team ever has bagged the state championship regardless of the number of boys on each squad.

Three Go for the Ride.

Actually only 10 will be permitted to don uniforms when Crane opposes Champaign at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the tourney opener, but Edelcup is taking three others along, not only to form the desired total but to reward a trio of lads who otherwise would have to remain at home.

Crane Tech is the eighth Chicago school ever to compete in the tournament. The furthest any predecessor could advance was to the semi-finals. Harrison Tech, in 1931, and Von Steuben, in 1938, got that far, eventually placing third and fourth, respectively. Other Chicago contenders, eliminated in either the first or second rounds, were Lake View, 1933; Marshall, 1934; Lane Tech, 1934 and 1939; New Phillips [now Du Sable], 1936; and Wells, 1937.

First Trip for Crane.

Altho today's trip to the state tourney site marks the first in history for Crane, it's not the first time that the school has held a city basketball title. Crane won that honor three times under Coach Sam Lifschultz, when Joe Reiff and Bob Gruenig attained renown en route to National A. A. U. fame. In those days, however, Chicago teams cast their lot in Boston, Mass., March 12 (AP).—The Boston Bruins came from behind to defeat the New York Rangers tonight, 2 to 1, in a game that practically decided the National Hockey league championship.

The victory moved the Stanley cup champions into the lead by a half game margin.

Their supporters felt that would be enough of an edge. Even if the Bruins are beaten by the Rangers in New York Thursday, they could offset the defeat by whipping the last place Montreal Canadiens Sunday in the final game here.

Score in Last Two Minutes.

Eddie Wiseman, obtained in a trade for Eddie Shore, made himself the idol of 16,304 spectators by jabbing in the winning goal with less than two minutes of play remaining, after taking a pass from Art Jackson.

The Rangers opened the scoring in the first period when Ott Heller blasted a 40 foot angle shot past Goalie Frank Brimsek as Phil Watson stood outside the crease to whack it in. The Bruins' clincher was exactly the same play, except that Wiseman got a piece of his stick on Jackson's long drive from the sideboards.

Schmidt Totals 51 Points.

Early in the second period Milt Schmidt, the league's leading scorer, increased his point total to 51 by carrying the length of the rink, cutting inside of Murray Patrick and, after circling the net, passing out to Bobby Bauer. When Bauer scored from 10 feet he pulled into a second place scoring tie with Woody Dumart of Boston with 41 points.

Only three penalties were called against each side, altho Bryan Hextall drew a major for bouncing a stiff right hook off Red Hamill's chin as they crowded each other during a retreat from the Rangers' zone. Lineups:

2 YEAR OLD SETS WORLD RECORD IN FOUR FURLONGS

Double Call Wins in :46 at Tropical Park.

Miami, Fla., March 12 (AP).—Double Call, 2 year old colt owned by the C. Leroy King farm, set a world record for a half mile today in winning the Pine Tree purse for juveniles at Tropical Park.

The son of Double Heard-Duncally galloped over the four furlongs in 46 seconds, even. This sliced one-fifth of a second off the mark set by the 2 year old Donau at Santa Anita on March 13, 1909, and equaled two years later by Amon, also a juvenile, at Juarez, Mexico.

Double Call had been out seven times before today's start, all at three furlongs, winning one and placing second five times. He broke on top today and finished in hand by a length and a half over General Jack. W. J. Johnson was up. The winner was the favorite, returning $3.80 for $2.

Calexico Wins Feature.

Calexico, a brown son of Chicle, representing the Klayman and Lynch stable, outran five other sprinters in the featured Tallahassee purse of six furlongs to win by a length and a half in 1:10 2-5. Visigoth, from the Shady Brook farm, was second, and Philip Schwartz's Napper Tandy was another length and a half back in third place.

Commendador II., an 8 year old South American horse, making his debut on this country's tracks, showed promise while finishing fourth.

POTRANCO WINS AT OAKLAWN.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 12 (AP).—The Lexbrook stable's Potranco, one of several horses that are third place choices in the winter books for the Kentucky Derby, captured the featured fourth race at Oaklawn Park today, running the Oaklawn course in 1:09 2-5. Second was Miss Ethel, owned by J. A. Blackwell. Philosopher was third.

Deny Madigan Feud Brought About Ouster

San Francisco, Cal., March 12 (AP).—Sudden ouster of Edward P. [Slip] Madigan, veteran football coach at St. Mary's college, embroiled him tonight in a dispute with the board of athletic control.

Madigan said his removal was caused by enmity between him and Andrew Burke, San Francisco attorney and board member. The board promptly issued a statement denying its action yesterday was prompted by a feud between Madigan and a member.

Instead, the board declared, its decision was reached more than a week ago; Madigan was informed at the time, and it was suggested that he take a leave of absence for the duration of his contract, which expires in March, 1941.

Refuses to Make Announcement.

"Furthermore, he was told that the board would withhold any publicity respecting his decision for the period of one week in order that he might make the news public and thus be relieved of any embarrassment consequent upon the board's decision," the statement said.

"Mr. Madigan declined to take such action. The board had no alternative but to release the story. It is a matter of regret that Mr. Madigan's attitude has made necessary this added statement."

The statement did not say what prompted the board in its decision not to renew the contract.

May Go Into Business.

Madigan, who in 19 years at St. Mary's raised it from an unknown college to a power in national collegiate football, said he might go into business.

"I don't see any reason to feel badly about it," he said. "The whole thing is purely a question of personal enmity between myself and Andrew Burke, a member of the board of athletic control. He has always threatened to 'get me'."

El Paso Man Wins 1st Match in Pistol Shoot

Tampa, Fla., March 12 (AP).—Charles Adkins Jr., of El Paso, Tex., today won the opening match of the National Midwinter Pistol tournament. Adkins had a score of 374 out of a possible 400.

Shute to Be Out Months After Bone Grafting

Miami, Fla., March 12 (AP).—Denny Shute, former holder of the British open and American professional golfers association championships, underwent a wrist operation today and will not know for six months whether he ever can compete again.

A cyst was removed from the bone of his right forearm at the wrist joint and the defect was filled with bone grafted from his shin.

His surgeon said Shute's condition was good, that he was pleased with the operation, and that the golfer could "hope for a normal wrist." Shute will be unable to play for at least six months, the surgeon said, and will not know until then whether he has regained full use of the wrist. Shute injured the wrist in a California tournament this winter.

The 35 year old golfer, long one of the nation's leading professionals, won the British open in 1933 and the P. G. A. title twice, in 1936 and 1937.

Recompense.

What matters there to one who loves
When good-by has been said?
When all the magic hours seem gone
And the spell of romance fled?

Is there something else to find
To compensate for this—
Or does the future merely hold
The mem'ry of a kiss?

For times ahead [fond] hopes that cheer,
Come surging thru my brain;
That love can never say good-by,
But just Auf Wiedersehn.

Dusting Off the Old Ones.

A fire chief was inspecting a building against fire hazards. After a thoro inspection he came to the manager and said: "I find this building safe except for one thing. You have no fire escapes. Where are they?"

"O, I don't know," replied the manager, "this is leap year."

Rhinelander, 7 Others Win 1st Round Games

Madison, Wis., March 12 [Special].—Rhinelander, the defending champion from out of the far north, and seven other schools fought their way to victories in the first round of the 25th annual Wisconsin High school basketball tournament in the university fieldhouse today.

Rhinelander eliminated Delavan, 46 to 29, to run up the highest score of the day and its star center, Ray Warren, grabbed individual scoring honors with 21 points on nine field goals and three free throws. Other teams to win their way into the quarter-finals tomorrow were Platteville, Eau Claire, Shawano, Shorewood of Milwaukee, Marshfield, Neenah, and Superior East.

2 Big Eight Teams Lose.

Both representatives of the Big Eight conference, Madison Central and Beloit, were eliminated in the opening round. Beloit, which won state titles in 1932, 1933, 1934, and 1937, was defeated by a fast Platteville team, 32 to 28. Madison Central, Big Eight conference champion, lost to Shorewood of Milwaukee, 22 to 16.

Soldiers Grove, one of the three class C schools in the tournament, reached the end of a 22 game winning streak tonight by losing to Marshfield, 29 to 27.

Drop 3 Class System.

The tournament this year is being played in a single class for the first time since 1933. During the next two years the schools were divided into A and B classes and a third class was added in 1936. Neither of the 1939 class B and C state champions, Watertown and Altoona, won a berth in this year's finals. Watertown was defeated by Madison Central in the championship game of the Portage regional tournament.

ARON SEEKS 13TH IN ROW AGAINST VAN KLAVEREN

Dutchman Impressive in Workout.

Will Bep Van Klaveren, European middleweight championship claimant, become Milt Aron's 13th consecutive victim in a 10 round bout in the Coliseum tomorrow?

That was the question on the lips of fans after the rival contestants ended boxing drills yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium.

Some observers are of the opinion the busy little slugger from Rotterdam, Holland, has the style and skill to give Aron's backers a worse scare than the one they received when Milt was floored by Fritzie Zivic in the same arena last Dec. 27. Aron regained his feet and went on to knock out Zivic in the eighth round, but the Chicagoan's followers start worrying whenever Fritzie's achievement is recalled.

Dutchman Is Impressive.

Aron was first to appear yesterday for a two round sparring session with Tony Yates of Minneapolis and the workout was so unimpressive that Joe Triner, chairman of the Illinois boxing commission, who watched the drill, failed to identify Milt as one of the boxers. Later the chairman and Commissioner Sheldon Clark saw Van Klaveren spar three rounds with Sherman Edwards. Both were impressed by the Dutch fighter's ring technique.

Aron may scale 149 tomorrow, the same poundage he was at in his five round technical knockout over Eddie Brink in Philadelphia on Feb. 26.

Zivic accepted a 10 round semi-final on the card against Johnny Barbara in order to pave the way for a second Aron battle. Zivic took a rest yesterday because he is six pounds under the required 150.

Lem Franklin, 1937 international Golden Gloves heavyweight, dropped a sparring partner to the canvas twice in his last drill for an additional match of 10 rounds on the card against Willie Reddish of Philadelphia. Marion Mosley and Frank Greene are ready for a six round opener.

Eddie Virag, heavyweight wrestler from Hungary, will meet Charley [Gorilla] Grubmyer in a one hour bout in Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, tonight. . . . Maurice Tillet, who is called the Angel, will stop off in Chicago Sunday en route to a wrestling engagement in St. Louis Tuesday. He will return for a match with Rudy Dusek in the Coliseum on Wednesday. . . . Billy Marquart last night returned from Philadelphia where he defeated Billy Maher in eight rounds on Monday. . . . The quarterly ratings of the National Boxing association will be released March 18.

ARLINGTON PURSE MINIMUM IS SET AT $1,000 FOR 1940

Arlington Park race track, with an increase of $800 to $1,000 for its minimum purse, will offer more than $500,000 in prizes to horsemen during its 30 day meeting June 24 thru July 27, Maj. L. A. Beard, director of racing, said yesterday.

Added money will be $80,000, and with fees, the purses in seven stakes will amount to about $250,000, Beard said. An innovation will be the carding of four races at $2,000 as features on four Wednesdays during the meeting.

The top feature again will be the $30,000 added Classic, which may gross almost $80,000. Supplementary entries at $1,500 and third payments of $100 for the Classic will close April 15.

What he lacked in point making, however, he more than made up in his gesturing and gyrating, while urging on his own shots and trying to shoo Thurnblad's away. Score by innings:

Each Has Run of Five.

Cochran won the lag and scored on the opening shot, but that was the last time in the match he held any advantage over Rubin. The latter tied it in the second inning and added five billiards in the next three innings. His high run of five, scored in the 11th frame, gave him a 13 to 4 advantage. The New Yorker ignited his batch of fireworks with an elegant force-follow shot that brought him a round of applause. In the 13th inning, Cochran scored his high run, also a five, making the score 14 to 9.

Cochran might have absorbed a more convincing beating if it hadn't been for his mastery of cross-table shots.

Rubin Pulls Away.

The closest Welker came to catching Art was in the 30th inning, when he counted two billiards to reduce the New Yorker's lead to 25-22. Rubin soon adjusted this situation by collecting seven billiards in three consecutive innings, from the 30th thru the 32d.

From that point on, Rubin continued to increase his advantage. Outstanding in his stroking was a marked talent or hitting shots on the nose. There were few ear-flicking billiards among the 50 he counted, and seldom did Referee Charles McElligott have to bend over to examine any of Art's scoring hits, so firm and audible they were.

Hall Picks on Denton.

Two former runnersup for the championship handed a pair of former titleholders their second consecutive defeats in the afternoon. In the first, Allen Hall of Chicago beat old Tiff Denton of Kansas City, 50 to 31, in 46 innings.

Hall made his high run of six in the first inning, the fastest run of the tournament, but Denton salvaged a measure of balm for losing by running eight in the 44th frame. This stood as the second high run of the tournament. Maybe Tiff caught the idea from Willie Hoppe, who subjected him to the top string of 12 in Monday night's final battle. Score by innings:

Bozeman Wins in a Hurry.

In the second afternoon match, 33 year old Jay Bozeman scored a 50 to 35 decision over Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, winner of the world title in 1926 and 1938.

Reiselt held an 11 to 10 margin after seven innings, as a result of his high run of six in the third, but in the eighth, Bozeman ran five, his high, and took a lead he never yielded. The match required only 40 innings, the second best game performance of the meet. Score by innings:

Our Mr. Dykes' Problem—Too Many Stars

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 12.—James Dykes, the White Sox boss, has a neat little problem on his hands but it isn't quite like the others he has encountered since he moved from the ranks into a managerial rôle. Dykes' previous mental strain was occasioned by a scarcity of athletes deserving of big league employment. Now he has more than there will be room for when cutting down time arrives May 15.

The congestion so pleasing to Dykes, even though it is going to give his master minding skill a severe test, is in the infield. Because Second Baseman Jack Hayes' knee was a question mark last fall, Dykes set about gathering as many infield possibilities as the market offered. Now Hayes apparently is fitted to cover his old job and Dykes finds himself with three extra infielders, none of whom he wants to turn back for additional seasoning.

Likes Webb, Kennedy, Kolloway.

The trio the manager hopes to retain, altho there is plenty of time for him to change his mind, is made up of Jimmy Webb, Bob Kennedy, and Don Kolloway. Webb's possibilities are well known, Dykes having observed him in Cleveland and ordered his purchase after the Indians had shipped him to St. Paul. He's a great fielder and while not a terrific hitter on his record, he specializes at short. The club needs somebody to understudy for Luke Appling and Webb is the only proven candidate.

Between Kennedy and Kolloway the edge is with the former if there isn't space for both after May 15. If Hayes should be forced out Kennedy would be given the first shot at third, Eric McNair moving to second.

Kennedy May Go to Outfield.

In hoping to retain Kennedy, as well as Kolloway, the manager isn't thinking of them as regulars. The main consideration in each case is that both are such promising prospects it might be advisable to keep them around, even if they don't progress beyond utility work from start to finish of the season. Kennedy, if he doesn't have to be used on the infield, can take up the outfielding course the manager has in store for him. There's a utility vacancy in the outfield and the conversion would solve the matter of too many infielders.

NEW FAN SHAPED BACKBOARD GETS TRYOUT TONIGHT

The new fan shaped backboard for basketball, approximately only one-half the area of the type now required by rules, will get its first official test in Illinois this evening when the state lightweight tournament gets under way in the Blue Island Community High school.

Ten Chicago and six suburban schools have entered teams in the four day meet which the Illinois High School Athletic association will use as a proving ground for the new board. This innovation has an overall width of 54 inches at the lower edge, measures 32 inches at the maximum height, and 29 inches at the sides, compared to the present rectangular standard of 72 by 36 inches. The ring on each new board is attached at the bottom instead of one foot above the lower edge. The distance above the floor, however, is the same for both boards—10 feet.

First round pairings for the lightweight tourney, ending Saturday, follow:

Coach Sees 8:50 Two Mile for Greg Rice

Princeton mile last June, when he competed five days after reaching this country and finished last.

Winning track titles is a familiar story to Rice. Since his first year in high school in Missoula, Mont., a university town where interest in track and field runs high because of the annual interscholastics, Greg has been an active competitor. It wasn't until the conclusion of his sophomore year at Notre Dame, however, that he found the distance best suited to his physique. Then, John Nicholson, his coach, who merits an assist in Greg's recent record breaking races, being convinced that lack of height was a permanent barrier to brilliance at one mile, started him in the Central Collegiate conference 2 mile. Rice finished seventh.

Greg Wins in Europe After a Poor Start.

Two weeks later, in his next race, Greg won the National Collegiate 2 mile championship in Los Angeles in the record time of 9:14.2. Since then, except for dual meets or competition in relays, two miles and on up have been his best distances. In them he has established record after record, including a victory in the 1938 National A. A. U. 5,000 meters which brought with it an invitation to tour Europe.

In Europe, after losing a short race to Wooderson and being beaten again in Scotland, Rice won five times, including a victory over Mike Szabo of Hungary at 5,000 meters. This should have warned Greg's American rivals. What was more important probably was Rice's refusal to barnstorm last summer. Instead he took an accountant's job for a power company near South Bend. This permitted Greg to continue training under Coach Nicholson, and despite his races Rice has missed only a day and a half from his work since last August.

Victory last Saturday was doubly gratifying to Greg. He was beaten by Mehl in 1938 in the national collegiate two mile when the Wisconsin runner set the record of 9:11.6. A year later Rice regained the title with a mark of 9:02.6. Saturday for the first time Rice passed Mehl on the last lap, his short sprinting stride and early fast pace whipping the man who always had won when he started the last lap in the lead.

Runs Finals 440 Yards in 60 Seconds!

Most remarkable in the record breaking race was Rice's final quarter which he ran in 60 seconds. His last half mile was timed in 2:09.6. Nor was Rice running a paced race except as he paced himself in the early stages. Three others led at various points, but this actually slowed Rice in his preconceived idea of hitting a 67 second a quarter speed after the opening 440 yards.

Coach Nicholson predicted Rice's record race. That seemingly impossible last quarter mile in 60 seconds now has convinced the veteran coach that Greg can lower his own mark.

"The little fellow will run two miles in 8:50," Nicholson said confidently. "He's the world's best."

Crane Coach Defies Jinx on Tourney Jaunt

sectional qualifying tournaments and Crane failed to leap the necessary hurdles therein. Since 1936, tho, the city champion automatically has advanced to the state meet.

Should Crane equal the furthest advance of any other Chicago contender, another chapter will be added to the life story of Edelcup, entitled: "Semi-Final Sam." For six years Sam has coached Crane Tech and six times his team qualified for the city semi-finals, losing every time until this season when Crane defeated Amundsen, 37 to 28, and went on to beat Hirsch for the title, 35 to 23. Edelcup also has coached the Crane baseball team four years and twice watched his teams lose semi-final games.

Took Degrees at De Paul.

Edelcup graduated from the American College of Physical Education in 1927, received a bachelor of science degree at De Paul university in 1931 and a master's degree at De Paul in 1938. Before assuming his present job he coached six years at Hibbard Junior High school where his teams entered four final playoffs. Three times Hibbard was runner-up, but managed to win the city title in 1928.

In addition to winning the 1940 city senior title under Edelcup's tutelage, Crane also won the University of Chicago invitational prep tournament in December of 1938. In defending its title during the last Christmas holidays Crane lost to Hirsch, and thus had a revenge motif prepared when the same rivals battled last Saturday for the league championship. That loss in the Midway fieldhouse was one of four chalked against Crane in 22 games this season. The others were to Joliet and Waller in nonconference engagements and to Austin early in the league race. Crane avenged the loss to Austin, 32 to 31, in overtime, in a playoff for the west section title.

Slogan Is "Remember Lane."

"If there was any factor more important than others in winning the championship," Edelcup says, "it dates back to 1939 when Lane Tech made a gallant uphill fight to land a place in the state meet. Our motto thruout the season has been: 'Remember Lane.'"

Members of the Crane squad chosen for today's trip follow:

Starting lineup—Bernard Goldberg and Benjamin Erkes, forwards; Edward [Whitey] Zubor, center; Roman Wieszczwk and Capt. Buddy Burrows, guards.

Reserve team—Albin Wojorowski and Frank Stoikovich, forwards; Robert Thulin, center; Walter Dobranski and Bernard Shapiro, guards.

Alternates—Abraham Troop, William Matters, and Bernard Rich.

Zubor, 6 feet 2 inches, and Wojorowski, 6 feet, are the tallest boys on the squad. Two of the starters, Goldberg and Erkes, stand only 5 feet 7 inches. Consequently the team will depend on speed and a fast break to offset a handicap in height.

Following the Crane-Champaign game tomorrow Beardstown and Salem will clash at 11 o'clock to complete the morning schedule. The afternoon session, starting at 2 o'clock, pits Herrin vs. Bloom of Chicago Heights, Paris vs. Taylorville, and Casey vs. Moline. The first round will be completed with three games tomorrow night, beginning at 7 o'clock, with Lewistown opposing Hebron, Dundee meeting Rushville, and Granite City playing Streator.

Menasha Five Accepts Bid to Loyola Tourney

A third entry in the seventeenth annual national interscholastic basketball tournament was received yesterday when St. Mary's High school of Menasha, Wis., accepted its invitation. Central Catholic High school of Fort Wayne, Ind., defending national champion and present state champion, and Trinity High school of Bloomington, Illinois state champions, already are entered.

St. Mary's, with an enrollment of only 159 boys, presents a formidable record with 19 victories in 23 starts. The team last week won its second successive Fox River Valley conference championship and then defeated Aquinas High of La Crosse, 36 to 29, to win the St. Norbert college invitational tournament.

The Wisconsin school boosts a veteran quintet averaging six feet. Capt. William Resch, high scorer in the Valley league, set a scoring record for the conference when he tallied 36 points in the final league game against St. Mary of Oshkosh. Resch's running mate at guard is Sylvester Burghardt, while rangy Farnham Johnson, runnerup in league scoring, plays center. Norman Griesbach and Jerome Schuler, forwards, complete the starting five.

St. Mary's coach, Robert Zuercher of Park Ridge, a graduate of Creighton, returns to Loyola gymnasium where he once played as a member of the St. George High of Evanston quintets in the Chicago Catholic league. He coached the Creighton freshmen for three years before going to St. Mary's.

This marks the Zephyrs' fourth year in the national tourney, the school having been represented in 1934, 1935, and 1938. As yet, however, it never has been able to get beyond the first round.

The meet opens for five days on March 27 in the Loyola alumni gymnasium.

Oshkosh Whips Akron, 60-46, in Playoff Game

Oshkosh, Wis., March 12 Special.]—The Oshkosh All-Stars whipped Akron Firestones, 60 to 46, in the second of a five game series for the national professional basketball title here tonight. It was the All-Stars' second victory in two games. With its two game handicap, Oshkosh will invade Akron Thursday for the third game. If the Stars win, the national championship will come to Oshkosh, but should they lose, the fourth game will be played Friday at Akron. If a fifth is necessary it also will be played there.

DEMAND INQUIRY INTO SPYING BY FEDERAL POLICE

Committee Says Wire Tapping Is Growing.

Washington, D. C., March 12 (AP).—Warning against a recent resurgence of a spy system conducted by government police, the senate committee on interstate commerce asked the senate today for authority to investigate wire tapping by public or private agencies.

Wire tapping and eavesdropping by means of voice recording devices are especially dangerous at the present time, the committee reported, because of the revival of the spy system.

"Persons who have committed no crime, but whose economic and political views and activities may be obnoxious to the present incumbents of law enforcement offices, are being investigated and cataloged," the committee advised the senate.

Assails FBI Activity.

Altho the committee did not refer specifically to any police agency in its report, it included an indirect reference to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Chairman Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] told reporters the committee had the FBI—among others—in mind when it said that the most fundamental civil rights had been violated in several instances by law enforcement agencies within the last six months.

In particular, Wheeler said, the committee had reference to actions of the FBI in arresting a number of persons in Detroit during an investigation of recruiting for the Loyalist army in Spain.

Wire Tapping Increasing.

Senator Theodore F. Green [D., R. I.], author of the investigation proposal, expressed the opinion that the committee report gave added weight to the arguments for an investigation. He proposed the inquiry, he said, primarily because of a belief that private tapping of the wires of public officials was increasing.

Wire tapping consist of listening in on the telephone and other communication lines.

Green expressed the hope that, if the inquiry was voted by the senate, it would be headed by some one practiced in dealing with reluctant witnesses. Green is not a member of the interstate commerce committee and would not be eligible to conduct the investigation.

Meanwhile, Senator George W. Norris [Ind., Neb.] said that so far as the Detroit arrests were concerned he would prefer that they be investigated by the department of justice.

"We're too close to a presidential election to expect a fair investigation by congress," the Nebraskan added. "A congressional investigation would become a basket in which many people will try to get some partisan advantage."

CURB ON POWER OF BUROCRACY URGED BY BAR

Further measures to curtail the wide powers now enjoyed by the many government burocracies were recommended yesterday by the Chicago Bar association. None of the agencies was mentioned by name. Legislation designed to curb such unlimited authority is pending before Congress.

The bar association report, prepared by the committee on administrative law and approved by the bar association board of managers, recommends several changes.

Chief of these is the suggestion that so-called trial examiners be organized as an independent body and not associated with the various boards as at present.

"Such examiners," the report said, "should be selected for general competence, be adequately paid, and protected by long terms in office. Trial examiners should be available for proceedings in all designated agencies and not confined to any single board.

"The value of administrative process in government is recognized. But the necessity for having the facts determined with practical finality by the agency which is in control of the prosecution is not recognized.

"When a prosecuting agency with its own staff determines the facts upon which the agency bases its orders, the proceeding does not command confidence."

BLACK HORSE TROOP PLANS ANNUAL SHOW

The annual show of the 2d squadron, 106th cavalry, Illinois National Guard, better known as the Black Horse troop, will be held March 30 in the new 122d Field Artillery armory at Chicago avenue and Seneca street. Receipts from admission help maintain the troop.

The program includes a demonstration by 10 ton cavalry armored cars, an exhibition by the squadron, and band in dress uniform, a polo game between the Black Horse squadron and the Black Horse troop of Culver Military academy, riding by the squadron's "cossack" unit, and an exhibition by Maj. I. L. Kitts of Culver, member of the United States Olympic equestrian team, on his horse, American Lady.

Twenty vacancies which existed in the squadron two weeks ago have been filled, bringing the two troops up to a strength of 66 men each, in addition to a band of 30 men. Capt. Roy D. COUNTY OBJECTS TO A CITY DUMP NEAR PARK RIDGE

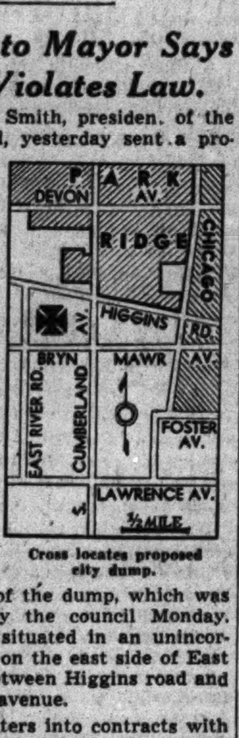
Protest to Mayor Says Plan Violates Law.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, yesterday sent a protest to Mayor Kelly and the city council over the city's recently announced plan to establish a garbage and refuse dump in Leyden township near Park Ridge.



Cross locates proposed city dump.

Hundreds of residents of the suburbs have protested against establishment of the dump, which was authorized by the council Monday. It would be situated in an unincorporated area on the east side of East River road between Higgins road and Bryn Mawr avenue.

The city enters into contracts with landowners for such dumps, paying them according to the amount of refuse dumped. Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, said last night that the dumping ground in question would in reality be a sanitary fill. He said that garbage constitutes only 12 to 15 per cent of city refuse.

Violates County Ordinance.

Smith wrote that the dump would violate the county's interim zoning ordinance, passed on March 4. He called upon the city to coöperate with the county board in preventing establishment of such nuisances. Smith's letter did not mention the stench and ravenous rats always present at such a dump, but Park Ridge citizens have done so, emphatically.

Plans for enforcing the interim ordinance were made yesterday at a meeting attended by Smith, Robert Kingery, head of the Chicago Regional Planning association; Maj. George Quinlan, county highway superintendent; E. J. Howard, auditor, and Commissioners Maurice Kavanagh and John Traeger Jr. Maintenance patrolmen of the county highway department are charged with enforcing the ordinance.

The interim ordinance will be in force until the permanent zoning ordinance is adopted after public hearings in each township. These hearings are expected to take about three months.

Cites Paragraph of Law.

Smith cited this paragraph from the interim ordinance:

"Hereafter, outside the corporate limits of any city, village or incorporated town, it shall be unlawful to establish any new business, trade or industrial use [including dumps, auto wrecking yards and storage uses] except on or within 200 feet of the site of a use of the same general class or character existing on this date. Dumps and auto wrecking yards shall be deemed to be of a different class than auto service stations and grocery stores."

It was decided to establish an office immediately in the Burnham building, 160 North La Salle street, where applications for approval of new building construction can be made. The fee will be $2. Investigators will determine if water supply and sewage treatment facilities meet state health standards.

CHAPLAINS TELL ABOUT WORK IN 6TH CORPS AREA

Chaplains of the 6th corps area in their fourth annual conference at area headquarters in the Chicago Postoffice building yesterday learned of some of the effects of character building enterprises which they sponsor in Civilian Conservation corps and army camps. Chaplain Roland Bach, resident 6th corps chaplain, reported that enrollees and enlisted men rate higher in health than men of the same ages in other occupations.

Chaplain W. Carl Satre told the conference that chaplains are the truest of all pacifists; that they are men of God who bring all spiritual aid and comfort possible to the men in the war services under conditions of either war or peace.

Fifty-seven chapels have been set up in the Sparta, Wis., CCC area without expense to the government and during enrollees' leisure hours according to Chaplain Ralph M. Dean. He said no voluntary projects in the camps have been undertaken with greater enthusiasm.

SON LOSES FIGHT FOR NEW ESTATE ADMINISTRATOR

Judge John F. O'Connell in Probate court refused yesterday to revoke the appointment of Public Administrator Martin J. O'Brien as administrator of the estate of Willis L. Lincoln, retired real estate dealer, who died in 1938. The death of Lincoln's wife, Janet, last Nov. 15 disclosed the couple left an estate of half a million dollars.

Willis H. Lincoln.

Because Lincoln's estate had never been probated the public administrator was named to determine what amount of the money was due his estate so that taxes could be computed and collected. In two old wills the couple left their money to each other. Lincoln's son, Willis H. Lincoln, 5214 Woodlawn avenue, was cut off with $1 in his father's will. Mrs. Lincoln was his stepmother.

The son yesterday sought the appointment of a stepuncle, William Krullaars, 6637 Maryland avenue, to manage the estate. Krullaars and a sister, Mrs. Reika Stedman, are believed to be the only heirs of Mrs. Lincoln. Mrs. Lincoln lived in a $5 a week room at 1221 North Springfield avenue.

ISAAC N. POWELL, REALTY DEALER, EX-BANKER, DIES

Set Political Precedent as City Treasurer.

Isaac Newton Powell, who set a political precedent in 1910 by giving the city $289,000 which he had collected in interest on public funds as city treasurer, died yesterday in the Illinois Central hospital. He was 73 years old.

Interest on public funds was an emolument of the office when Mr. Powell became treasurer in 1909. But he had campaigned on a promise of claiming no other reward than his salary and he kept his promise.

Chicagoan for 55 Years.

Mr. Powell had been a Chicagoan for 55 years. He was a power in Republican politics for much of that time, and he was a banker and real estate dealer as well.

Born at Woodstock, Ont., he came here to attend business college. In 1891 he became deputy city clerk. A party leader in the old 7th ward, he became deputy chief clerk of the election board in 1894 and later chief clerk, a post he held until 1909, when he was elected city treasurer. He retired from the treasurership to become president of the Washington Park National bank.

Puts Life Savings Into Bank.

Mr. Powell was later president of the Ashland State bank, the South Side State bank, and the South Side Trust and Savings bank.

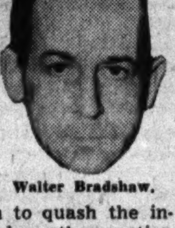
He testified at a court hearing in 1932, after the South Side Trust and Savings bank had closed, that he had given up more than $250,000, his life savings, in an unsuccessful effort to save the bank.

In recent years he had been in the real estate business. He lived at 7612 Phillips avenue.

Surviving are his widow, Gertrude, and a granddaughter, Marguerite Virginia Powell. Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 4100 Cottage Grove avenue.

KIDNAPING TRIAL OF HIT RUNNER SET FOR APRIL 1

The trial of Walter Bradshaw, 45 years old, charged under the kidnaping law with concealment of an infant in connection with the automobile death of Beverly Joan Frank, 5, was set for April 1 by Judge William Lindsay in Criminal court yesterday.



Walter Bradshaw.

Judge Lindsay continued a motion to quash the indictment, but denied another motion to reduce Bradshaw's bonds of $20,000 on the concealment charge and of $2,500 on a separate indictment for leaving the scene of an accident. Bradshaw has been unable to make the bonds.

The child, who lived at 1402 George street, was struck by Bradshaw's car Feb. 29. Instead of taking her to a hospital, he drove to his home at 3644 North Oakley avenue and left her, dead or dying, under a tarpaulin, then continued to his butcher shop at 4204 Lincoln avenue and worked there until he was arrested.

TRAFFIC SAFETY DRIVE DIRECTED AT PEDESTRIANS

A new traffic safety campaign, directed principally at pedestrians, was launched yesterday after a meeting of the city council traffic committee with heads of safety organizations and representatives of the park district, board of education, and Chicago Motor club.

"Sixty-seven per cent of the persons killed in the 1939 auto massacre here were pedestrians," said Ald. George D. Kells [28th] chairman of the council committee. "Many of the victims were elderly nondrivers, members of foreign language groups never reached by previous safety campaigns."

After a survey of fatalities in January and February, aldermen in wards with high pedestrian death rates will be asked to lead the drive.

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an urban superhighway.

PEDESTRIAN HIT AND KILLED BY AUTO IN JOLIET

Jerry Sullivan, 60 years old, a boilermaker, was killed by an automobile last night as he was crossing the street near his home at 821 Cass street, Joliet. The car was driven by Frank Peyla Jr., 18, of 906 Douglas street, Joliet.

State Representative John Kluczynski [D., 4th] of 1754 Garfield boulevard was slightly injured last night in a motor accident at 47th street and Sacramento avenue. His wife, Estelle, was more seriously injured. She was taken to the Evangelical hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 189 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 143 were killed in Chicago, where 4,022 were injured in the same period.

DELAY INQUEST IN VINCI HIT-RUN CRASH KILLING

An inquest into the hit and run death Feb. 23 of a man 65 years old was continued yesterday until April 3 over protests of counsel for Joseph Vinci, 11th ward Democratic worker, and Gus Alex, who have been charged with manslaughter in the case. The inquest was continued to permit further investigation.

The victim, Adam Zabielski, 5256 South Kenneth avenue, was found at Archer and Kostner avenues. A shattered headlight glass lay in the street beside him. Vinci and Alex were seized a few hours later as they were standing in the rear of a tavern at 2501 South Halsted street where Alex had parked his car. A headlight was broken and a fender dented, but both denied having been in an accident.

Harold Levy, attorney for both men, said his clients should be given an opportunity to clear themselves. Vinci was a defendant in the notorious fixed jury vote fraud trial last December.

TWO ARE JAILED FOR DRIVING INTO PARKED AUTOS

Judge Frank Padden in Safety court told two motorists yesterday that there was no excuse for a driver, using due care, to drive into standing automobiles. He sentenced both to the county jail for reckless driving. A term of 10 days was imposed on Bruno Maduzia, 4431 South Drake avenue, who ran into two parked cars March 3 at Kildare and Archer avenues. John Johnson, a painter, 6434 Bishop street, was sentenced to five days. He ran into a parked car yesterday in front of 6241 Morgan street.

FIREMEN TO PAY TRIBUTE TO HEAD OF ASSOCIATION

John Dooley, 5212 Gladys avenue, has been president of the Retired Firemen's association for 20 years. Tomorrow night several hundred of his fellow members will gather in the La Salle hotel to honor him on his 80th birthday.

Dooley was a member of the fire department for 33 years, but his real work, he said, began with his retirement. He not only represents the interests of 700 retired men, 732 women, 150 children under 18, and six dependent parents on the pension board, but he is one of the organizers of the Mutual Aid association, a death assessment group, and since 1894 has been director of the Firemen's Benevolent association. The benevolent association provides for widows not entitled to pensions.

Agile and lean, with laughing blue eyes and the keen brain of a far younger man, Mr. Dooley has been a force in the South Austin Improvement club for 35 years.

WOMAN LEAVES QUARTER MILLION TO TWO CHARITIES

The Salvation Army and the United Charities will eventually share the estate of Mrs. Clara Parmelee d'Aix equally. Her will, disposing of wealth estimated at $245,000, was admitted to probate yesterday. The estate is to be placed in trust, with the income going to several relatives. When the last of them has died the charities will receive the principal.

Mrs. d'Aix was the widow of Frederick C. L. d'Aix. She died Nov. 31 at her home, 307 Melrose avenue, Kenilworth. Her first husband was the late Charles K. Parmelee of the transportation company.

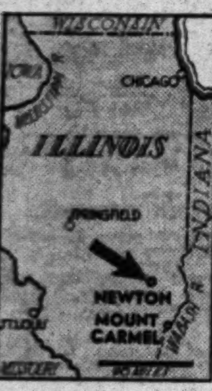
OIL PRODUCTION IN ILLINOIS SETS NEW PEAK RATE

Average at 414,670 Barrels Daily.



Map shows location of new oil pool in southern Illinois.

The largest flow of crude oil ever produced by Illinois wells was reported yesterday by the Oil and Gas Journal for the week ended March 9. Output averaged 414,670 barrels daily, an increase of 10,193 barrels a day compared with the preceding week. The former record was established in the week ended Feb. 24 at 414,470 barrels a day.

The latest week's output of the largest Illinois pool, the Lake Centralia-Salem field of Marion county, was 260,239 barrels a day. Wells in the Loudon field yielded a daily average of 70,888 barrels.

Illinois still tugged at the heels of Oklahoma, threatening the latter state's position as third ranking producer. Oklahoma held its place, however, by boosting its output to a daily average which exceeded that of Illinois by 12,000 barrels.

National Production Gains.

Average daily output in the United States was estimated at 3,826,363 barrels, an increase of 21,398 barrels daily by comparison with the preceding week.

Texas production declined 24,404 barrels a day to an average of 1,472,535 barrels. Output in California, ranking second to Texas in national volume, increased 29,850 barrels to 615,100 daily.

The American Petroleum institute estimated national crude oil production for the March 9 week at 3,828,550 barrels daily, compared with 3,353,000 a year earlier.

The state geological survey at Springfield reported that Illinois oil production in February was 11,606,000 barrels, an average of more than 400,000 barrels a day. Output for the first two months of 1940 was estimated at 22,500,000 barrels.

New Pool in Jasper County.

Olney, Ill., March 12 (AP).—Jasper county had a new oil pool today and prospects of townsite development in Mount Carmel advanced as the result of wildcat exploration for oil in those two areas.

The Jasper county pool opener was the No. 1 Warren consolidated, which Pure Oil officials said was flowing naturally without acid treatment. They said the yield was about 20 barrels an hour.

The well is seven miles south of Newton, about nine miles from the nearest proven area, and is the second successfully completed in the county. It was producing from the McClosky lime.

The anticipated townsite drilling in the city of Mount Carmel was a step nearer reality when oil began rising in the hole at the No. 1 Keneipp heirs, a half mile west of the city, as the well was being completed. Henry Mode, the operator, predicted it would make a producer.

Altho no wells have been drilled in Mount Carmel, the city recently passed an ordinance to regulate exploration.

ENGLAND, FRANCE ADVANCE FUNDS FOR TNT PLANT

New York, March 12 [Special].—The Atlas Powder company accepted loans totaling $1,427,000 from the British and French governments during February to finance the construction of plants for the manufacture of TNT, it was revealed in a report to the Securities and Exchange commission filed today at the stock exchange.

On Feb. 1 Atlas delivered $667,000 of nonnegotiable, interest bearing notes to the British purchasing commission as agent for the king of England. The notes are to run for 10 years. On Feb. 23 the explosives company delivered $760,000 of notes to the same agency, payable $50,000 on Feb. 1, 1941, and $710,000 on Feb. 1, 1950. Two-thirds of each issue was assigned by the British to the French government.

Altho the due dates of the notes are stipulated, there is a provision that the amounts shall become due upon termination of the purchase of TNT or on the dates mentioned, whichever shall first occur.

DOW CHEMICAL TO BUILD NEW PLANT IN TEXAS

New York, March 12 [Special].—The Dow Chemical company is concluding negotiations for the purchase of 800 acres of land from the Freeport Sulphur company on the gulf coast at Freeport, Tex., it was announced today. The tract includes about three miles of water front, upon which the company will build a major chemical plant to cost $5,000,000 or more.

Chlorinated products are expected to be produced, and it is conjectured that the company may produce bromine as well as many other products derived from sea water, salt brine, sulphur, petroleum, natural gas, and oyster shells.

Woman Expert Tells Men How to Run Railroad

A woman's ideas on running a railroad received the attention of masculine experts at the 41st annual convention of the American Railway Engineering association yesterday in the Palmer House. Miss Olive W. Dennis, engineer of service for the Baltimore & Ohio, attended as a delegate, along with 1,200 rail engineers from all sections of the United States.

Miss Dennis, a graduate of Cornell university and a civil engineer, is the only woman engineer who is a member of the association. She is a member of its committee on economics.

Tells How to Attract Public.

Maintenance problems, track discussions, the proper care of bridges and numerous technical subjects occupied the attention of the association's better than 99 per cent masculine membership. Miss Dennis' expressions concerned making railroad travel more attractive to the public, especially to women.

Miss Dennis has held her present position since 1921. She was a draftsman in the road's bridge department when Daniel Willard, B. & O. president, wanted some one with an engineering background who could get the public's point of view in train operation.

Among the improvements which she helped bring about thru suggestions to various departments were more comfortable seats, cleaner trains, lunch counters serving inexpensive meals, stewardesses, darkening of coaches at night, and more tastefully furnished club cars.

Took Jolts Out of Travel.

Miss Dennis also is said to have had a part in helping to take the jolts out of starting and stopping trains. Frequently, she said, the engineer has no control over a sharp stop because of operation conditions. But thru care, she added, many stops can be made more quietly.

E. M. Hastings, president of the association and chief engineer of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac, presided at the meeting. George S. Fanning, chief engineer of the Erie, is scheduled to be elected president today. H. R. Clarke of the Burlington, is slated for the vice presidency. R. V. Fletcher, general counsel of the Association of American Railroads, will address today's session.

FISK RUBBER CO. IS DISSOLVED BY STOCKHOLDERS

Wilmington, Del., March 12 (AP).—Stockholders of the Fisk Rubber corporation, sold last Dec. 9 to the United States Rubber company, voted today to dissolve the organization. The vote was 344,208 shares for dissolution, 100 shares against.

Officers of the Fisk company, incorporated in Delaware, were instructed to turn over the firm's remaining assets and physical properties to United States Rubber.

Today's action was the final step in terminating the affairs of the corporation and removing Fisk's name from the stock list. It was necessary to distribute to Fisk stockholders the cash and United States Rubber stock received in payment for the corporation. Preferred stock had been redeemed previously and was not involved today.

PALEY WILL REALIZE $2,398,100 ON HIS SALE OF CBS STOCK

Amendment filed with the Securities Exchange commission yesterday estimates that William S. Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., will realize $2,398,100 from the proposed sale of his 20,000 shares of class A stock and 80,000 shares of class B stock in the system.

Paley's stock will be offered at the market, possibly today, on the New York Stock exchange, it is anticipated. Average price the company said, will probably be $24.98 a share. Paley will pay underwriting commissions of $1 a share, or $100,000.

William S. Paley.

Harriman Ripley & Co., Inc., filed with the SEC on behalf of all members of the stabilizing group a notice of intention to stabilize the price of the class A and class B stock on the New York exchange to facilitate the offering.

Listed with Harriman, Ripley as underwriters were Lehman Brothers, Glore, Forgan & Co., and W. E. Hutton & Co. The notice was the first filed under a new SEC rule which became effective Feb. 15.

EASTERN ROADS REDUCE FARES IN COACHES MAR. 25

New York, March 12 (AP).—Eastern railroads announced today a sliding cut in round trip coach fares to a minimum of 1½ cents a mile in connection with the 20 per cent reduction in one-way fares ordered last month by the interstate commerce commission.

D. T. Lawrence, chairman of the traffic executive association of the eastern territory, explained the roads adopted a "descending scale," with a 2 cent fare for the first 100 mile one-way distance, graduated downward to 1.5 cents for the longer distances. The new rates both one way and round trip become effective March 25.

The commission's order required the carriers to lower the coach fare to 2 cents from 2½ cents, a rate which had been in effect for more than a year on an experimental basis. Until four years ago the rate was 3.6 cents a mile. Passenger executives said the new schedule will provide close to the cheapest rail travel in history in the eastern territory.

COURT APPROVES PURCHASE PRICE OF N. Y. SUBWAY

New York, March 12 [Special].—The plan for purchase of the giant subway and elevated system of the Interborough Rapid Transit company and its subsidiary, the Manhattan Railway corporation, by the City of New York for $151,248,187 today was approved as fair by Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson.

This decision paved the way for ending a costly eight year receivership and transfer of the properties as part of the plan for unified city operation of rapid transit facilities, scheduled for May 1. The other half of the proposition entails purchase of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit corporation properties for $175,000,000. Court approval is considered merely a formality.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., was reported yesterday to be the only bidder for $16,000,000 of 3⅛ per cent bonds of the Chicago Union Station company, altho officials of the station company refused to say whether there were other bidders. Proceeds will be used to retire 4 per cent bonds. The station company has 48 hours from the time bids were opened to make a decision on acceptance of bids. Sales of the issue was under competitive bidding.

Storage Lard Stock Highest on U. S. Record

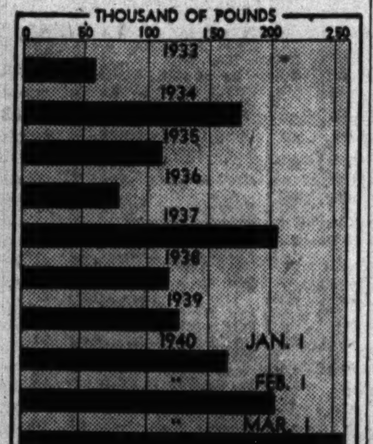
Cold storage plants in the United States on March 1 bulged with the largest stocks of lard on government records, the department of agriculture reported yesterday. On that date 258,029,000 pounds were in store. The previous all-time record was established Sept. 1, 1933, at 224,476,000 pounds, the year the pigs and sows were destroyed by the AAA.

The huge March 1 stocks show an increase of 55,854,000 pounds, or 27 per cent, for the month. They were 95,924,000 pounds, or 59 per cent, above the Jan. 1 holdings, and more than double the 125,281,000 pounds on hand March 1 last year. The total also was more than double the 126,732,000 five year average for that date.

Lard Accumulating Rapidly.

Lard during recent weeks has been accumulating at the fastest rate on record, despite government buying for relief, the low price, and campaigns to promote the use of lard by the public.

Export buying the last few months ran higher than a year earlier most of the time, but the increase in sales was comparatively small in relation to the vast increase in lard production. Lard on hand now is equivalent to about six weeks' current production under federal inspection over the entire country, it was estimated at the Chicago stockyards yesterday. Live stock men said the supply equaled the lard obtained from approximately 7,000,000 hogs of current average weights.



This chart shows March 1 lard stocks since 1933 and holdings for the first three months of this year.

Pork Stocks Increase.

Accumulation of pork was at a slower rate than in lard, altho total pork stocks, exclusive of lard, at 648,225,000 pounds, stood highest for any date since June, 1937. They showed an increase of 59,624,000 pounds, or 10 per cent, compared with the February 1 stocks, and they were 106,087,000 pounds, or 19 per cent, above a year ago. Holdings were only 7 per cent above the five year March average, which stood at 603,700,000 pounds.

Pledges Speedy Wage-Hour Rulings

Col. Philip Fleming (left), new wage and hour law administrator, told manufacturers yesterday he would proceed without delay in giving interpretations of the act. B. J. Cohn (right), clothing manufacturer, introduced the administrator.

Assures Strict Enforcement of Wage Law

Strict enforcement of the wage and hour law and more rapid interpretation of what classes of employés are subject to the act were promised yesterday by Lieut. Col. Philip Fleming, administrator of the wage and hour division of the department of labor.

Making his first public appearance since officially assuming his new post recently, Col. Fleming spoke under the sponsorship of the Illinois Manufacturers' association to an audience of 650 in the Hotel La Salle. Bertram J. Cahn, president of B. Kuppenheimer & Co., Inc., clothing company, introduced him. Col. Fleming had been special assistant to the secretary of labor since last October, and previously served in the engineering corps of the United States army.

Hits Unfair Competition.

Col. Fleming asserted he would enforce the act "to the end that the instrumentalities of interstate commerce shall no longer be used to spread poverty and oppression among workers, thus constituting an unfair method of competition, obstructing free flow of commerce, and engendering industrial strife."

"I hope before long," he said, "to let every major business in the country know as definitely as is humanly possible whether or not we consider their employés covered by the act."

He warned, however, that interpretation by the wage division is merely an opinion: that the courts finally determine the answer to the question.

The division will continue the policy of not issuing an interpretation until after an informal hearing in which all persons affected have participated, he said.

Most Prevalent Complaint.

This procedure will be followed in regard to the most prevalent complaints—those concerning the division's definition of the term "professional, administrative, and executive." These classes of employés are exempted by statute from the wage and hour provisions of the act. "The burden of this complaint," he explained, is that the division has included in the coverage of the act high salaried employés whom congress did not intend to include."

He cited back wages paid employés thru action by the division or thru voluntary agreements by employers as an indication of the accelerated enforcement. These restitutions, amounting to $18,777 last October for the region composed of Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, had risen to $160,009 on Feb. 15. More than $400,000 of additional back wages had been conceded by employers, but not yet paid.

The entire procedure has been decentralized since last October to aid in the speeding up program, Col. Fleming said. It is no longer necessary to clear everything thru Washington. The regional director is now empowered to close cases of violations without court action when the total involved does not exceed $50,000.

CANADA WILL BUILD $20,000,000 PLANT FOR WAR EXPLOSIVES

OTTAWA, Ont., March 12 [Special].—The latest addition to Canada's war industries, it was learned here today, will be a $20,000,000 explosive plant to be established immediately at Parry Sound, Ont. It will be erected by a corporation to be known as Defense Industries, Ltd., a creation of Canadian Industries, Ltd., headed by Arthur Purvis, now in charge of British government war purchases in the United States.

Organization of the Parry Sound enterprise is almost completed and plant construction will be started this spring in expectation of beginning production in the late summer or early autumn. The size of the plant is not yet indicated.

One of the chief products will be TNT of which the principal ingredient, Toluol, is a by-product of coal.

WEEK'S IMPORTS OF GOLD ADVANCE TO 42 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., March 12 [Special].—Gold imports totaled $42,655,946 in the week ended March 6, compared with $23,834,846 the week before, the department of commerce reported today. Silver imports totaled $1,497,269, against $1,158,894.

Principal countries delivering gold to the United States in the latest week were: Switzerland, $8,668,708; England, $5,263,406; Italy, $1,042,394, and Philippine Islands, $2,295,283.

Altho Canada delivered only $360,717 during the week, other parts of the British empire were large shippers. The Union of South Africa delivered $10,269,972; Australia, $3,992,709; British India, $7,236,870, and Hongkong, $2,165,039.

POUND TOPPLES TO NEW LOW ON 'FREE' MARKET

Drop Due to Further Exchange Control.

The price of the uncontroled British pound sterling plunged 9 cents in the New York foreign exchange market yesterday to the lowest level since September. It fell to $3.77 and closed at the bottom. The price compared with $3.86 on Monday and $3.75 on Sept. 18, when the slump that followed the beginning of the war leveled off.

Moving in sympathy with sterling, the Canadian dollar declined 0.37½ cent to 81.87½ cents in terms of the American dollar, and the French franc lost 0.04875 cent, closing at 2.14¼ cents.

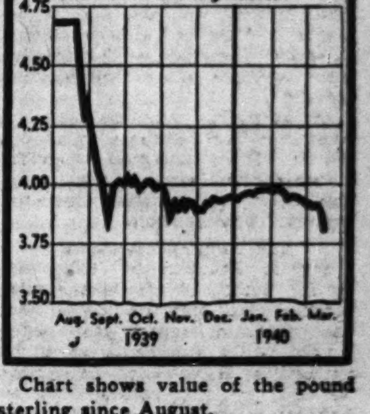

Chart shows value of the pound sterling since August.

Exchange dealers said the uncontroled or free pound crumbled because of a lack of demand resulting from new British regulations against use of unofficial sterling in international trade.

Exchange Control Tightened.

The British government, acting thru the Bank of England, drastically tightened its wartime exchange control by decreeing last Saturday that foreign buyers of English goods must pay in sterling bought at the officially fixed price of $4.03½.

Up to that time American and other buyers of British goods had been buying sterling in the free or "black" money centers at prices determined by supply and demand.

These prices have been running as much as 10 cents below the official rate set by the British government, thru the Bank of England.

The purpose of Britain in trying to curb the free markets is to conserve its supply of foreign currencies used to buy war materials.

American Buyers Affected.

The American groups most affected by the new exchange rules are those which import rubber, tin, and other empire products in large quantities. These buyers will have to cease going to the free market for the sterling with which to pay for the goods.

Exchange dealers expect the free markets to keep drying up between now and March 25, the official effective date of the new control regulations.

The selling pressure which drove the price down was explained as resulting from liquidation by holders of sterling who are looking ahead to an almost complete disappearance of the free markets.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, March 12 (AP).—Finnish-Russian truce negotiations smashed a rise in the stock market today as holders of "war baby" shares hurriedly disposed of quantities of their holdings.

Aircrafts were the chief sufferers, sliding in the last hour as much as 3 points to end the day more than a point below yesterday's final position. Their reaction affected the previously buoyant steels and motors, which slipped and carried rails and coppers lower.

However, the market had sufficient resilience to balance its losses with advances and the averages were about unchanged. The turnover was the best since Feb. 9, with 884,240 shares changing hands, compared with 587,680 yesterday.

Early impetus to dealings was given by rising prices which caused many "short" traders to cover. During four hours the trend was all upward. Several stocks reached new highs for the year. Then came rumors of an armistice in the northern battle area and the slide in quotations.

Farm implement shares, including Caterpillar and Harvester, held their gains while traders watched the progress in Washington of the farm bill with its $923,000,000 in appropriations.

Ending the day with declines were Douglas, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Bendix, Curtiss-Wright, Sears Roebuck, Dow Chemical, American Smelting, Kennecott, American Telephone and du Pont. The last two had reached new year's peaks early in the session.

General Motors, Chrysler, United States Rubber, Allied Chemical, and Kroger Grocery were among those on the upside.

New York Bonds.

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP).—The foreign division continued the high point of the bond market today, with numerous Scandinavian issues pushing up 1 to 13 points.

More reports of peace aims and negotiations in the Russian-Finnish war stirred enough buying thruout the foreign list to lift prices broadly and extend the upward movement in effect in the group since late in February.

Domestic corporate loans were somewhat uneven, altho many trading favorites posted closing gains of fractions or better. United States governments showed a preponderance of gains running to 7-32ds of a point.

Chicago Stocks.

Five new highs were established on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Bunte Brothers shares closed at 18½, up 1 point, and Harvey Hubbell at 16¼, up ¼. The other three highs were set during trading, and the shares closed below the peak. Peter Fox finished at 15¼, up ¼, after reaching 15½; Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett closed at 40½, up ½, after touching 42, and United Air Lines finished at 17⅛, up ⅞, after hitting 17¼. Sales totaled 24,000 shares. Price trends of the 107 issues were mixed.

Bank Stocks.

Bid prices of three issues advanced in bank stock trading yesterday. City National moved up a point, and Chicago Title and Continental Illinois each advanced ½ point. Others were unchanged.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Strength appeared in the market for many classes of hogs yesterday as farmers reduced their shipments to all leading packing centers. Practically all stock of more than 250 pounds weight brought 5 to 10 cents higher prices, most improvement occurring in "lard hogs" of more than 300 pounds. Light hogs were slow and mostly steady.

Sufficient gains were registered in heavy butchers and sows to pull the day's average at Chicago up 5 cents, to $5.05. Top loads of light butchers sold steady at $5.10.

Most steers and yearlings ruled strong to 25 cents higher. Heifers were steady to strong. Beef cows, canners, cutters and bulls sold steady to 15 cents higher. Gains up to 25 cents were posted in calves.

Lambs, yearlings and old sheep sold weak to lower.

COTTON

Liquidation by holders of March contracts carried the price of that delivery off sharply yesterday, but there was good support in the new crop months and the price of the latter was somewhat higher. Closing trades were .12 cent lower to .05 cent a pound higher on the active futures.

Consumption of cotton by American mills in February is estimated by New York Cotton exchange service at 670,000 bales, compared with 730,000 bales in January and 562,000 bales in February, 1939.

Spot cotton closed .01 to .21 cent lower with New York, 10.76 cents; Houston, 10.53 cents, and Galveston at 10.50 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Commodities

Prices of domestic sugar futures weathered a squall of selling by Cuban producer interests yesterday and finished 0.01 to 0.03 cent a pound higher at New York. Sales totaled 16,450 tons.

The world contract made a strong start, but turned spotty later and closed 0.01 cent lower to 0.005 cent higher, with May at 1.58 cents.

Wool tops futures were mixed in their price trends. Silk, rubber, and cocoa were steady to higher. Coffee, Straits tin, and raw hide futures were steady to higher. Spot prices of metals held firm.

FLIGHT BOOSTS NEW AIR ROUTE THRU CHICAGO

Boston, Hartford Leaders Entertained Here.

A goodwill delegation of business men from Hartford, Conn., and Boston was entertained in Chicago last night at a reception and dinner given at the Palmer House by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Steps looking toward strengthening business, social, and recreational ties between New England and Chicago were discussed by speakers at the gathering. One of the major proposals considered was the direct transcontinental air route from Boston and Hartford to the Pacific coast, via Chicago, which United Air Lines is seeking to establish.

Chicago Group Backs Plan.

One of the objects of the New England delegation was to gather support for United's proposal, which is now before the Civil Aeronautics authority. The Chicago Association of Commerce also is backing the plan as part of its efforts to make Chicago the nation's air center.

f....hs

Oscar W. Haussermann, an attorney and president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and a member of the good will delegation, was one of the speakers who stressed the way in which the proposed air route would bring New England and Chicago closer together. He said persons arriving at Boston on trans-Atlantic liners could board a plane at Boston and be in Chicago before the liner could go on to New York City.

Twenty persons were in the delegation. They flew to Chicago on a trial trip over the proposed air route. Haussermann and C. F. Rittenhouse, head of a Boston firm of accountants, spoke for Boston. N. B. Bertolette, president of the Hartford Chamber of Commerce and of the Hartford Gas company, and W. A. Dower, executive vice president of the Hartford chamber, spoke for Hartford.

Leave Today for Cleveland.

Other speakers were Harold Crary, United Air Lines vice president in charge of traffic; Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Leverett S. Lyon, executive officer of the association. Lawrence Whiting, president of the American Furniture Mart, was toastmaster. The New England guests will leave today for Cleveland, O., one of the points on the proposed air line.

The party arrived at the City airport at 3:58 p. m., and was met by a reception committee which included Parks Superintendent Walter Wright, representing Mayor Kelly; John Casey, airport superintendent; E. P. Querl, manager of the industrial division of the Chicago Association of Commerce; J. A. Herlihy, Crary, and R. W. Schroeder, all vice presidents of United, and P. M. Willcox, secretary of the air line.

Other Callaway, Fish members are to become independent brokers, altho several will have offices with the new firm.

Sloan Reports Business Good Despite Industrial Recession

Business is satisfactory despite the general down trend in industrial activity since the close of 1939, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the board of the General Motors corporation, said yesterday in a message to stockholders accompanying dividend checks. The payment of 75 cents a share to 372,000 individuals totals about $32,374,657.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr.

"Since the turn of the year there has been a continuing decline in general industrial activity, chiefly influenced so far as this index is concerned by reduced operations in the steel industry," Sloan explained.

"At the time of this writing, it appears as if the decline was simply an adjustment following the rapid increase in the last six months of last year.

Cites Gain in Inventories.

"Inventories were somewhat increased during that period but not to the point where a major adjustment might be considered essential. The real question that arises is whether the current rate of productivity can be maintained from the standpoint of ability to consume."

Sloan said that war orders so far have not played an important part in the American business situation, being largely confined to a narrow range of industrial activity such as automotive parts, airplanes and airplane engines.

War May Influence Trend.

"Naturally what the future will bring forth in this connection is anybody's guess," he continued. "It will be largely influenced by the character that the war assumes as time passes. It must be recognized, however, that war business in the United States will be limited to the fullest possible degree, due to the difficulty of obtaining dollar exchange and to the fact that it is to the advantage of the nations involved to confine their productivity within themselves.

"In other words, this means that business placed here will largely consist of materials and supplies not available elsewhere. On the other hand, what business is placed will be offset, at least in part, by a substantial reduction in that part of our productivity which normally serves overseas markets."

GRAIN FUTURES PRICES DROP AS TRADE SHRINKS

Wheat Declines Run to 1¼ Cents.

Trading in grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade dwindled yesterday and prices weakened. Traders regarded the political news from Europe and the general run of the crop comments from the west and southwest as too uncertain to warrant taking a decided stand on either side of the wheat market.

Wheat prices swung within a range of about 1¾ cents, with outside interest at a minimum. Closing trades were at losses of 1⅛ to 1¼ cents a bushel. The late weakness was caused by selling induced by peace talk, brokers said.

Kansas, Oklahoma Get Snow.

Light rain or snow was reported in parts of Kansas and Oklahoma, and additional moisture was expected in that area.

The Commodity Credit corporation reported that 133,000,000 bushels of wheat was pledged for loans at the close of business on Feb. 29, a decrease of about 4,500,000 bushels, compared with the total at the end of the preceding week.

Despite the fairly liberal moisture received in the main winter wheat belt during the last two months, precipitation since Sept. 1 remains far below normal.

Corn and other grain weakened in sympathy with wheat. Corn lost ¼ to ⅝ cent and oats declined ⅛ to ⅝ cent a bushel.

The Commodity Credit corporation announced that farmers had pledged 227,000,000 bushels of corn as security for government loans at 57 cents a bushel up to March 8. This is an increase of 17,000,000 bushels within a week.

Extend Subsidy Program.

Washington, D. C., March 12 (AP).—The department of agriculture announced today that its wheat export subsidy program would be extended to include shipment of grain from the Pacific coast to European destinations. Since last Jan. 19, subsidies have been paid only on wheat shipped from the Pacific coast to the Philippine Islands, Hongkong, and China.

Business Bits

J. J. McLhinney, manager of the Continental Can company's Clearing plant, yesterday was elected president of the Clearing Industrial association. Other new officers chosen are J. G. Carr, president of the Walter H. Schenk Lumber company, first vice president; Harry Fante, vice president of the Great Lakes Spring corporation, second vice president, and D. P. Wells, superintendent of the Clearing Industrial District, Inc., secretary treasurer.

J. J. McLhinney.

S. Joseph Rasmussen on April 1 will mark 50 years of service in the shipping department of Wilson Brothers, men's furnishings company at 528 South Wells street. Head of that department for 45 years, he started with the organization as an errand boy.

The River Forest State bank yesterday announced the election of Walter W. Meyer as president, taking the place of F. C. Pilgrim, who resigned. The bank's business has grown to such an extent that the directors decided a full time president was advisable. Pilgrim will continue as a director.

Dr. Alfred P. Haake, managing director of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, will speak on "A Recent Business Experiment Under Democracy" at a luncheon meeting of the Executives' Club of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman on Friday.

R. C. A. TELEVISION RECEIVER PRICE IS REDUCED $200

New York, March 12 (AP).—Radio Corporation of America announced today a $200 reduction in the price of television receivers, an increase in the National Broadcasting company's picture program schedule, and plans for a relay to link New York and Philadelphia.

Altho the announcement did not mention this point, it was learned that a refund probably would be made to purchasers of receivers at the original price.

The announcement was made at a meeting of dealers at which plans were discussed for a campaign to put 25,000 receivers in New York area homes within the next 12 months, compared with 1,500 to 2,000 sets in operation now.

The price cut would reduce the $600 receivers with an 8 by 10 inch screen to $395 and other models in proportion. Installation costs also are to be lowered. The television network to Philadelphia, it was stated, would be a start toward linking other nearby cities. Among cities which may be included later would be Washington, to permit televising of the next presidential inauguration.

Day by Day on the Farm

Grapevines Pruned.

March 12, 1940.

GRAPEVINES at the Du Page county farm were given their annual pruning last week. The vines always are trimmed in the early spring when the wood is not frozen and before the sap begins to flow freely. Vines set in a new vineyard in the spring of 1936 have been pruned each year since. Last year the 156 vines in this vineyard produced 36 bushels of grapes.

The vines are trained on wire trellises made with three strands of No. 9 fencing wire strung on steel posts. Each vine is trimmed to leave six canes of year old wood, one running in each direction along the three wires. Six to eight buds are left on each cane, making an average of about 40 buds per vine.

Stimulate New Growth.

The object is to stimulate new wood growth to provide for the next season's crop. Grapes grow on leafy shoots that come out from buds on year old wood. Unless the vines are pruned each year there usually is too much old wood for good crops of fruit to form.

Some old vineyards on the farm that had not been pruned for several seasons were trimmed back in the spring of 1938 with the idea of reducing gradually the amount of old wood and eventually having only short stumps of the original large vines and then leaving six of the year old canes each year. Two rows were left unpruned for comparison.

The only grapes on the farm that year were on the two rows of old vines that were not pruned. A killing frost in May ruined all the other grapes, but a few bunches on these old vines, protected by the abundance of old wood and the foliage, escaped.

All the old vines were pruned back to six canes each last year, including the two rows that had been left the year before. These two rows made only a few bunches of grapes last summer. The vines that had been cut back part way the year before had a fair crop and the grapes were large and of fine quality, but none of the old vines produced as many grapes as they had in previous years when they were not pruned at all.

Severe Pruning Cuts Crop.

The gardeners say that old grapevines that have been neglected may be cut back gradually until they can be trained to six canes of new wood each year, but that pruning them severely the first season usually ruins the chances for a good crop of grapes that year. Experience at the farm indicates that pruning easily may be overdone.

Beginning next year the vines in the new vineyard may be left with about 10 buds to each cane, or 60 buds to a vine, instead of 40. The men think the vines would bear more grapes if not cut so short. The main reason for snipping the vines back to 40 buds each is to produce larger grapes.

EGGS FOR FUTURE DELIVERY REACH NEW YEAR'S PEAK

Butter Supply Is Smallest for March 1 Since 1936.

Egg futures prices climbed yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, the April contract establishing a new 1940 high mark and the March and October deliveries equaling previously recorded peaks for the season.

The April future finished at the day's top of 17.55 cents a dozen, compared with 17.50 cents on Monday. October eggs reached 18.90 cents, but eased to 18.80 cents at the close for a gain of 0.10 cent. The March contract finished 0.15 cent higher at 17.50 cents, the day's peak.

Cash Market Strengthens.

Strength in the cash market, where offerings were light, helped to account for the advance in futures. For the first time since Feb. 24 the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation made no purchases of eggs in its price pegging program.

Butter futures turned irregular, the March contract closing 0.05 cent a pound lower at 27.40 cents and the November future showing a gain of 0.10 cent at 27 cents.

The department of agriculture reported that reserves of butter in United States cold storage warehouses had shrunk on March 1 to the lowest level for that date since 1936. Stocks totaled 18,278,000 pounds, against 92,780,000 on March 1, 1939.

Relief Stocks Are Large.

Included in the latest figure were holdings of 669,000 pounds by the Dairy Products Marketing association for resale or relief purposes, and 1,388,000 pounds held by the FSCC and various states.

The department said the February reduction in butter reserves was 31 per cent less than normal. Traders expressed the opinion the small March 1 reserve was the result of unusually large consumer demand.

March 1 stocks of shell eggs in warehouses totaled 81,000 cases, against 165,000 a year earlier. Eggs moved into storage in February, altho in all but four of the last 25 years the direction of movement has been outward in that month, the mercantile exchange said.

FUTURES MARKET FOR SOY BEAN OIL WILL BE OPENED

New York, March 12 [Special].—The New York Produce Exchange announced today that it will establish a futures market for trading in soy bean oil. A contract will consist of 60,000 pounds of oil, delivered in New York on an F. O. B. bonded warehouse basis.

"Because of the phenomenal growth of soy bean and soy bean oil production in the United States," the exchange announced, "it has been decided a futures market for prime crude soy bean oil should be established."

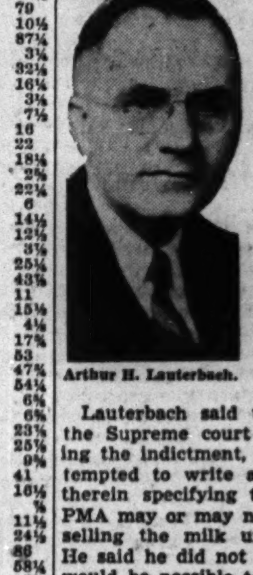
FAVOR SETTLING MILK ANTITRUST CASE BY DECREE

PMA Looks for a Way to Avoid Trial Cost.

The Pure Milk association, bargaining agency for 12,000 dairy farmers in the Chicago milk shed, would like to sign a consent decree to avoid standing trial in the federal government's antitrust case against the milk industry. This was disclosed by Arthur H. Lauterbach, the association's general manager, in his report at the 15th annual meeting of the organization yesterday in the Auditorium theater.



Arthur H. Lauterbach.

Lauterbach said that even before the Supreme court decision upholding the indictment, the PMA had attempted to write a consent decree, therein specifying the things which PMA may or may not lawfully do in selling the milk under its control. He said he did not know whether it would be possible to get the department of justice to agree to such a settlement.

Won't Answer Real Questions.

"It does seem that to require this association to bear the expense of a trial cannot possibly, regardless of whether it wins or loses, result in any satisfactory answer to the real questions at issue," Lauterbach said.

Total milk sales by PMA members in 1939 amounted to 1,140,275,160 pounds, with a gross value of $19,263,233, according to the annual report of F. J. Knox, sales director.

Bernard F. Beach of Detroit, Mich., secretary and manager of the Michigan Milk Producers' association, warned in his address at the afternoon session that coöperatives should avoid setting the price of milk so high that consumers won't buy it.

Oppose Shifting of Costs.

In resolutions adopted by the voting delegates was one opposing any attempts of Chicago or other cities to shift the cost of inspecting dairy farms upon producers. Another favored legislation which will require the bonding of handlers and buyers of milk. It was stated in this resolution that milk producers have lost large sums of money thru the failure of individual distributors to pay their obligations.

Another resolution suggested legislation by the different states in the marketing area which will permit bonding of milk dealers, auditing of books and records, and, when necessary, the fixing of minimum prices to be paid milk producers.

RE-ELECTION OF 11 DIRECTORS ASKED BY WRIGLEY CO.

William Wrigley Jr. company, Chicago, yesterday issued a proxy statement soliciting votes for reëlection of its 11 directors and the retention of Arthur Young & Co. as auditor. The company's stockholders will hold their annual meeting March 26 in the Wrigley building.

The statement said that total remuneration of $215,101 was paid in the last fiscal year by the company to its directors and officers. This included $4,018 paid in 1939 to the partnership of Offield, Mehlhope, Scott & Poole for legal services. J. R. Offield, a partner in the law firm, is a Wrigley director.

James C. Cox, first vice president of Wrigley, and W. H. Stanley, vice president and secretary, each received $35,040 during the fiscal year, the statement showed.

U. S. EXPORTERS DOUBLE SALES TO SO. AMERICA

January Volume Climbs to 38½ Million.

Washington, D. C., March 12 (AP).—United States exports to South America in January were more than double shipments in January, 1939, the commerce department reported today. It said merchandise sales to Latin America had been increasing steadily since the European war interfered with usual European supply sources for many of the things which Latin America buys.

This January, United States exports to South America totaled $38,566,000, compared with $18,695,000 in the same month last year.

Other Areas Buy Less.

In other parts of Latin America, the increase was smaller, from $20,796,000 in January, 1939, to $27,758,000 in January, 1940.

Compared with December, increased exports also were reported to the United Kingdom, France, Netherlands, Finland, and Russia.

Exports to Finland jumped because of a shipment of airplanes which reached Finland in January. Russia bought more copper and metal working machinery.

No exports to Germany were reported.

BREAD AND CAKES.

I should think that Ward Baking company would have a fairly steady record of earnings because the consumption of bread does not vary greatly with general purchasing power. Do Ward's profits bear out my guess?—J. S.

Answer: The general demand for bread is what economists call "inelastic." Bread is a daily necessity and people as a whole will buy about the same amount of it whether their incomes have increased or declined. This does not mean, however, that a particular baking company will enjoy approximately the same volume of bread sales each year.

Competition is sharp among bread companies and the share of one company in the total trade may vary considerably from year to year. The demand for cakes and pastries is more sensitive to variations in consumer purchasing power.

Ward's sales volume has been subject to considerable fluctuation in recent years. The severe decline in dollar sales during 1939 was attributed mostly to lower prices on bread and cakes. Higher material and labor costs resulted in an abrupt drop in earnings.

Sales, net income and earnings per preferred share in recent years ending approximately Dec. 31 follow:

	Sales	Net income.	Earned per pfd. share.
1935	$32,585,000	$1,016,000	$3.97
1936	35,643,000	1,839,000	7.18
1937	38,449,000	1,141,000	4.46
1938	34,493,000	832,000	3.25
1939	32,150,000	204,000	0.80

Because of the poorer results in 1939, the company directors at the December meeting voted to make no further payment at that time on the dividend arrears of 255,808 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock of $100 par value. The unpaid accumulated dividends on this stock amounted to $31 a share at the end of 1939. The action was necessary, they said, to conserve cash for necessary replacements and plant improvements.

The company also had outstanding 82,975 shares of Class A and 500,000 shares of Class B common stock, both of no par value. The preferred has prior right to cumulative annual dividends of $7 a share. The Class A has second preference to noncumulative dividends of $8 a year, and participates share-for-share with the Class B in any remaining profits. No dividend has been paid on the Class A common since 1929 and on the Class B since 1924.

Ward is one of the four leading baking companies of the United States. It makes bread, cakes, and pastries in approximately 21 bakeries in the eastern and central states. Distribution is largely thru chain and independent groceries and restaurants.

NEAR NORTH SIDE
Why spend time commuting when you can be having a grand and invigorating walk to and from your office? Down here you are near the lake and near so many things you wish to see and hear, and still have a full night's sleep. Top-o'-that, we think our studios and apartments are rather unusual. One has 2 bedrooms, living room, 37 ft. long, with north and south light, fireplace plumb in the center. Others have living rooms 2 stories high, and one is like a little house in a Pomander walk at the second floor level. A few furnished and some marvelous layouts for combination home and business. All on or near North Michigan-avenue, and if you like fireplaces and such things, you'll be just our sort, too.
